

Dragon's Tale

DRAGON'S TALE
ARGOS
COMMUNITY SCHOOLS
ARGOS, IN 46501
VOLUME 17

AS THE SELLS and Gray Circus came to Argos on September 16, Chris Stults sits on the ground for a front row view of the entertainment.

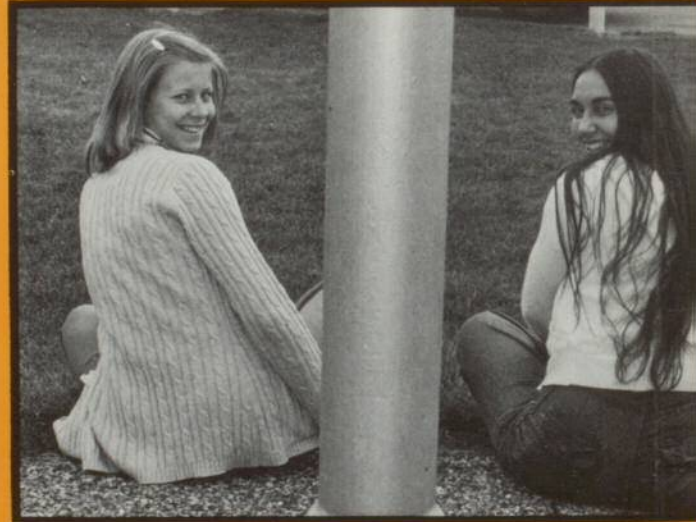

WITH HEADS TOGETHER, junior girls Candy Nifong and Valerie Eley smile away for the photographer at noon.

Monday morning, five minutes 'till 8:00, some come early to purchase weekly lunch tickets; others bring bologna sandwiches, apples, and Hostess Twinkies from home. Most come bounding in off the buses. Still other slam car doors and meander in shuffling their feet.

We are far away from the maddening crowds in a little country place called Argos, Indiana, population 1,475. Kids bustle down the halls, sharing smiles, inside jokes, and sometimes soon-due homework.

It's a place where people are important and WE CAN NAME 'EM ALL!

We Can Name

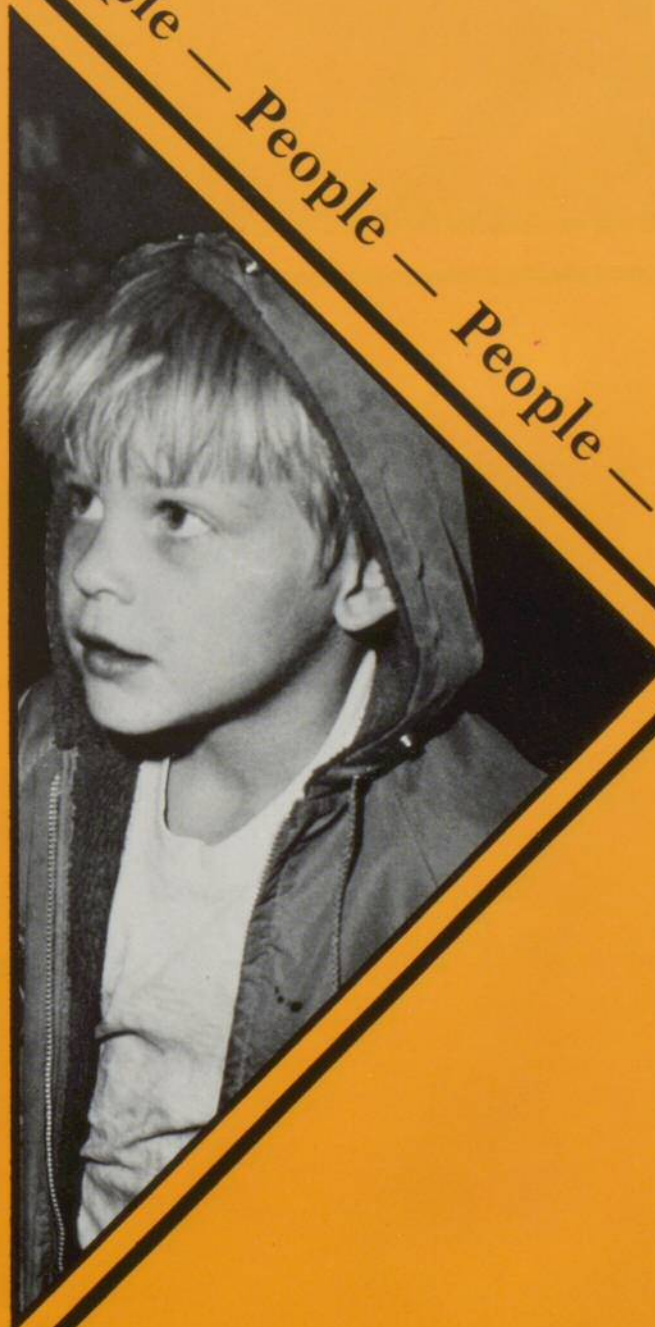

'Em All —

WITH NO DRESS code at Argos, Dave Williams takes advantage of it and wears his "jockey color underwear."

EYES FIXED UPON the clock, Keith Dunlap zips up his coat and prepares to hurry home.

People — People — People — ...

THE THREE STOOGES Cindy Kepler, Penni Harley, and Mitch Gordon come all strapped together to the seventh grade Halloween party.

HALLOWEEN FOR MIKE Harley and Craig Stevens meant bobbing for apples, getting soaked, and also having Dracula's fangs.

