This . . . is Argos

Getting up at seven to get ready for school . . . standing in the cold watching a soccer game . . . ordering class rings . . . selling Sunshine candy . . . crying at graduation . . . becoming a senior at long last . . . THIS IS ARGOS

This is a portrait of the perfect student. Believe it or not, it's true.

If it's any help at all, green eye shadow highlights my sparkling, big, brown eyes.

Peg, we don't allow screaming under the trophy case, and you know we always obey the rules.

I didn't know cows gave chocolate milk. I wonder if it was a brown cow that did it.

Talk about the blahs, man they've got it . . . This is a typical Argos happening.

I bet I know what's in the box. I bet it is a big brown toad with warts all over its body.

A time of life that comes but once

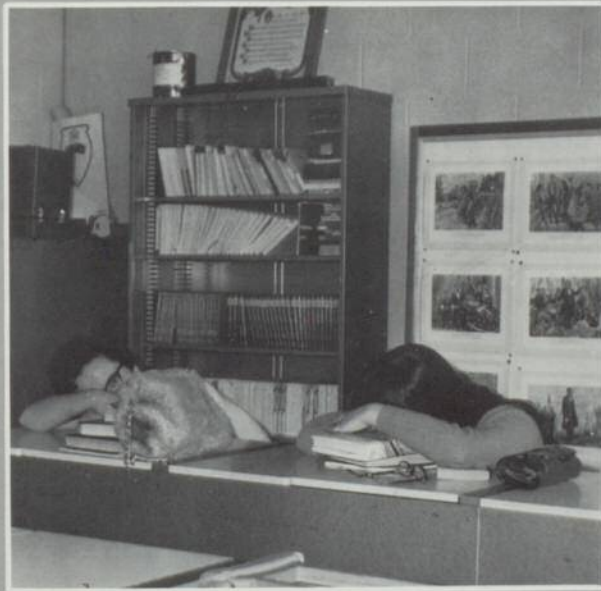

What's it like being a student these days? The older generation is always telling you that it's the best time of your life, but what's so great about getting up at seven on a cold winter morning and waiting for a bus that's 20 minutes late? It's well known that everybody loves staying up all night doing a term paper that's due the next day.

Years from now when we're old and gray, we'll think of the friendships that were formed, and the pride we felt when report cards came out with all A's and B's. If you stop and think about it, school's not really too bad.

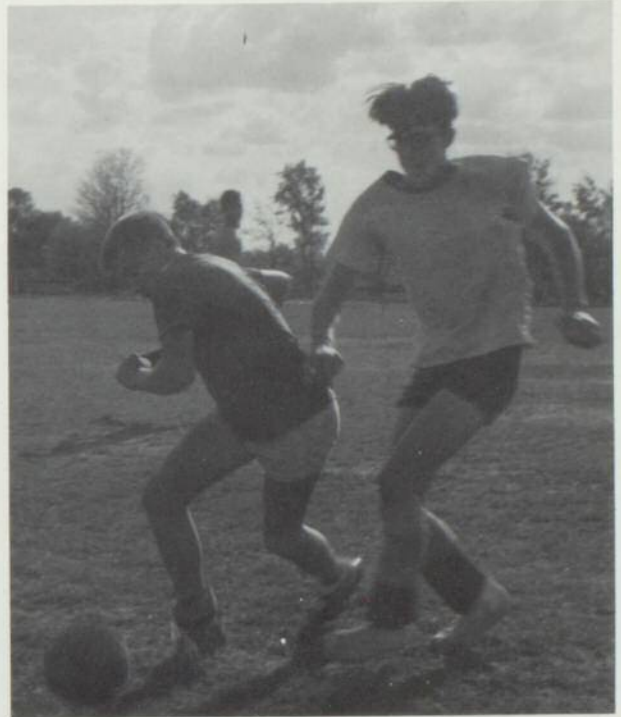

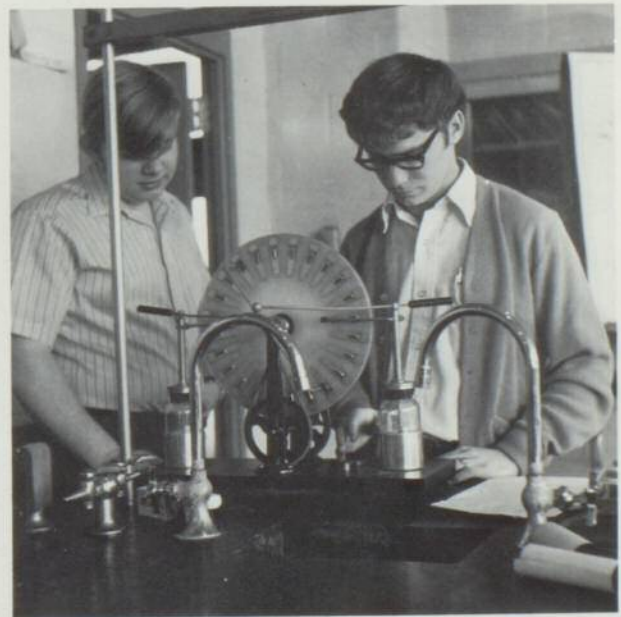

What would it be like to be buried in a mountain of popcorn and be forced to eat yourself out?

This is what you do when you haven't any ambition but a lot that needs to be done.

I bet I beat you even if you are bigger than I.

Isn't it great being a physics student and learning how all those neat thig-a-ma-jigs work.

A dream comes true for Peg

Janis Van Der Weele and Linda Roberts were chosen first and second runners-up, respectively.

John adds the crowning touch to the evening.

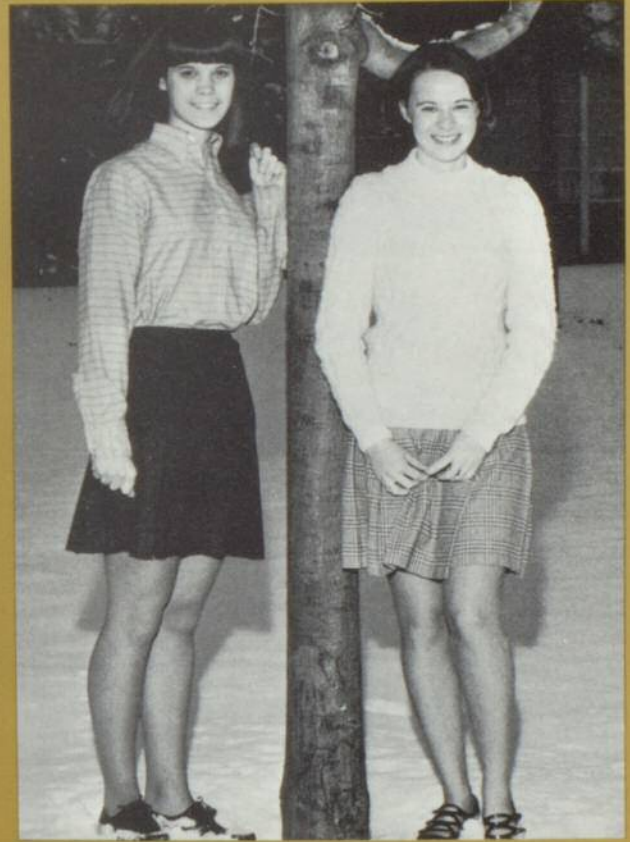

In an atmosphere of tension and tears, the 1969 Homecoming festivities got under way. Peggy Becker was crowned the Homecoming Queen by Student Council president, John Bernero. Three of the eight candidates making up the court were sisters.

Peg was awarded a kiss and a bouquet of red roses by the captain of the basketball team, Don Thompson. She then was escorted to her throne where she reigned over the remaining activities.

Queen Peg is caught while resting between classes.

Dianne Roberts and Rosemand Bailey enjoy the brisk, winter air.

Sophomore, Vickie Calhoun and Freshmen Denise Martens and Pam Roberts are caught in the act of dling research in the library.

Juniors are successful in first play

The Junior class presented "The Hoosier Schoolmaster", on October 17, 1969, under the direction of Mrs. Phoebe Heishman. The central theme of the play revolved around the problems of a young school teacher in the hills of southern Indiana. His biggest problem is convincing the local people that education is important

Junior High gets exercise at parties

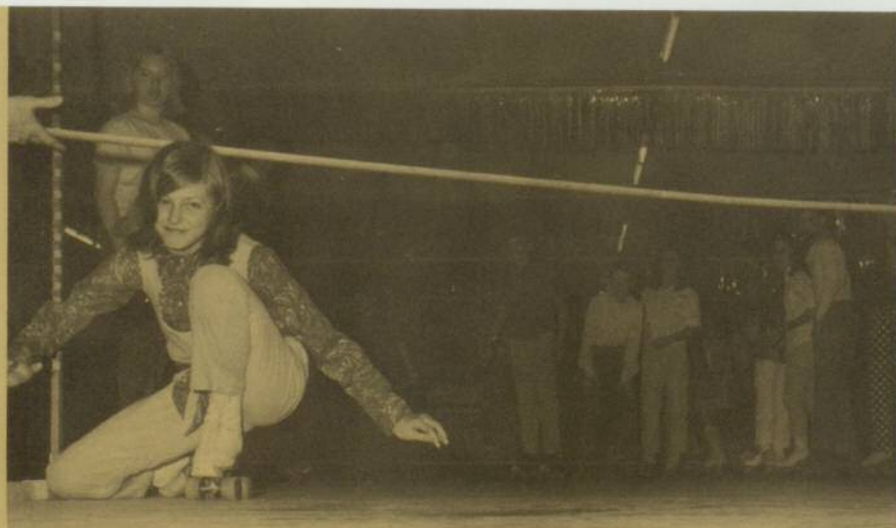

Which way did he go?

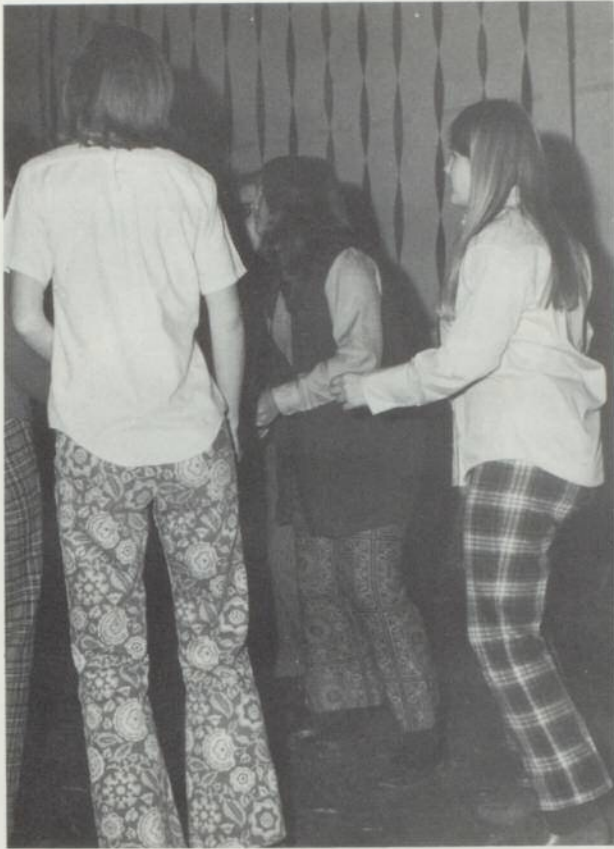

Now's your big chance, Mike, don't blow it. With all that attention, you've got to make good.

With the planning and help of their sponsors, Mrs. Hindman, Miss Jones, and Mr. Weybright, the seventh and eighth grade each enjoyed two parties this year. Both grades traveled to the Rochester Rink for a tumble-filled evening of skating, plus, each class planned a Halloween party that was held at the school. One of the prizes given at the Halloween party was for the most far-out or original costume. Many games were played like the old traditional contest of bobbing for apples.

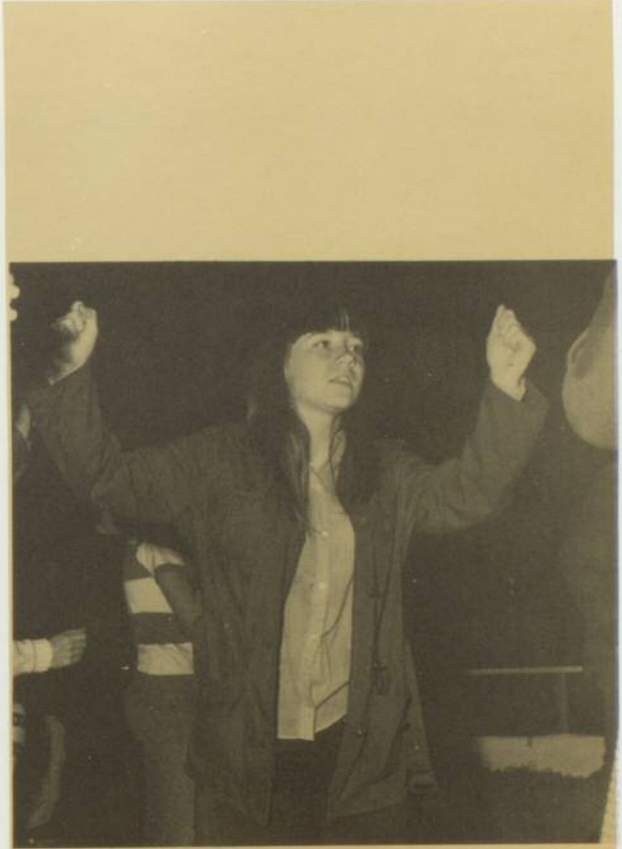

As the pole gets lower, the line thins out, and people realize how agile they aren't.

How about if we all form a circle and do a little square dancing . . . Everybody loves to square dance, right?

Okay Pam, keep your hands up and don't try anything funny 'cause you're covered.

Students visit Snoopy and a carnival

On October 22, the high school students were invited to become Peanuts for the evening and join Charlie Brown and the Great Pumpkin celebrate Halloween. Some of the highlights of the evening were the presentation of the Charlie Brown award, the pie-eating contest, and the analyses by Lucy.

"Step right up and break the balloons" was one of the cries that could be heard at the school on April 10. The freshmen invited the high school students to join in the fun and come to a carnival.

Congratulations Lucy on winning the Charlie Brown award. You're really looking good.

Students are entertained

Janis finds science can be a hair raising experience.

Band and choir combined talents to present the Easter Convocation as well as many other performances.

The New Hope Singers were a favorite with their many songs and pep.

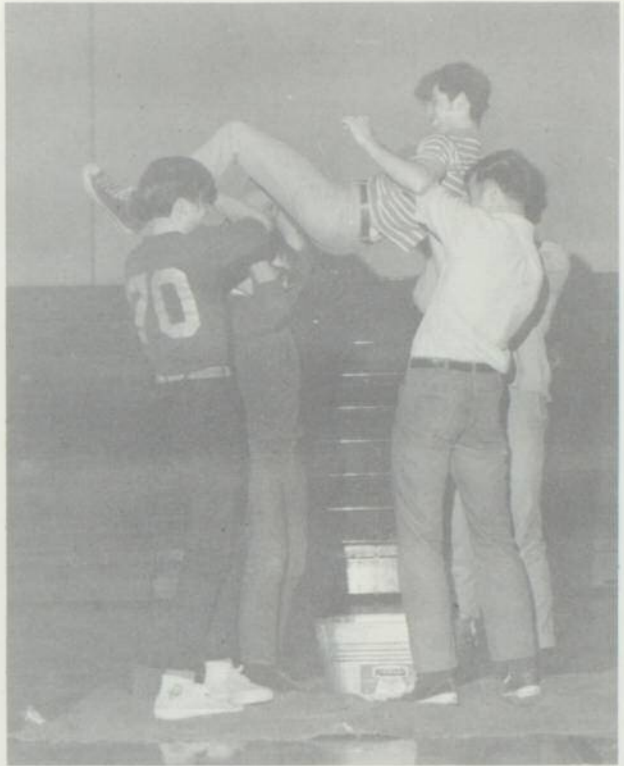

and gain knowledge

The New Hope Singers was the first convocation of the 1969-70 school year. They were followed by Kenneth Goodman, a famous organist. In the spring "This Atomic World" was presented. Mr. Ambron explained the structure of the atom, the use of a geiger counter, and later visited the science classes.

Students again attended the Concert Series at CMA. In the fall selections were heard by the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra. The Paul Winter Consort presented a program ranging from blues to classic. Various fencing styles and the development of stage duels was demonstrated by Rod Colbin.

Student talent and pep was displayed during convocations and pep rallies. Band, choir, and speech class performed frequently.

National Honor Society sponsored a Careers' Day program in April. Mr. Roach served as the keynote speaker during the opening session. Various fields were represented in the three periods that followed.

Fans managed to get Harry soaked when they raised the volume high enough at the pep rally.

Queen Geraldine was chosen over her two lovely rivals. Could it be because of her flair with clothes?

These are some of the busy people who took time out to speak for Careers' Day classes.

Eyes sparkled and dreams came true

"Love Makes the World Go Round" was the theme of the first winter formal sponsored by the Sunshine Society. A band from LaVille furnished the music from eight to eleven that night. Liz Thacker, Peg Becker, and Teresa Voreis headed the decoration, refreshment, and clean-up committees and helped to make it a success.

The lobby was transformed into a "Hawaiian Paradise" for the spring Sunshine dance on February 21. Jill Hooker headed the decoration committee which concocted palm trees and grass shacks. The refreshment committee was headed by Pam Roberts. The Gremlins furnished the music during the evening.

Thanks to all the hardworking Sunshine girls and sponsors who made both dances huge successes.

There were stars in some eyes as well as the decorations.

Carol and Don willingly pose for the photographer at the spring formal.

I wish just once you would dance with me, John.

These juniors take a break. They've got a long night ahead of them.

For one brief shining moment . . .

Steve and Bev seem to be enjoying their last prom.

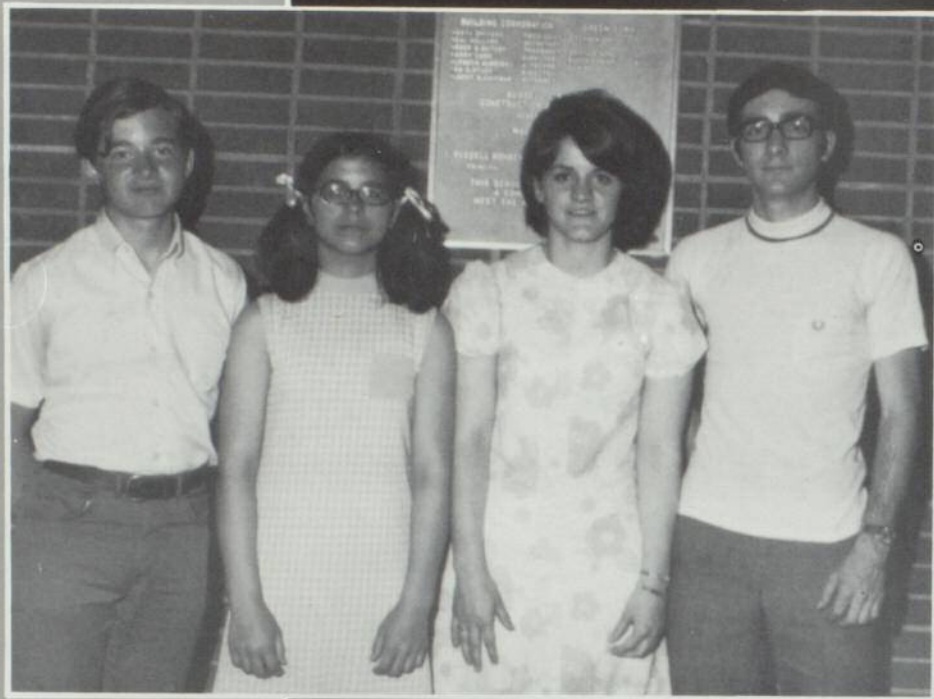

"Papa" Soudah, Mrs. Soudah, and Mr. Soudah all sat at the head table. "Papa" was the after-dinner speaker.