Dressed mostly in T shirts, jeans, and "teemies," the kids do not dwell on how they look. School is a place to be comfortable, be with friends, and have some good times.

Argos is a small school, and the students are closely knit even though they think, do, and act in different ways. Some are in cliques, and some are not. At Argos, it really doesn't matter. You're accepted as you are and as a friend the way your are. Argos is people and friends, and WE CAN NAME 'EM ALL!

A RECREATIONAL NIGHT which included volleyball, ping pong, dancing, and an obstacle course gave seniors an opportunity to show their talent. Justine DeWitt and Jan Eby won 1st prize for being the outstanding athletes.

Argos Is People —

People — People

LOOKING TO SEE just what Doug Snyder is pointing at, John Hampton turns around. Or could it be John (Pinocchio) told a lie and his nose is extending.

— People — People — People

Down home in Argos means walking down streets lined with green garbage bags on Monday and Thursday and seeing red, white and blue fire hydrants.

Kids ask what to do on Friday nights, with no McDonald's, movie theatre, bowling alley, or Dairy Queen. Though not a vast metropolis, Argos gets by.

Autumn brings us burning leaves, carved pumpkins, and soccer. This year Sells and Gray Circus came and brought its elephants, jugglers, and clowns for a little added entertainment.

But it is not what we have and where we are that makes us happy--it's our friends, and WE CAN NAME 'EM ALL!

What Is Real?

Real — Real —

Real — Real — Real — Real

WHILE WATCHING T. V. at a going away party held at Tami Van Der Weele's house, John Castleman concentrates on what's in store for him when he will soon be in the Navy.

LIKE FATHER, LIKE daughter! At the annual Sunshine Dads' Night, Judy Keller dresses up in her dad's police clothes.

Argos is people. People are real. Argos is real. Real isn't how you are made. It's a thing that happens to you.

When someone loves you for a long, long time, then you become real.

"Does it happen bit by bit?"

"No, it doesn't happen all at once." You become. It takes a long, long time.

That's why it doesn't often happen to people who break easily, or have sharp edges, or have to be carefully kept.

Generally, by the time you are REAL, most of your hair has been loved off, and your eyes drop out, and you get loose in the joints, and very, very shabby. But these things don't matter at all. Because once you are real, you can't be ugly, except to those people who just don't understand.

Argos is real. It's people are real. Friends can be found and loved everywhere, no matter who or what they are, and WE CAN NAME 'EM ALL!

WITH HEAVY COAT and heavy books, Denise Lawson trudges out of school at the end of the day to return home.

Argos Is Real —

Real — Real

— Real — Real — Real

"FIVE HOURS AND twenty minutes to go, says Raymond Warren as he patiently waits for his detention hours to end.

LIONS AND TIGERS and bears, oh, no!! Sells and Gray Circus brought with them many animals. This ferocious lior, though, was only painted on the side of their truck.

Academics

School is more than four square walls.

Argos, with its academic training and teachers is far more than four square walls. Even though there is not a varitey of classes offered at Argos, we go by the old adage, "quality, not quantity." Teachers are personal and help the students all they can.

The adding on of an all-purpose room enables high school and elementary students to possess more time in the gym for physical education and extra-curricular activities.

Argos, though small, manages to turn out unique personalities and young people who can cope quite well with life.

DIGGING IN HIS pocket, John Weib... finds three pennies, two marbles, and one frog. Deciding upon the frog to dissect, he will better understand its internal process.

ARMED WITH AN old shirt and determination, Tami Van Der Weele sets out to do a silk screen in Art I.

With art as an optional course, many students still end up with it on their schedules. Whether going out at the first of the year to draw first-hand nature shots or sitting in the halls drawing long shots of lockers, students view art as a popular course.

Spilling chemicals on your pants and suddenly changing them from red to green or catching your hair on fire and realizing it when you smell something funny are a few episodes that are a daily occurrence for science teacher Mr. Cooper. But he found out that the best medicine is to stay cool, calm, and collected.

Experimentation Presents Challenge

Coordination Is a Must

DURING A HEATED game of dodgeball, Mary Knezevich gets ready to release her weapon.

"TWO LINES OF each word and each letter once." As the assignment is given, Darlene Harrell practices so she can read and transcribe faster.

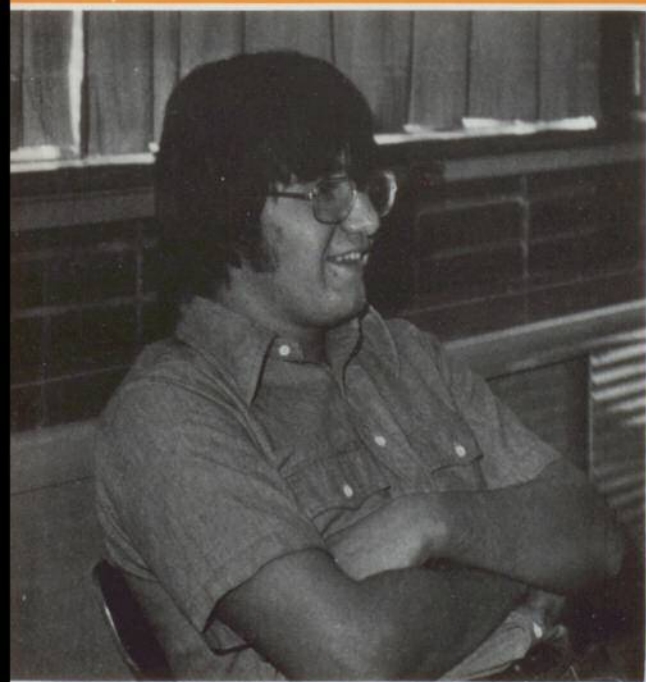

The business department offers basic skill courses in typing, shorthand, office practice, bookkeeping, and business math. Students learn about the world of business in business law and general business. A student enrolled in the business curriculum can obtain vocational training that will help him on the job in the future.