On May 9 junior and senior couples entered the world of 2001 which proved to be an Odyssey of Love. At nine o'clock that evening students entered a lobby which had been transformed by glittering stars, flashing computers, and friendly rockets. The Cambridge Five provided the music during the evening. At twelve everyone was headed for the After Prom.

Thanks to the hard work of the juniors, May 9 will long be remembered by the seniors.

American Legion Citizenship Awards went to Steve Rowe, Teri VanDerWeele, Janet Stults, and John Bernero. Janet also received the DAR Award.

Students' hard work is rewarded

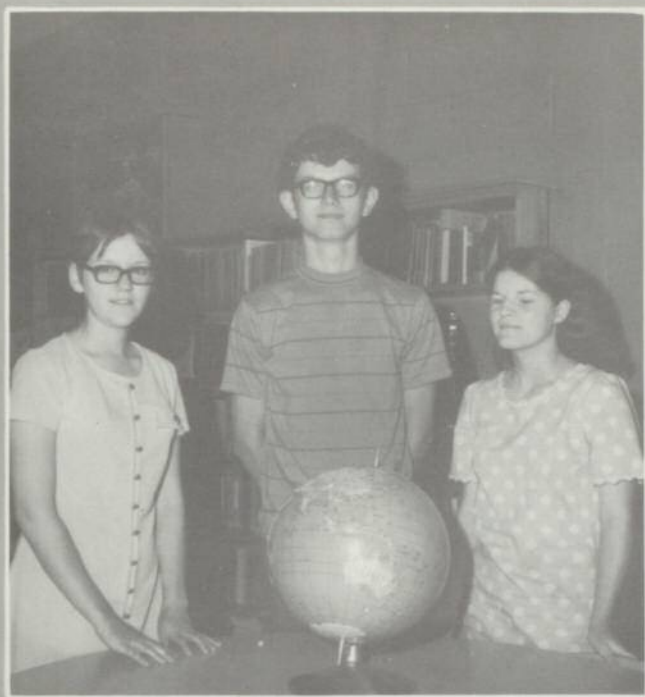

Karen Everdon on the left was the recipient of the School English and French Awards while sister Kathy received the American Legion Language Arts Award and the School Spanish Award.

SEATED are award winners Liz Warner, Algebra II; Nancy Hess, American Legion Math and Science Awards; and Darlene Mikesell, General Math. STANDING are Rich Leeper, School Science Award; Gary Tucker, Geometry; and Randy Warner, Algebra I.

Other award winners included Ken VanDuyne, DeKalb Award; Bill Voreis, Star Farmer Award and School Agriculture Award; Stanley Kendall, Newspaper Award; Carol Roush, Outstanding Staffer Award; and Nancy Hess, Yearbook Award. John Bernero, Don Thompson, and Steve Wagner received Student Council Awards. Other students were also honored.

Girls' and Boys' State delegates include JoEllen Castleman; Mary Bernero, Alt.; Richard Ritter; Tad VanDerWeele; Steve Reid, Alt.; and Paul Baker, Alt.

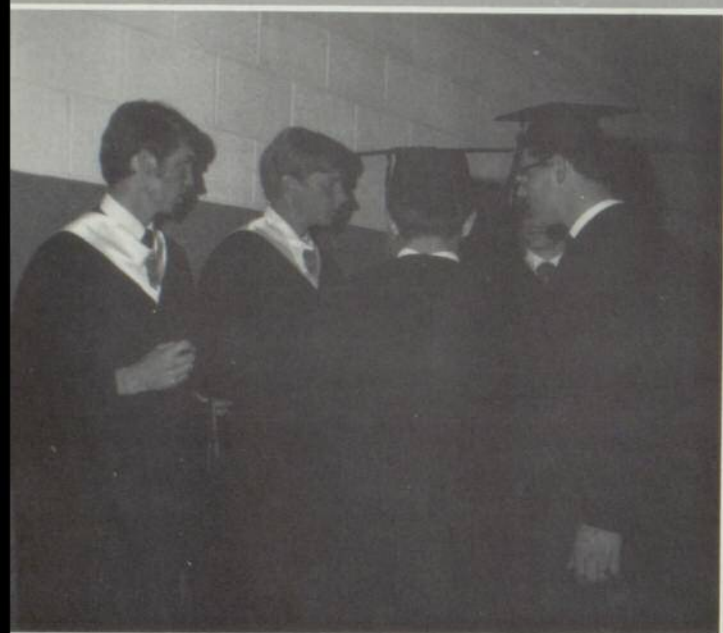

The American Legion Cheerleader Award went to Pam Barger and the Sportsmanship Award went to Harold Graber.

Home Economics winners included Nancy Hess, Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow; Cathy Burkett, Senior Home Economics Award; and Doris Graber, School Home Economics Award.

Fifty-six Seniors

It looks like any other gathering in the hall, but this time it happens to be their last.

I told you I'd make it Allis, but you just wouldn't believe me!

When we walk out of here we'll be alumni. It's somewhat frightening, but pretty great just the same.

Emotions are at a high point as the graduates congregate in the lobby to receive congratulations.

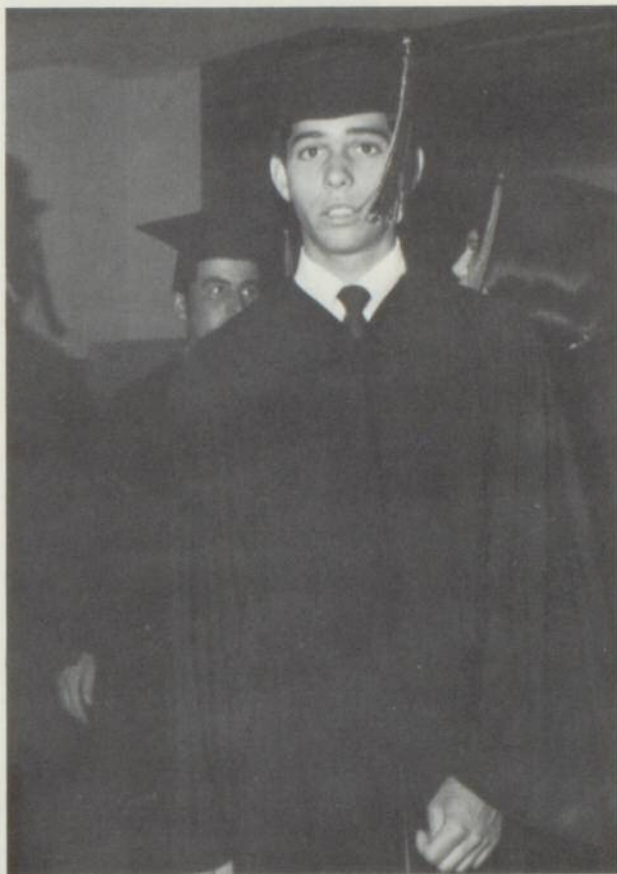

don caps and gowns

May 24, 1970. A day which will long be remembered by the 56 seniors who graduated. It was a day which signified a beginning as well as an ending.

It was the end of short noon hours, over-flowing lockers, cramming for tests, convocations, term papers, and proms. The seniors will no longer be hurrying to their table at noon and the trophy case will pass into the hands of another class. They won't be walking down the not quite wide enough halls next year or starting when the timer blows at a basketball game. And before long, they won't even be missed as other classes come forward to take their place.

Their future is bright! Many of them are going on to college or vocational schools and some have picked up scholarships along the way. But no matter where they are or what they do they will leave their mark on the world.

Graduation will stay in the minds of many. Not necessarily because of the diploma, but because of the wonderful memories it brings to mind.

It's hard to know just how you do feel at a moment like this.

John Bernero speaks on the Younger Generation while valedictorian, Nancy Hess, and co-salutatorians, Karen and Kathryn Everdon, look on.

I had it first. No, you didn't. I had it first, and it's my ball anyway.

Work . . . Work . . . Work. Diane, you say you've got an "Excedrin" headache?

Sweetheart candidates included Pam Weissert; Liz Thacker; Pam Barger, who won; Linda Roberts, 1969 Chapter Sweetheart; and Rosemand Bailey.

Ken VanDuyne, DeKalb Award Winner, is seen accepting the Senior Scholarship Award at the Parent and Son Banquet.

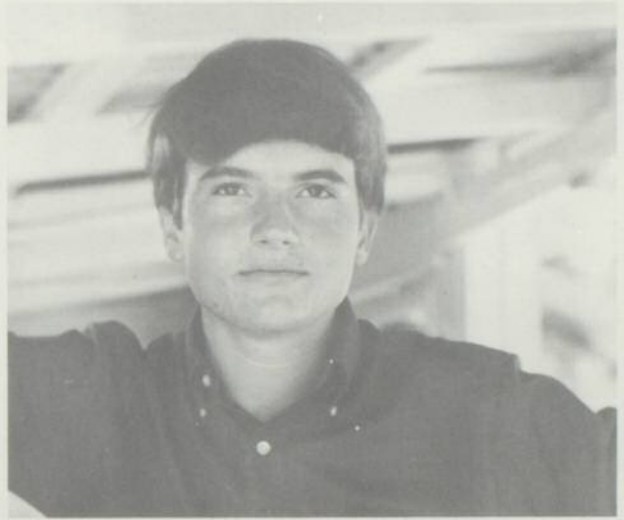

A rendition of "Sugartime" charmed the audience and earned Pam Barger the title of 1970 Chapter Sweetheart.

Achievement dominates FFA in 1969-70

The fair stand keeps FFA members busy during the summer. They also have gone on several field trips and worked on a Foundation Fund Drive to earn money for the FFA Leadership Center being built in Trafalgar, Indiana.

Members also participated in judging contests. Argos Crop Judging teams took first and second place and captured seven of the top eight individual placings at the county level. Roy Edwards was the high individual in the Forestry Judging Contest. Dom Thompson was second high individual in the county Dairy Judging Contest and will go on to district contest.

Thomas Rough was the guest speaker at the Parent and Son Banquet held April 6. Awards were presented to Dan Voreis, Star Sophomore; Mike Houin, Star Greenhand; and Mike Rensberger, Chapter Scholarship.

President Bill Voreis earned the Star Chapter Farmer Award and the School Award.

Hopeful teachers look to the future

FTA members board the bus bound for the trip home from Purdue University.

With the help of two fine sponsors, Mrs. Hindman and Miss Mendel, the Argos Chapter of Future Teachers went into action this year. The chapter planned and sponsored a chili supper, the proceeds from which went into the Scholarship Fund. Adding to the Scholarship Fund is a project that is passed on from year to year. The Fund is set up to aid the most active college-bound senior members with their college expenses. For the past few years the Future Teachers have also sponsored coat checks at all of the home basketball games. At the end of the year, as sort of a reward for all their hard work, the members are given a day off from school to go on an educational field trip. This year the chapter chose to tour the Purdue campus at Lafayette.

At the FTA State Conventnion this year, our local Future Teachers chapter was awarded an Honorary Chapter certificate and emblem.

President Rhonda Arick struggles with a heavy coat.

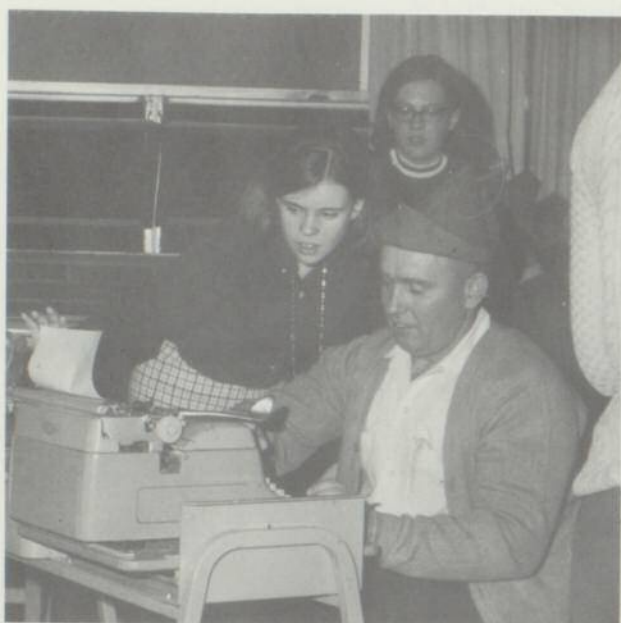

Boy, Purdue's sports arena sure is a big place!

The Chapter sponsored an "all you can eat" chili supper which satisfied many hungry people.

Helpfulness and kindness to others

Vicki's dad learns the basics of sewing during a mad-cap evening of "back-to-school".

This was the first year Sunshine used a point system and chose a Girl of the Month. At the Ideal Ladies' Party there was a formal introduction of each Girl of the Month. The following girls were chosen on the basis of the highest percentage of points for that month: Vickie Calhoun, October; Jo Ellen Castleman, November; Dianne Blocker, December; Carol Blocker, January; Pam Roberts, February; Mary Bernero, March; Roxie Miltenberger, April. For having the highest percentage of points, Dianne Roberts was chosen as the Sunshine Girl of the Year.

The Sunshine girls lives up to their motto 'Others' by donating food baskets to needy families at Thanksgiving and Christmas. They also made favors for the teachers, monthly, and for the Nursing Home, weekly.

The Society presented electric water coolers and a full length mirror for the girls' restroom to the school.

Dragon's roar pictures make headlines

Carol, the editor, soon found that with the advent of the electrostencil, picture sorting became a problem.

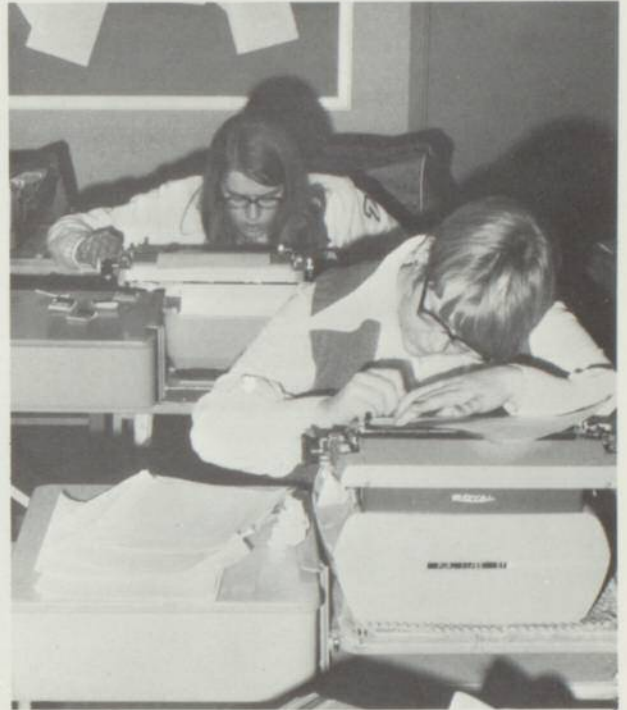

The newspaper had a new look this year. Students were pleasantly surprised by the pictures that appeared in the paper. Representing the students and their activities is one of the important jobs of a newspaper. Members of the staff attended high school newspaper workshops. Rushing to meet deadlines, the paper always managed to come out on time.

Concentrate hard; you don't want to make any mistakes.

Yearbook changes form with duo-tones.

The sound of typing echoing through the north hall on Monday nights, indicated that the yearbook staff was hard at work. The desks in Mr. McLean's room were strewn with pictures, layouts, and copy. The last few weeks were filled with doubts that the yearbook would ever get finished in time. The last page was finally completed with sighs of relief. The staff eagerly awaited the arrival of the finished product.

Hard at work as usual, Pam and Rhonda disturb the sound of silence on Monday nights as they finish another page.

How did I ever get into this! wonders Mr. McLean, the yearbook adviser, as he hopefully awaits the last page.

This year is the 25th anniversary of the Future Homemakers of America, and the first full year for the Argos Chapter. Their objective is to promote communications for the enrichment of human relationships.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Schmidlapp, the Chapter Advisor, and Mrs. Blocker, the Chapter Mother, the members planned a varied program for the year.

Organizations build spirit and leaders

National Honor Society sponsored a Careers' Day this year. Students found it hard to choose only three careers from the wide selection that was offered. The Armed Forces' session was especially enjoyed by the girls.

Student Council worked hard to plan a successful Homecoming. Everyone cheered as Don obligingly kissed Peg again for the photographer.

Pep Club had a new point system this year, and awarded a spirit trophy to the class with the most spirit at each game. Even tears couldn't drown the irrepresible Argos spirit after a losing game.

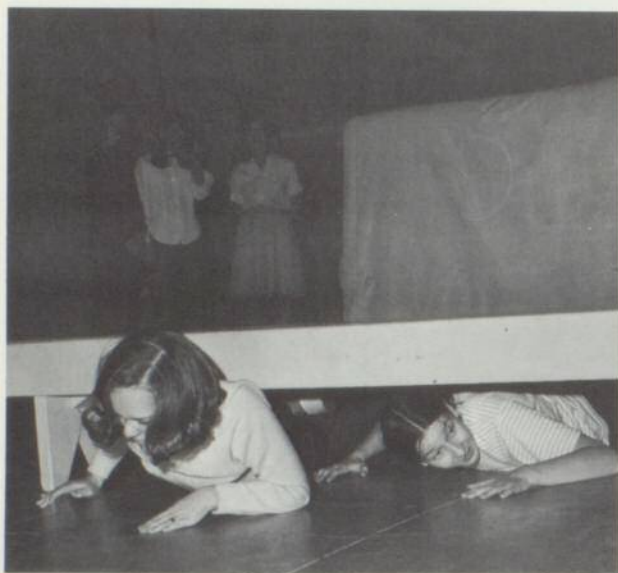

Pep club members are spellbound by a tense moment at a home basketball game.

GAA adds soccer to its schedule

Myrna and Jody discover that in order to be a member of G.A.A. freshmen must suffer through initiation.

Soccer was added to the list of activities this year in G.A.A. For the first time, the teams found out that soccer is quite a rough sport! The Juniors won with a record of 5--1.

The Seniors were the winners of basketball. A record of 6--0 clinched the title. The Senior's team has been undefeated in four years of basketball.

Serving as sports heads were: Cathy Burkett, soccer; Cindy Metzger, bowling; Barb Johnson, volleyball; Linda Palmer, skating; and Carol Roush, basketball.

To help the girls earn points for numeral, sweaters, and plaques; nights for testing were held for the first time this year.