General information is also obtained in office practice, such as how to stand properly, wear your hair appropriately, and look just right. Accounting students found out that people really eat chocolate-covered ants and worms.

Physical education shortened down to P.E. gives students a class where setting at a desk each day is out and participation is in. The nice weather was taken advantage of and the kids went outside frequently to run track, play softball, and compete in soccer. Once inside, with tennis shoes on, students play volleyball, kickball, and basketball. After all this exertion, the students end up with a shower.

Sewing, cooking, planning and serving meals, caring for children, planning weddings, planning parenthood, and home nursing are a few of the topics covered in the home ec classes. Students learn how to cope with the everyday problems involved in homemaking as well as how to deal with sewing your finger, catching your clothes on fire, and adding one tablespoon instead of one teaspoon of salt to six deviled eggs.

Integration of the sexes has hit the Argos shop class. Girls are taking drafting and woodworking. Shop students learn to weld, build, repair, and tear engines apart.

Realism Added to Education

CLAD IN WELDING helmet, this shop student makes sparks fly.

Kids Learn the Newness of a Language and the Oldness of History

• LANGUAGE •

Learning the father of the constitution, who is running for the presidency, and finding out from Consumer's Union that ice cream is mostly air and that peanut butter contains rodent hairs are some of the fun facts that Seniors learn from Mr. Wysong's class.

Two foreign languages are offered at Argos--Spanish and French. Some of the activities both Spanish and French speaking students enjoy are listening to tapes, watching films, doing word puzzles, and having spelling bees.

Many foreign language students have pen pals from foreign countries. The letters they receive are often brought in and shared with the entire class.

AT THE END of each math lesson, Mr. Cullers allows study time. Some students take advantage of it, and others don't.

MATHEMATICS CAN BE puzzling to some students, while it can be skillfully mastered by others as expressed by these 8th grade students.

THOUGH FOREIGN LANGUAGES are quite a challenge, these second and third year French students work to acquire the language.

OR IS IT just Diane Andrews posing as Leonardo Da Vinci for her biographical book report for freshman English.

FINDING THE CORRECT information for a report can easily be obtained in the school library as Eddie Rensberger is doing.