Keeping things running smoothly, and suggesting new ideas was a new sponsor, Mrs. Konnie McCaffree.

Intramurals took over Wednesdays

After an exciting and tiring game of basketball, you're ready to just sit and watch for awhile.

Intramurals was again offered as an extracurricular activity for boys. Intramurals gives guys who don't go out for sports a time to relax and compete with each other in many different sports.

The winners of the volleyball championship were: Jeff Sherwood, Jim Treber, Jim Davis, Larry Rice, and Hank Ghrist.

Dan Becker, Chuck Hagenbush, Dave Patton, Bob Montgomery, Bill Mueller, and Bill Voreis won the basketball title.

At the end of the ping pong tournament Steve Waechter was in first place and Ernie Johnson came in second.

Handball is also played in Intramurals.

Weston looks like he's ready to conquer the world; would you believe a ping pong game?

Bands furnish entertainment

Leading the Senior Band again this year is senior Nancy Hess.

The Senior Band donned new uniforms this year. Among the newcomers to the ranks was the director, Miss Wanda Jones. As in the past, the band performed at all the basketball games and at the three seasonal concerts.

The Junior Band traveled to contest March 21 and brought home a second rating of excellent.

They played "The Stripper", "One, Two, Three, Four" . . .

It's fun, it's work, it's chorus

We really do "wanna go long with you." Whether it be to performances for churches, clubs, concerts, or contest.

The 80 some members of Girls Chorus and Mixed Chorus performed at all of the convocations and at three concerts during the year. Girls Chorus delighted the kids with their multi-colored balloons while singing "Come to the Fair" at the Winter Concert.

Singin' Sixteen rated a first at District Contest singing "A Little White Hen". They then went on to State Contest where they earned another first. "Take Me Along" was almost always requested when they entertained the various local organizations.

Practice is what brings about the final product, music.

The expressions of Coach Snyder and Rich Ritter reveal the tempo of the game.

Cheering the team on, whether it's behind or out in front is an important job of all AHS cheerleaders.

The deciding factor of a basketball game is often the foul-shooting ability of the team.

After a hard run, Harry checks his time to see if he has bettered his record 9:40 on the Argos two mile.

The Argos Cross Country team showed great spirit, but had an unsuccessful season. Harry Potter, the captain of the team, was voted the most valuable member of the team.

Team captures conference and tourney trophies

During its first season in the newly formed Northern Indiana Soccer Conference, Argos had a record of 6--2--1. Mike Sherwood, Don Thompson, and David Patton were chosen for the All-Conference teams. Goalie, Ralph Overmyer, was elected most valuable player by his teammates and David Patton was chosen as captain.

Cramming for an exam . . . going on a field trip to Chicago . . . doing research for your first term paper . . . collecting leaves . . . lugging 10 million books to study hall . . . having three big assignments due the same day . . . passing

No kidding, this is a typical Argos study hall, magazines, and all.

A sit-in? No, just some studious students studying in the hall between classes.

. . . And you learn that it's always acid to water, or is it water to acid? No, it's acid to water.

New horizons are

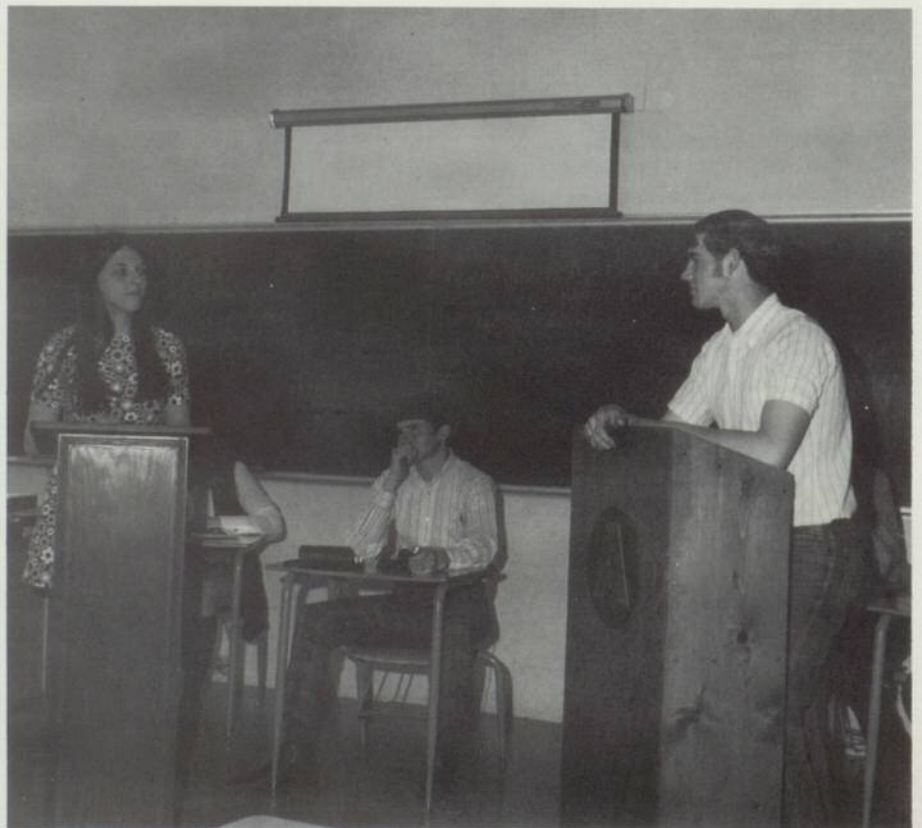

Mrs. Heishman is noted for her distinctive facial expressions!

The Juniors have proved to be a challenge for Mrs. Grossman in their English class.

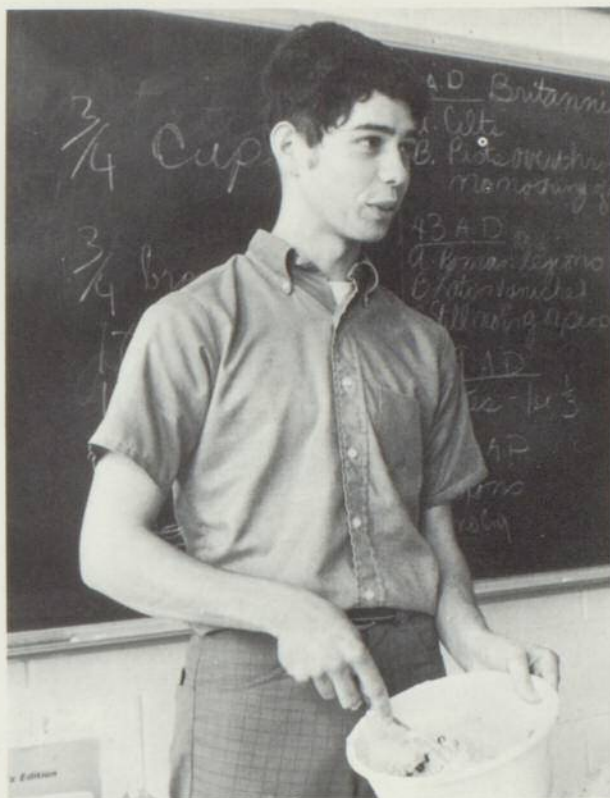

Debate was hard work, but will probably be remembered as a worthwhile effort in the future.

found in English

Along with the usual study of grammar and literature this year, some new twists have been added in the English Department. For instance, in Speech class the students were given several demonstrations on cooking, and believe it or not, the students also experienced an on the spot firing of a rocket by a fellow classmate. In the Sophomore English class, the students were serenaded by Dan Waechter giving a rendition of his favorite song, and they also received boxing lessons from pugilist, Jeff Sherwood, who was seen hitting the blackboard. Part of the Sophomore and Senior classes traveled to C.M.A. to see two plays, "The Importance of Being Earnest" and "Do Your Own Thing".

Some new additions to the English Department this year were Mrs. Heishman, Mrs. Sampson, and Mrs. Grossman.

The use of egg shells, butter wrappers, and fingers were discussed by Harry in his prize-winning recipe.

Selling F.T.A. pies is part of the extra work of Mrs. Hindman, sponsor and Junior High English teacher.

What did we ever do without Mrs. Kessie in the library?

French made its debut in the curriculum this year. Mrs. Ann Sampson taught first year French and English.

A lab was added to the language department this year. It is utilized by both the Spanish and the French classes. The lab enables the teacher to give extra help to the students, and it aids students in pronunciation. At open house the lab was demonstrated by Miss Mendel for anyone to listen to.

As a new addition to Argos High School, French was well accepted. Two classes of first year French were formed.

Miss Brenda Mendel chose Argos for her first year of teaching Spanish.

Spanish students take a siesta!

Being a U.S. History student involves making a report and debating some question left in history.

World History students took turns decorating the bulletin board with original ideas about current news items.

As part of being a counselor Mr. Wysong keeps students posted on activities of trade schools and colleges.

Statements like . . . "The Senate hasn't accepted a supreme court nominee yet," . . . are often made by Seniors. The discussion of current events is always first on the agenda in government and economics.

Rev. Soudah visited the seventh grade history class and told them about the Middle East.

A Senate in our own school? This year the eighth grade elected a President, and formed a Senate to pass laws.

World History students have had a project each six weeks. Projects ranged from papers to acting out plays to do with history.

Girls found that problems such as matching plaids, cutting with the grain, and marking darts aren't all that bad.

Mrs. Schmidlapp, or "Sam", as she was called by some of her students has taught at Argos for three years.

Skills for the future are gained now

With help from Mrs. Redinger, part-time teacher, junior high students found that sewing can be fun.

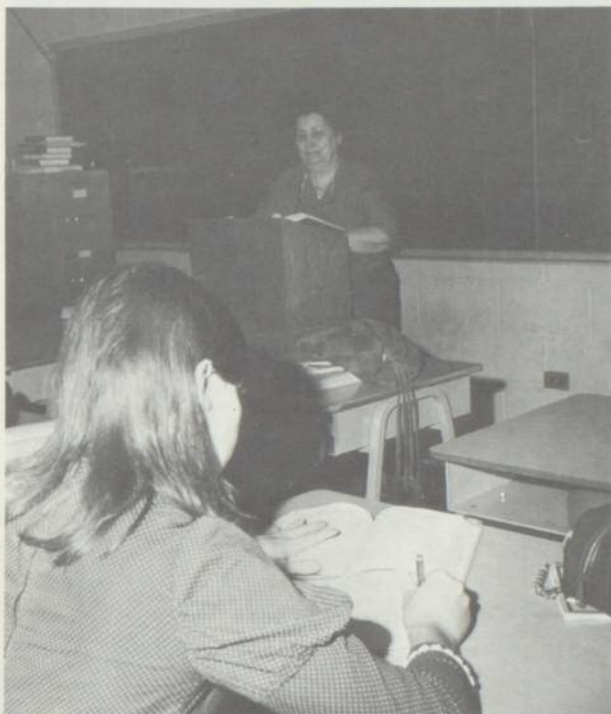

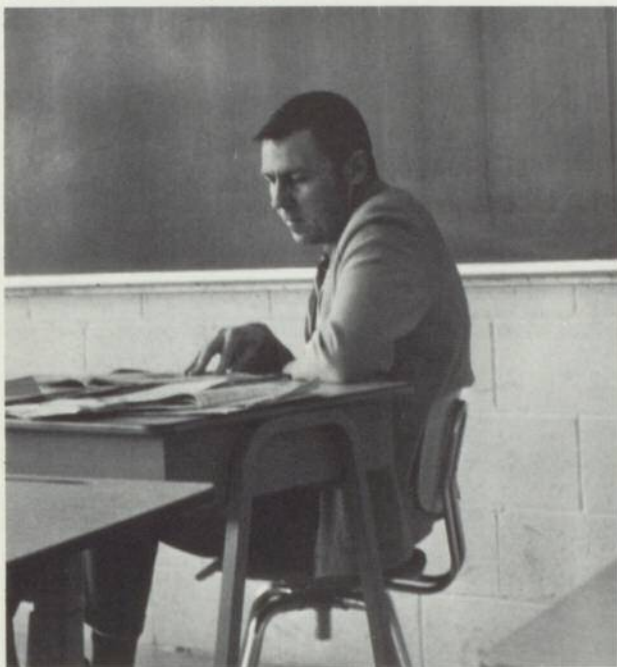

Roger and Chris Roberts had fun even if they were under the watchful eyes of some senior gals.

Along with the proverbial cooking and sewing, girls in home economics classes do many other things. The family living class undertook such projects as planning their dream weddings and taking a survey of qualities looked for in a mate. Juniors found themselves in the midst of color swatches, furniture, etc. as they planned interiors of homes. On May 14 the girls in sewing combined forces to present a style show for PTO.

Students gain valuable knowledge

Business classes aren't all typing, filing, stenciling, and shorthand. Business law students put their knowledge to use when they collected some of the earlier laws of Argos and attended a court action concerning eminent domain. Original bulletin board displays designed by Miss Rhodes, a student teacher, showed the progress of typing students.

Mrs. Metheny, who serves as a SSS sponsor, dictates shorthand during first period each morning.

Mr. Burns taught business law and economics during his first year at Argos.

Typing means, practice, practice, and more practice for Typing II students in order to gain speed and accuracy.

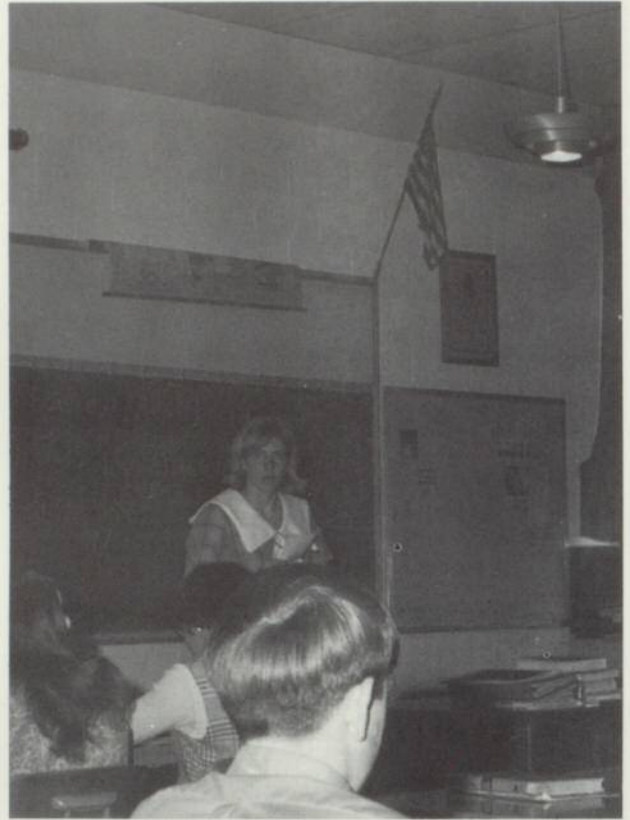

Being able to use an adding machine is a necessary skill for students planning to enter the business world.

The wonders of Cries of 'Will he bite?' greeted Mrs. Lemler as she explained the handling of snakes to the Biology classes.

Mrs. McCaffree introduced the Jr. High to fundamental concepts of science.

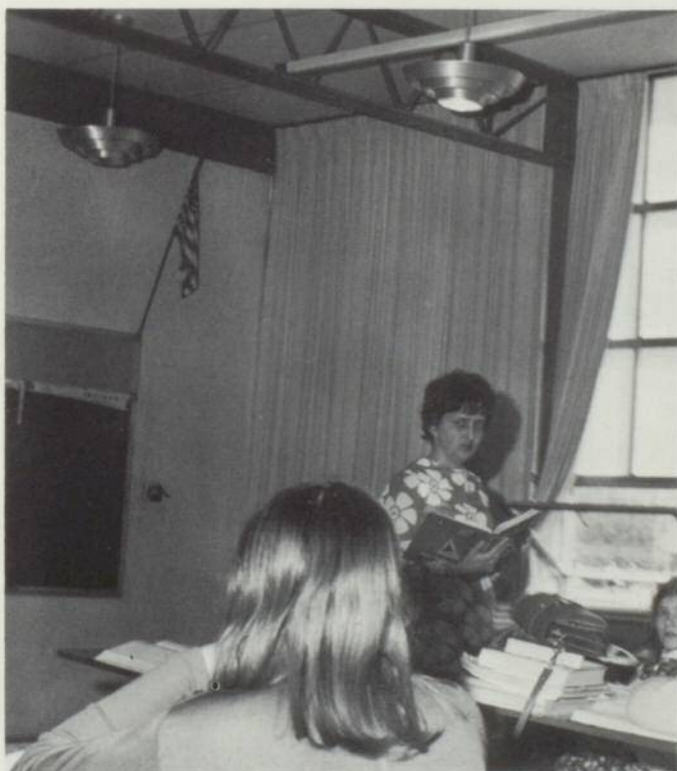

Mr. Cooper laughingly asks Dennis if he feels any tingles yet during a Physics experiment.

facts and figures

Dissecting frogs, worms, starfish, etc. brought forth many expressions of distaste from Biology students. Mixing up bubbling brews in Chemistry could be good practice for witches. The Physics students found that even with aching feet it was a memorable trip to the Museum of Science and Industry. Mrs. McCaffree's seventh graders travelled to the Triton planetarium.

Algebra students discovered the mysteries of x and y formulae. Visions of triangles danced through the minds of Geometry students. Trig students worked with logarithms and reviewed math from previous years. Mrs. Kasamis introduced new math to the Jr. High.