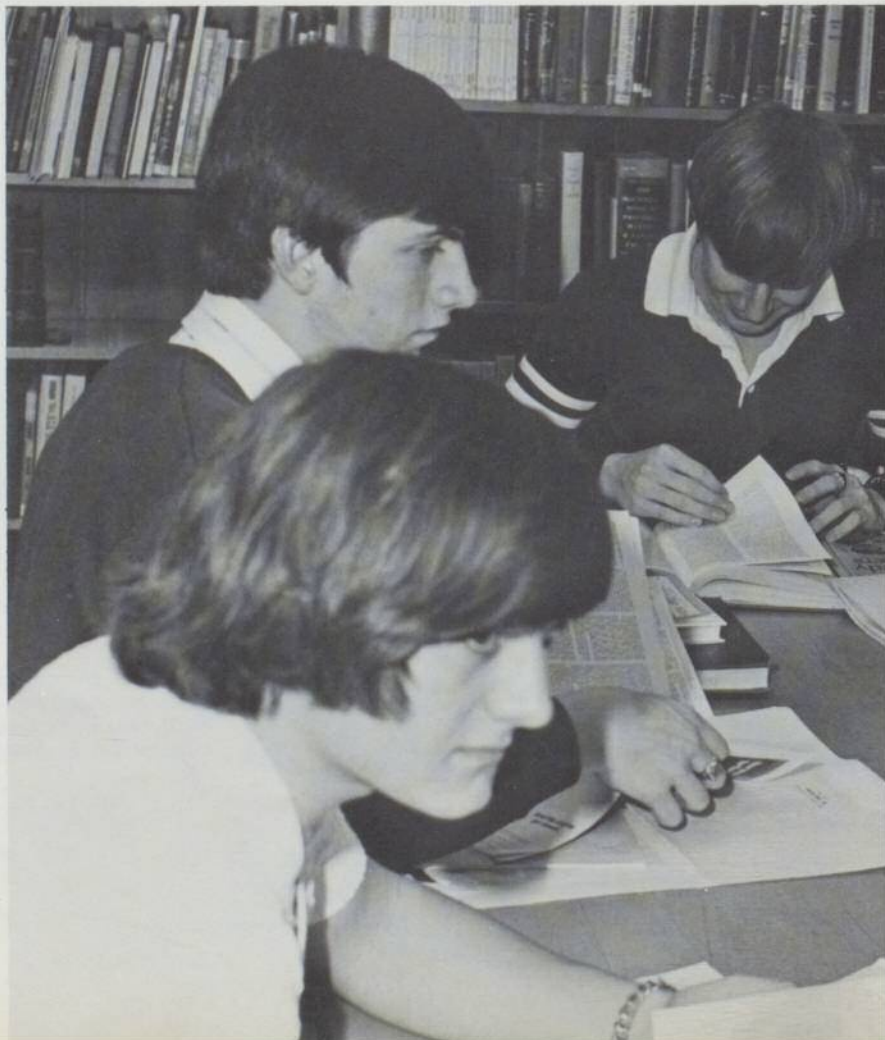

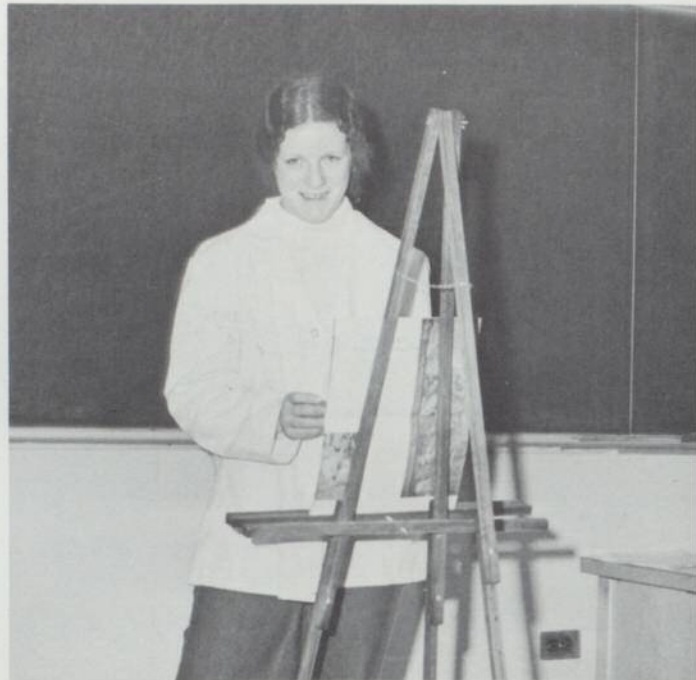

MANY LONG HOURS spent in the library are necessary to produce a good term paper, as these three junior boys well know.

Seniors are offered composition and literature courses. JANE EYRE and BRAVE NEW WORLD are samples of the books required in literature. But English is not all work. In December, Mrs. Chittum celebrated her birthday. A quick trip to IGA, made by a couple of seniors at noon produced a birthday cake for the celebration.

Business English kids also wrote term papers and tied the business aspect into them. Each Friday there was a spelling test on which you either received an A or an F. Mrs. Heishman spends all of first semester trying to prepare each student before she sends them out into the world.

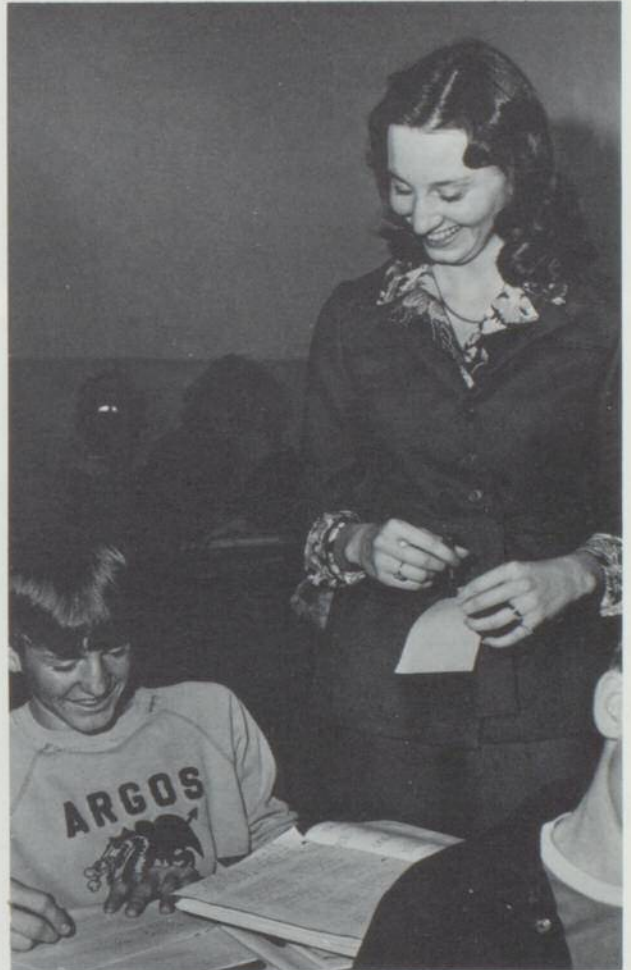

Mad rushes of students asking teachers for passes each day is a common occurrence, and most of the time teachers gladly sign their initials. But passes may be restricted from a student if he is caught forging passes as an easy escape from study hall. Some students found this out after it was already too late.

"ONCE UPON A time," begins Mrs. Mary Chamberlin, an IUSB student who did her student teaching in the kindergarten and second grade at Argos this year.

Resources Put to Use

LEARNING ABOUT PARTICIPLES, gerunds, and infinitives is a major portion of Freshman English. Asking Mrs. Chittum for a little extra help is Bill O'Dell, a third-hour student.

SPORTS

Sports and Argos go together as well as apple pie and ice cream. Most of the kids at Argos participate in sports one way or the other. Because of the lack of size in the school, many kids don't restrict themselves to just one sport and are involved in many.

Because football is not offered here, soccer is the replacement in the fall. Basketball is the sport that draws the crowds, though, and helps to keep that "Hoosier Hysteria" alive.

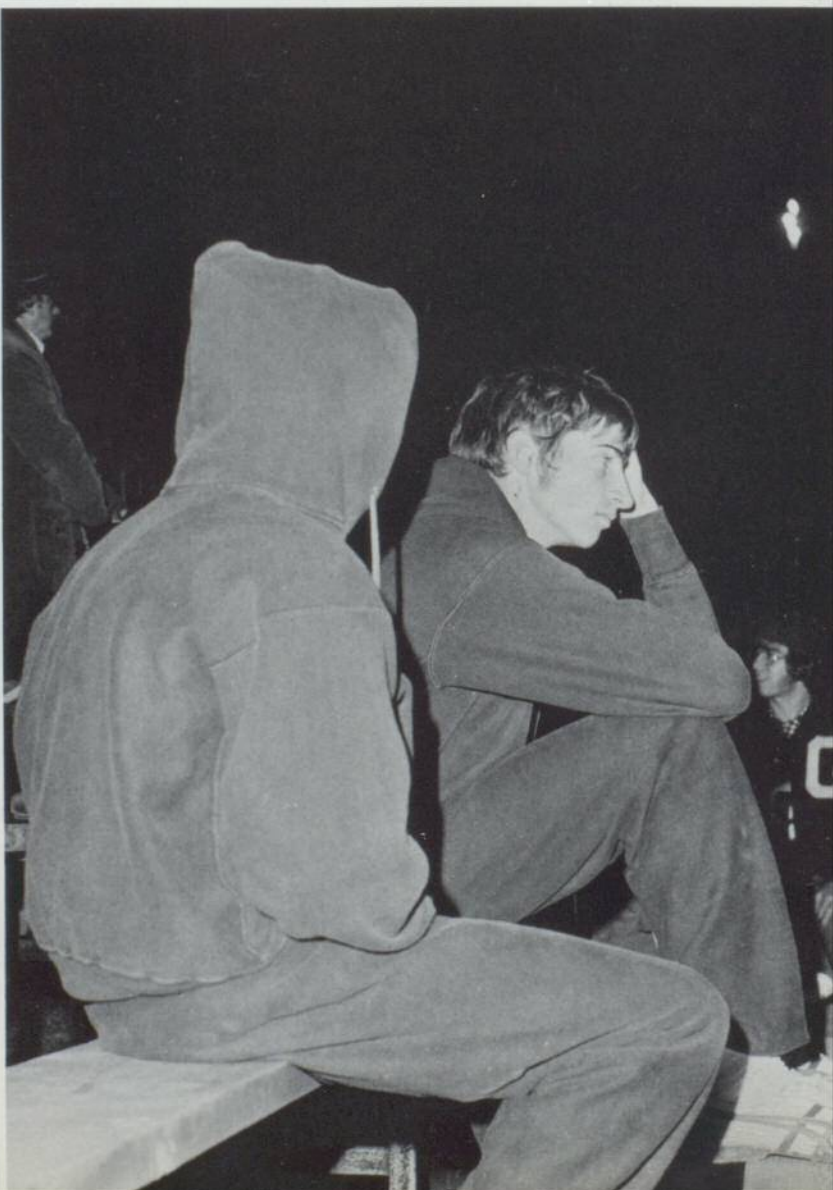

A new season ticket was sold this year for students at $6 and adults at $10.50. Under this ticket, you could attend any of the home games involving Jr. High, Freshmen, Girls' or Varsity basketball.