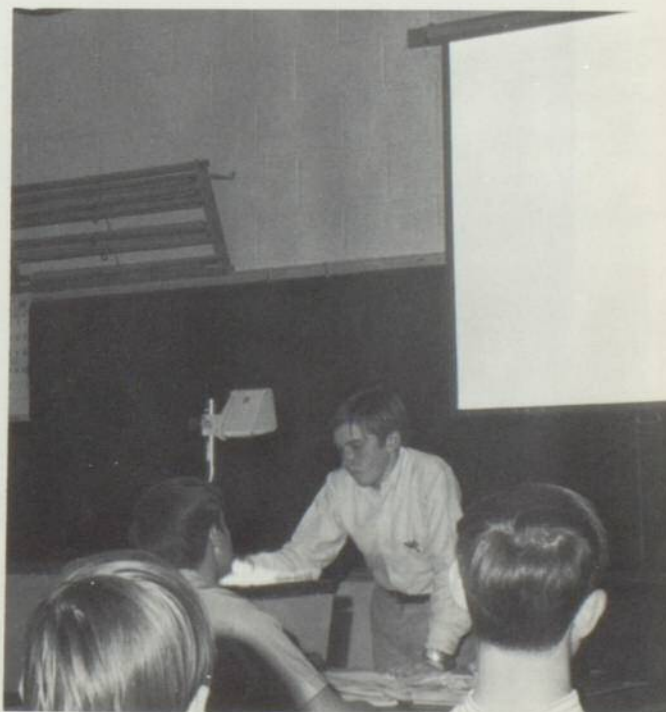

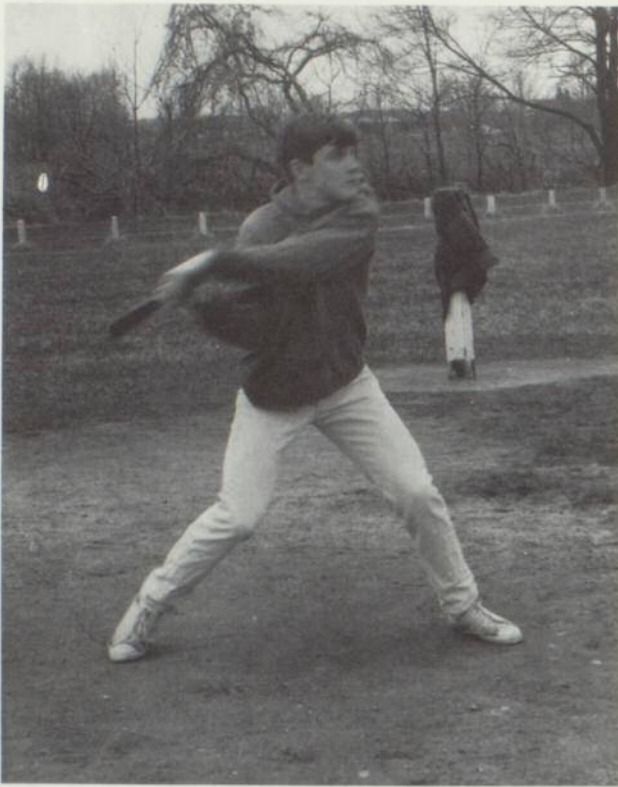

Mrs. Kasamis prepares the Jr. High for the upcoming complexities of high school math.

Be sure and get that problem right, C. J.; everybody is watching you.

Mr. Cullers shows off his mathematical style of walking.

If I can hit a homerun I'll be a hero, but if I can't and miss . . . gulp!

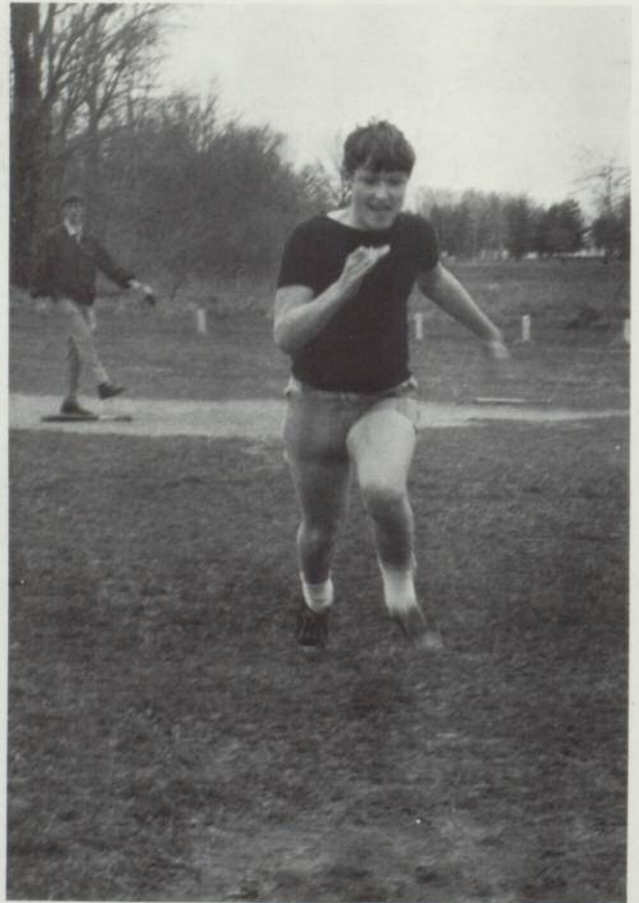

Mrs. Arnett teaches girl's physical education and freshman health.

aspects of health are learned

Each year in both the boy's and the girl's physical education classes from seventh grade through freshman skill tests have been given. These tests range from the softball throw to running tests. Scoring for the tests is geared to how much a boy or girl should be able to do according to their age. Scores are ranked in percentiles and awards are given.

If at anytime you happened to be in room 21 your attention was drawn toward the bulletin board. Mrs. Arnett's health class always colorfully decorated the bulletin board with health information that was of interest to everyone.

Bob seems pretty optimistic about getting to first base.

Among the projects of the art classes is to take drawing boards outside to sketch.

Art and music are fun as well as work

The fifth and sixth graders acquired patience and fortitude as they started to play their musical instruments. As they work their way up to Senior Band they will rise to meet many challenges.

Toward the end of the year the Junior High Chorus was formed. Due to scheduling the chorus had to meet during lunch and at off times, but despite these obstacles they performed for the first time at the Spring Concert.

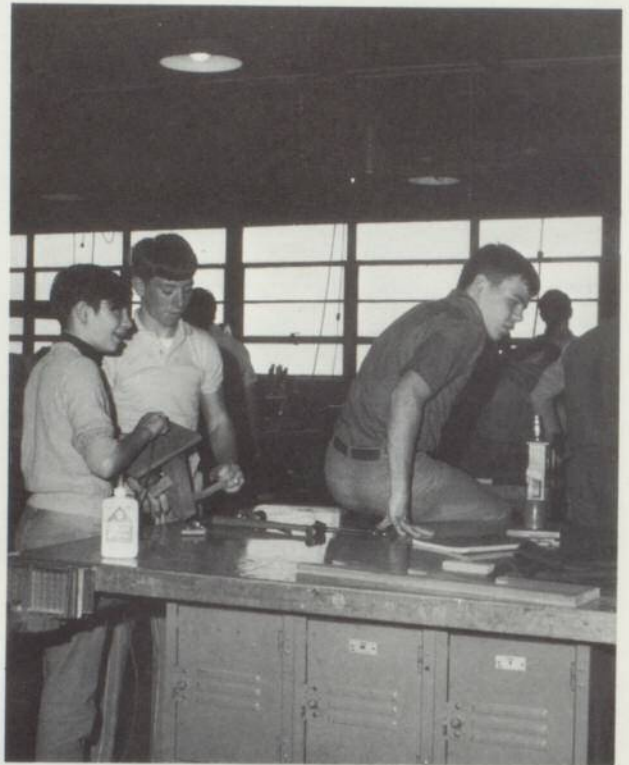

The new band instructor this year was Miss Wanda Jones.

Mrs. Leta Cook is in charge of the choral department.

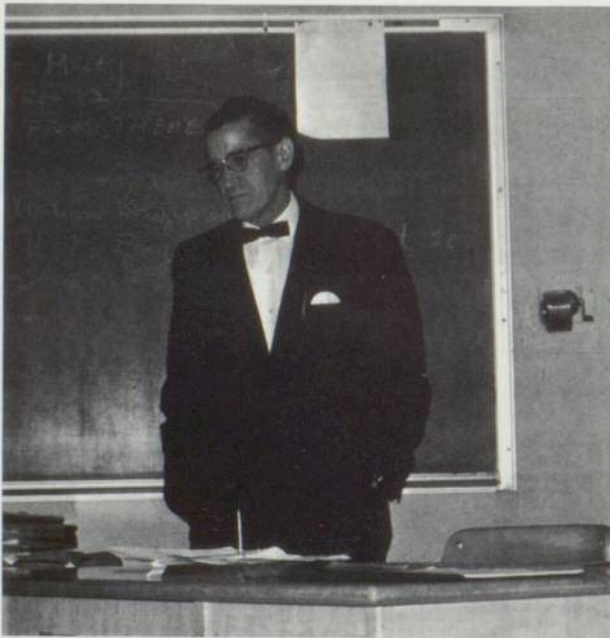

Auto shop is added

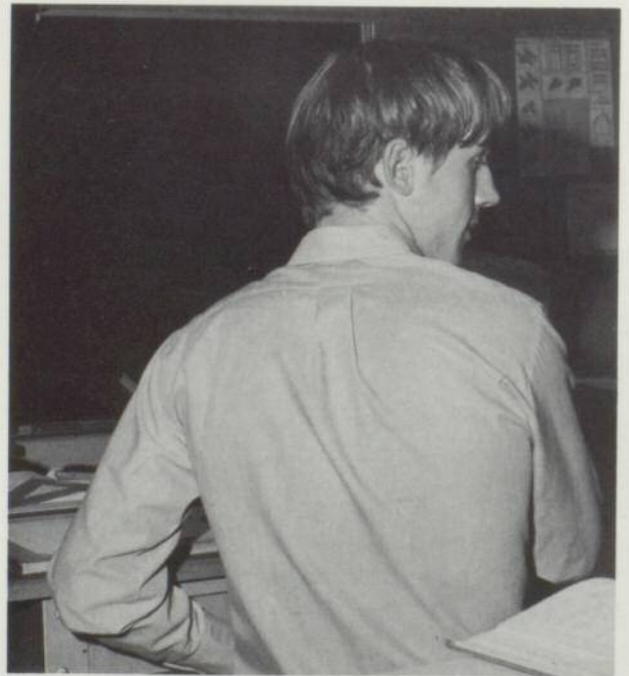

The auto shop class looks over a motor and diagnoses the problem.

Come on guys, let's get down to work and quit goofing off. There's a lot to be done.

On Career's Day, Mr. Shenefield discussed the job opportunities opening up in the field of auto mechanics.

How long did he say we're supposed to make that one line? Boy, this is a hard blueprint.

to the curriculum

The Agriculture classes have been busy this year doing various projects. Each boy has his own individual crop, livestock, or placement project of which he keeps records of all receipts and expenses. The boys also work on judging contests, such as Crops, Forestry, Entomology, Livestock, and Dairy.

In the Freshman class, the boys studied parliamentary procedure, how to keep accurate records, and beef. The Sophomores studied soils, fertilization, soybeans, corn, wheat, and oats. The Junior and Senior boys studied how mathematics effects farming, farm management, and electricity.