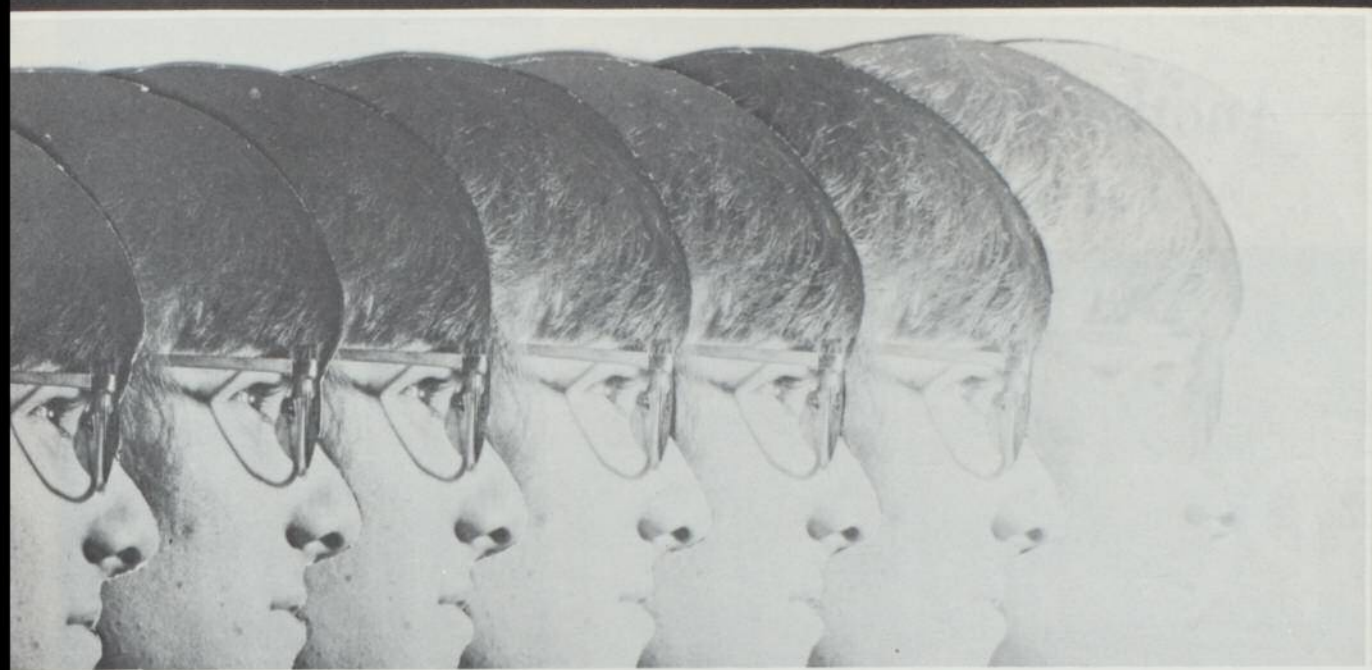

Once again, at the first game of the season against Culver, the Dragons brought back the bell for the trophy case.

The B-team players were the first in Argos' history to win a Bi-County tournament. The Varsity Cheerleaders also won the Annual Cheerleading trophy awarded at the Bi-County. This award is presented to the squad and Pep Block that has shown the most preciseness in yells, respect, and all around spirit.

The Freshmen, along with their winning season, came out victorious in the Culver 4-Way Tourney.

Sports is an important activity at Argos, and you don't have to be a player just to get in the action. You can be a scorekeeper, manager, or perhaps just a spectator.

CLUBS

Club work adds another dimension to the education of students at Argos High School. The students have the opportunity to join a variety of organizations.

Through club work, the students develop their leadership abilities by serving as an officer as the head of a committee. By having guest speakers and individual projects and contests, they learn new things. Their social graces are developed through having parties, dances, dinners, and teas. Both the school and the community benefit from the services provided by the various organizations.

The threesome of Brian Clark, Jim Burroughs, and Greg Hagen start a chorus line before the start of the Christmas concert.

Red dots on noses, one slipper, one tennis shoe, shirts on backwards, hair in pig tails, pants rolled up, and a heart drawn on one cheek were all characteristics of how the girls for Sunshine Society initiation looked.

Starting out earlier in the year with advertising sales gave the 75-76 staff a slight advantage. Advertising prices were increased from the previous prices of last year. Opening the year out right was just what the staff did when they held a party and cookout at Mrs. Weaver's house. Hamburgers fixed on the grill were the main course along with salads and vegetables brought in by the staff. Yearbook prices also were raised from $4 to $5. With each purchase of a yearbook, students received a sticker saying "Grin If You Got One." The year ended with frantic rushes to meet the deadlines and the choosing of next year's editor and co-editor, Karen Rensberger and Maurine Thompson.

The Drama Club put on a fall and a spring production. A new form of entertainment--three one-act plays instead of one play--was employed by the club.

The office girls answer the phone, take messages, sort the mail, pick up attendance forms, run various office machines, and do work for the teachers. They perform a valuable service for the school.

FACES

At Argos Community School, grades kindergarten through twelve are all together in one building. This gives all students the chance to mix and mingle with other students from other classes.

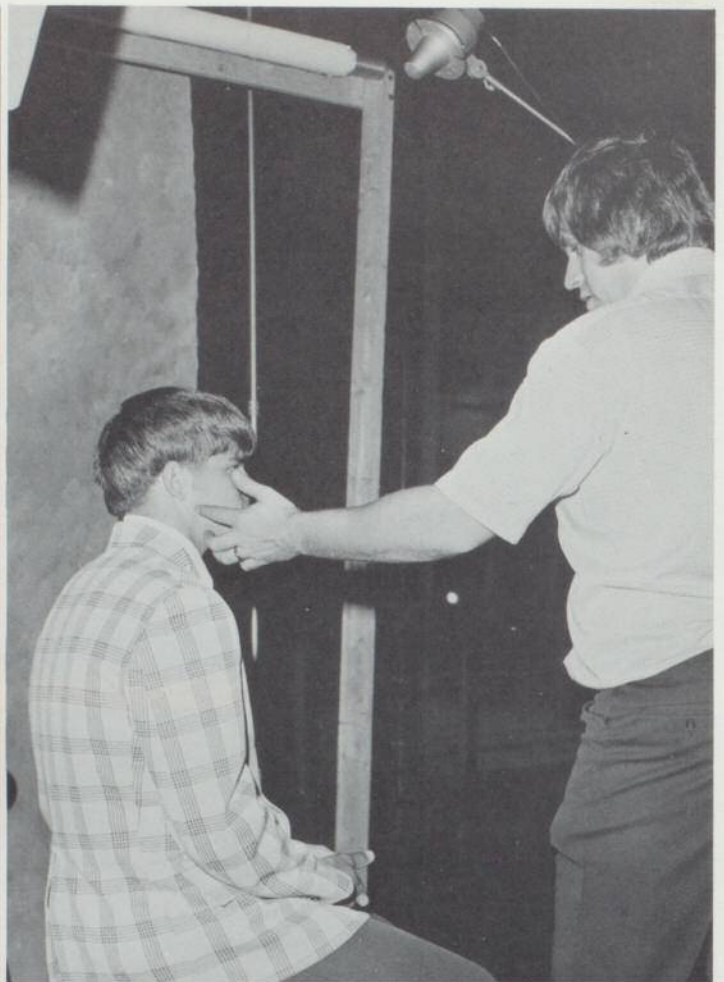

Although the classes are close because all activities are in one building, they do have their separate projects. Junior high students have halloween and skating parties. Freshmen pay dues and have a party also.