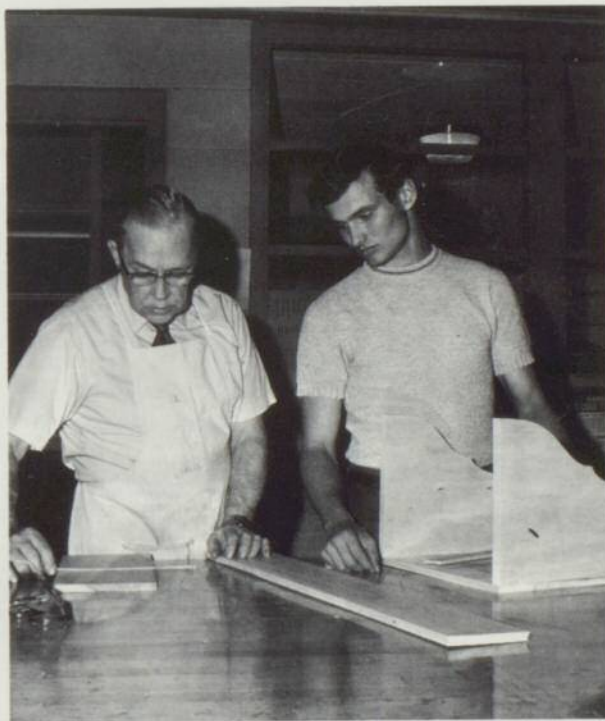

A new course has been added to the Vocational Shop curriculum this year. Along with the two classes of shop and the two classes of mechanical drawing, which are available to any high school student, any Senior boy can schedule auto mechanics. This year there are seven guys who drive to Gate's and Calhoun every day during fifth period for a course in auto shop, taught by Grant Shenefield.

This is the field behind the school that the Agriculture class farms.

Mr. Redinger talks to students while on the job as hall monitor during the noon hour.

Jeff gets some help when Mr. Ritter shows him just how the job is supposed to be done.

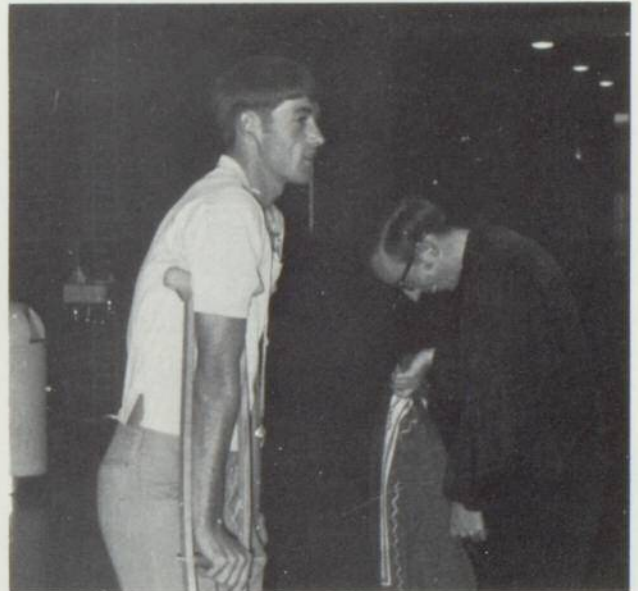

This . . .

Is Argos in Friendships

Laughing at bad jokes . . . holding hands . . . eating lunch in the restroom at noon . . . playing keep-away in the fall . . . helping to fold the flag . . . practicing for the play . . . Mrs. Heishman's facial expressions . . . All-High parties

Jeff, you're supposed to eat it, not wear it, even if it is your favorite kind of pie.

Mr. Miller, don't get all choked up, it doesn't hurt too bad. Tell him it doesn't hurt, Mr. Weybright.

New subjects, new teachers, confusion, and fun are all part of the picture when you enter junior high.

Administrators run school smoothly

Among the actions passed by the school board was a revision of the dress code which was necessary to keep up with the changing times. The Administration is kept busy by hiring teachers and making important decisions which aid our steadily growing school.

Mr. Gerald Hess, Superintendent, hires the faculty and keeps things running smoothly.

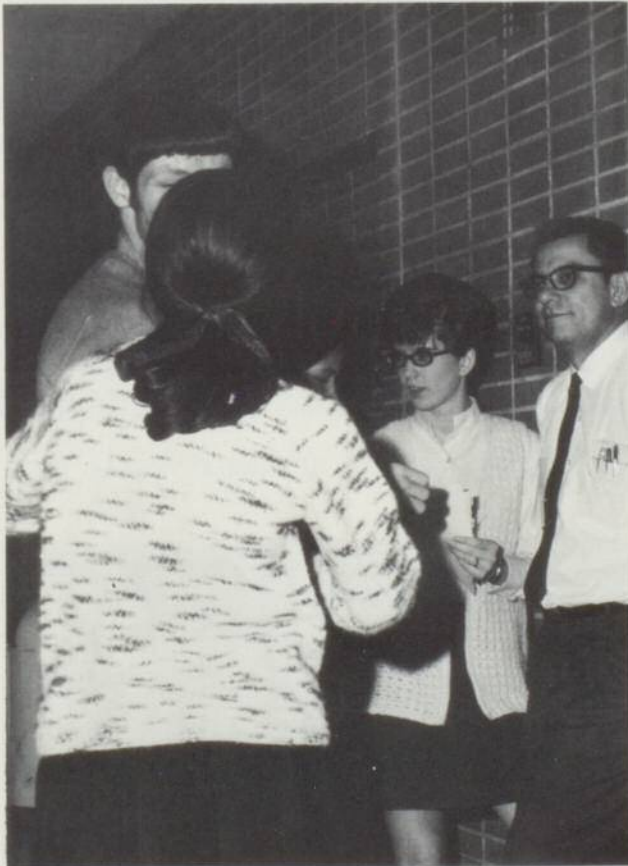

Treasurer of the school corporation, Mrs. Shunk, works on keeping the books up-to-date. Mrs. Shivers also works in the superintendent's office as part time secretary.

Mrs. Ritter, as office clerk, helps to keep the office running smoothly.

Mr. Soudah is responsible for all the administrative affairs.

In the two years that Mr. Soudah has been at Argos, he has proven that principals aren't "all" bad.

Office clerk, Mrs. Berkheiser, is always kept quite busy.

They were fun to make, fun to read, and a pain to clean.

Happiness is . . . being a Senior

Happiness is having one of Harry Potter's chocolate chip cookies.

Happiness is being in the Homecoming Court, right Peg and Linda?

Happiness is hearing Charlie Vires tell a joke and watching Sally Williams laugh at it, and,

Happiness is being yourself and not having to regret it.

Ham sandwiches revived tired and happy seniors.

For these girls, the noon hour provides a time to gather their thoughts and talk about the day's happenings.

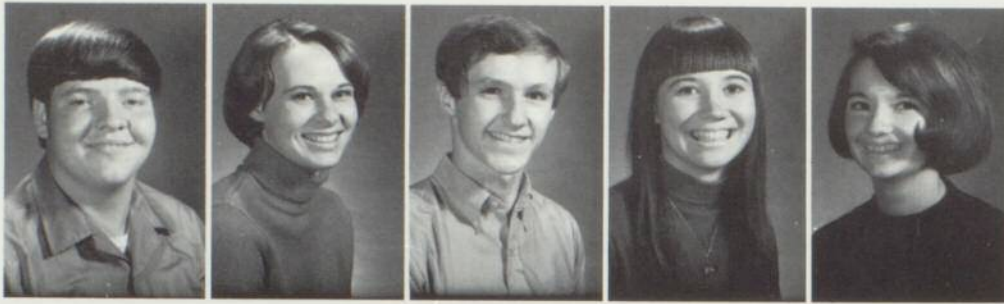

Noon hour brings varied activities

The beginning of the year found the seventh graders madly rushing about trying to find their rooms. After a fine basketball season, the eighth grade looks forward to winning the Freshmen Tourney. With the close of their first year in Senior High, the Freshmen have many reasons to be proud. The Sophomores are glad that dissecting days are over. With $1300 in the treasury, the Juniors put on a memorable Prom.

Kirk, fancy meeting you here.

After much practice, Mrs. Ritter has perfected her punch.

This . . . is Argos and the Community buying a new dress . . . walking out to the drive-in for an ice cream cone . . . asking for an expensive birthday present . . . getting your first car . . . going window shopping when you're broke . . . getting your first job

After a stroll uptown during their lunch hour, these girls come back refreshed and ready for anything.

Doesn't John look nice in his double-breasted sport coat, from all angles? I wonder if he bought it.

Argos students patronize local merchants. I hear they have terrific cokes.

Every once in awhile they take time out to play. Here we see them during a pep talk between quarters.

John's only interest isn't photography!

Barb and Judy don't work on layouts all the time and only seems like it's 99% of the time.

It brings rewards along with work

Do I really have to do the copy for TWO spreads tonight . . . How wide is a one and a half column picture? . . . When did you say the deadline is? . . . Last week, oh my gosh! . . . Is this layout okay? . . . Aren't the pictures in yet? . . . I'll take it home and work on it this weekend . . . Ah come on, sing for us . . . What do you mean you don't like it! . . . You sure are a "Gritch" tonight, Nanc . . . Hey! We get our own cover . . . There's a ghost down by the typing room . . . Honest . . . So help me if the photographers don't get on the ball . . . I like it, I like it . . .

That's how it was at yearbook meetings. Lots of work, but fun, too. Thanks to a great staff who didn't mind being yelled at sometimes or taking work home over the weekend, photographers who met their deadlines? and Mr. McLean who put up with us, the Dragon's Tale was finally sent to the presses. Our work is finished and has now been submitted to you for final approval. We hope you like it!