Seniors experienced the busiest year of high school ordering announcements, having their senior pictures taken, signing memory books, and getting fitted for caps and gowns.

One fad this year was the permanent, and Lora Smiley was one of the first to have it done to her hair. It was more than just the average set down and snap your picture. Seniors had to go through an appointment, suits and ties, and many poses. Here Mike Weaver, from Hitz Studio, prepares Tim Van Duyne. Brenda Andrews, the target for egg throwing, seems a little less happier than Kim Ferguson at the cemetery. Here is the familiar face of Raymond (Pee Wee) Warren.

"Donations for Christmas Decorations"

That's what the cans said. Yes, pennies, nickels, dimes, and dollars were dropped in so Argos could purchase new ornaments and decorations to give the town a new look at Christmas and add a little more of that Christmas Spirit.

FEATURES

What would a school year be like if it didn't have any special events. The year would probably not be very exciting or fun. Well, Argos makes the most of its events, and everyone directly or indirectly gets involved.

With the dances, girls take over and begin asking the guys. Going to the Sunshine Dance gets the girls and guys a little more prepared for the upcoming junior/senior prom.

The plays performed this year were acted in the same manner as last year--three one-act plays. The fall play proceeds go into the Junior Class fund, and the spring play money enters into the Senior Class fund to help pay for their many expenses. Such expenses are those of graduation, the last step of a Senior at Argos High School.

Sorry, Wrong Number Take a Letter Final Dress Rehearsal

BOTTOM--Lights and make-up are important aspects in a production. Here, Dave McDougle puts on lipstick.

Three one-act plays were given on October 10, 1975, and the proceeds were given to the Junior class.

"Sorry, Wrong Number" was a mystery involving a wealthy invalid who overheard a telephone conversation in which two men are plotting to kill a woman. Before the women can get help, she's dead.

"Take A Letter" involved a boss looking for a secretary. He wanted one who was not too cute or not too ugly and one who could type and spell accurately. Finally, after many applicants coming in, he found one.

Let's Be Thankful for a Homecoming Victory

Homecoming was officially started when the lobby was decorated to boost team spirit. The Senior Pep Block members took their turn to make the homecoming hoop.

Student Council members sponsored the event. They purchased charms for the queen candidates and decorated the stage with crepe paper, aluminum foil, glitter, and stars.

Sunshine Dance Is On!

BOTTOM--Taking a break from the dance floor, Judy Keller and Keith Maginn sit and watch the other people.

With funds low from candy sales, Sunshine Society had a hard time sponsoring their annual dance. First, the dance was on, then the dance was off, but finally the dance was on. Cookies and punch were donated, and the decoration costs for Saturday in the Park came to a total of $8 in actual cash.

Careers Day Again This Year

OPPOSITE PAGE--TOP--
"The Ancient Art of Yoga"
was the name of Ed Schetter's presentation. Here at the end of his program, he does the splits.

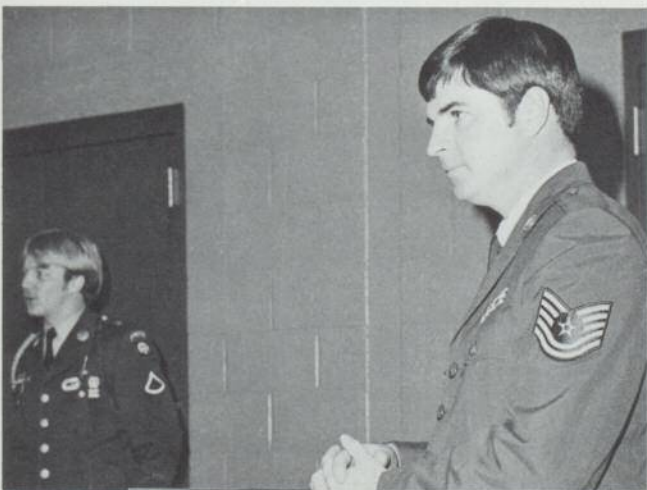

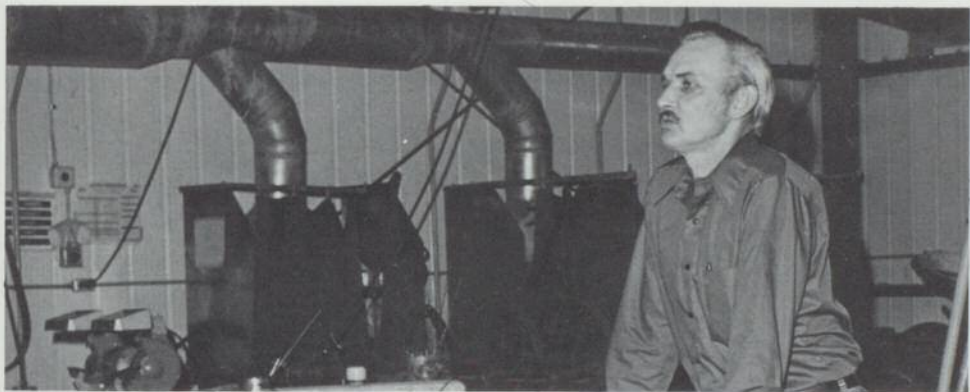

OPPOSITE PAGE--LOWER

CENTER--Cindy Irwin tries with all her might to pull the representative from General Motors at the assembly called "Previews of Progress."

UPPER RIGHT--As an Argos merchant, Isobel came for Careers Day and told about her business, hair, and costs.

Convocations varied widely this year from Yoga to Mark Twain. Also this year, '74 graduate Bill Westafer came back and did an act with ventriloquism and his sidekick Lester. TVS brought with them their band and choral groups to repay us for Argos' band doing a concert at their school.

Careers Day, held every two years, was on February 11 this year with three sessions each for students. Interests varied, and there were many career sessions for students to attend.

Stairway to Heaven Is Set in Cafeteria

Elegant tuxedos and long, beautiful dresses replaced the normal jeans and T-shirts worn by Argos High School students at the 1976 prom sponsored by the Junior class. A lot more couples than were expected danced to the music of Simon-Genesis. More tables had to be set up in the halls after the prom started.

The theme of the prom was "Stairway to Heaven." Candles decorated the tables. Couples danced around a fountain in the middle of the cafeteria. Stars and blue cellophane were used to make a false ceiling.

Mrs. Schmidlapp and her foods classes prepared the refreshments for the prom. Mr. Ed Miller and a few members of the junior class put in many hours making and putting up the decorations.

3 One-Act Plays Involve 17 Drama Club Members

The Drama Club performed three one-act plays this spring. The first, "Monkey's Paw," was a serious drama. The holder of the monkey's paw, according to superstition, was to receive three wishes. Mr. & Mrs. White's first wish was for 200 pounds. Much to their dismay, they received their 200 pounds in the form of a settlement from the company where their daughter worked after she was killed in a horrible accident. The Whites' second wish was to bring their daughter back to life again. After seeing her alive in her severely injured state, they wished her dead again, using their third wish.

The "Funeral Tea" was a comedy-drama mix. The family members lost the urn containing ashes after the cremation of their loved one and spent many futile moments trying to recover the urn.

"Father Lives With Seven Women" is a farce comedy involving a father who writes a book about his experiences with his wife and six children.

71-89-76

LOWER LEFT--As the seniors were gathering in the cafeteria, Sue Metzger helps Cheri Hooker fix her collar before the processional starts.

It started back in the school year when all the seniors were either pulled from study hall, lunch hour, or class to get fitted for caps and gowns. But we didn't get to actually try them on again until they were distributed at practice on Friday, May 21. Practice consisted of finding your partner, learning the traditional walk, watching the green tape, and doing the whole process over and over again.

As 2 p. m. on Sunday, seniors all met again in the cafeteria to put on robes, hats, and collars. Final words were heard such as, "No talking," "No gum," "Keep your hats on straight," and "Look calm."

Once everyone had somehow made it into the gym, the invocation was given by Rev. Robert Hansen of the Argos United Methodist Church. Mixed Chorus then sang "And Thou, America." The guest speaker addressing the graduates was Lt. Col. Mimrod McNair, Jr. of the U. S. A. F. His speech centered around "Let's Change the World." Another song was sung by the Senior Mixed Ensemble called, "The World Is Yours." Awards and recognitions were presented by Mr. Strycker.

Then what we'd all been waiting for happened--the presentation of diplomas by Mr. Richard Calhoun. After we all walked up on the stage one by one and received our diplomas, the recessional went quickly, and seniors exited out into the lobby.

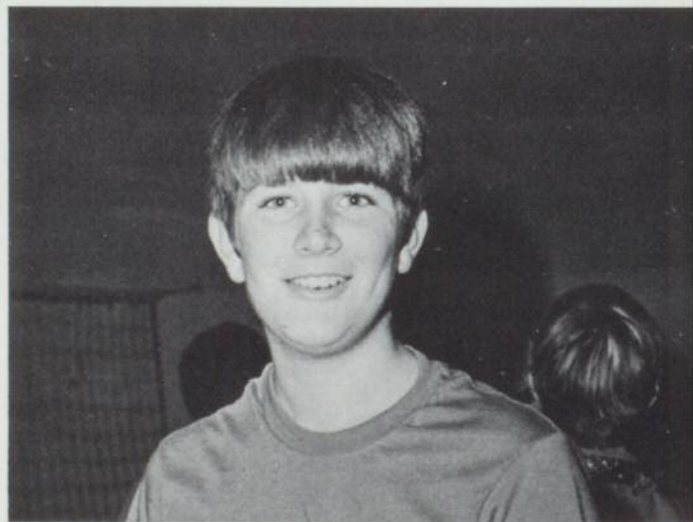

Perhaps our parents didn't realize back in 1957 or 1958 that their son or daughter would graduate from high school in the Bi-Centennial year. As a senior speaking, all 71 graduates who participated in the 89th annual graduation exercise of '76 were more than happy to graduate in the Bi-Centennial year.

One of man's basic needs is security. Argos has security. For example, instead of 10 policemen patrolling our school halls, we only have 2 patrolling our whole town.

Another one of man's basic needs is to have association with others. They have the need of being around other people. Argos has people. And this alone is one of its best assets.

Smiling Faces —

Faces — Faces

— Faces — Faces — Faces — Faces —

I hope that at least one person who has followed the arrows from the opening to the closing has gotten the message that was intended to be conveyed.

Many of us could name everyone who lives in Argos, but let's be thankful that "WE CAN NAME 'EM ALL" . . . as friends.

Thank you
Cheri Hooker, Editor
