COLOR YOUR
YEAR HAPPY...

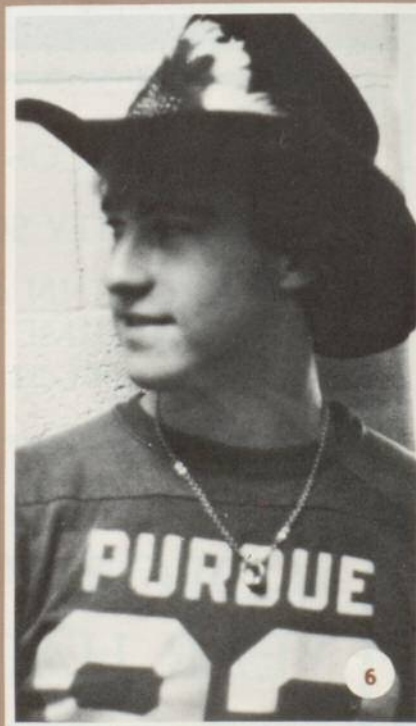

HATS OFF TO THE DRAGONS

Argos is known for having fans support their teams. The most popular way is having "Hat Day." Students participate in this by wearing their favorite hats. Adults show their spirit by coming to the game and rooting for the Mighty Dragons. Dragons are tops!

- 1 — Jackie Doody shows her support for the Dragons by wearing her hat.
- 2 — Cindy Clemens gives us a side view.
- 3 — Robyn Gonzales shows how big her spirit is.
- 4 — Jon Eby wears his cowboy hat for Hat Day.
- 5 — Valerie Overmyer has a feather in her cap.
- 6 — Kim Edmonds turns his head for the camera.
- 7 — Penni Shidler and Kim Smith have fun wearing their hats.

Opposite Page

- 1 — Boyd Hollabaugh takes control over the ball from a CMA player.
- 2 — Mike McCay puts all his might into kicking the ball.
- 3 — Fans support the Dragons by watching them play.

DECISIONS, DECISIONS, DECISIONS!

Elementary students had the opportunity to see the different jobs that are available to them by participating in the Job Jamboree. They got to find out what it was like to be a policeman, fireman, and a dental assistant. Many high school students do not know what they want to be. Argos is therefore giving the elementary students a head start by helping them learn about various occupations at an early age.

1 — Scott Hammel has fun feeding a goat at the Job Jamboree.

2 — Pat Monehen shows Heather Clemens what it is like to work on a person's teeth.

3 — Adam Hibner models Fireman Jim Nolin's coat.

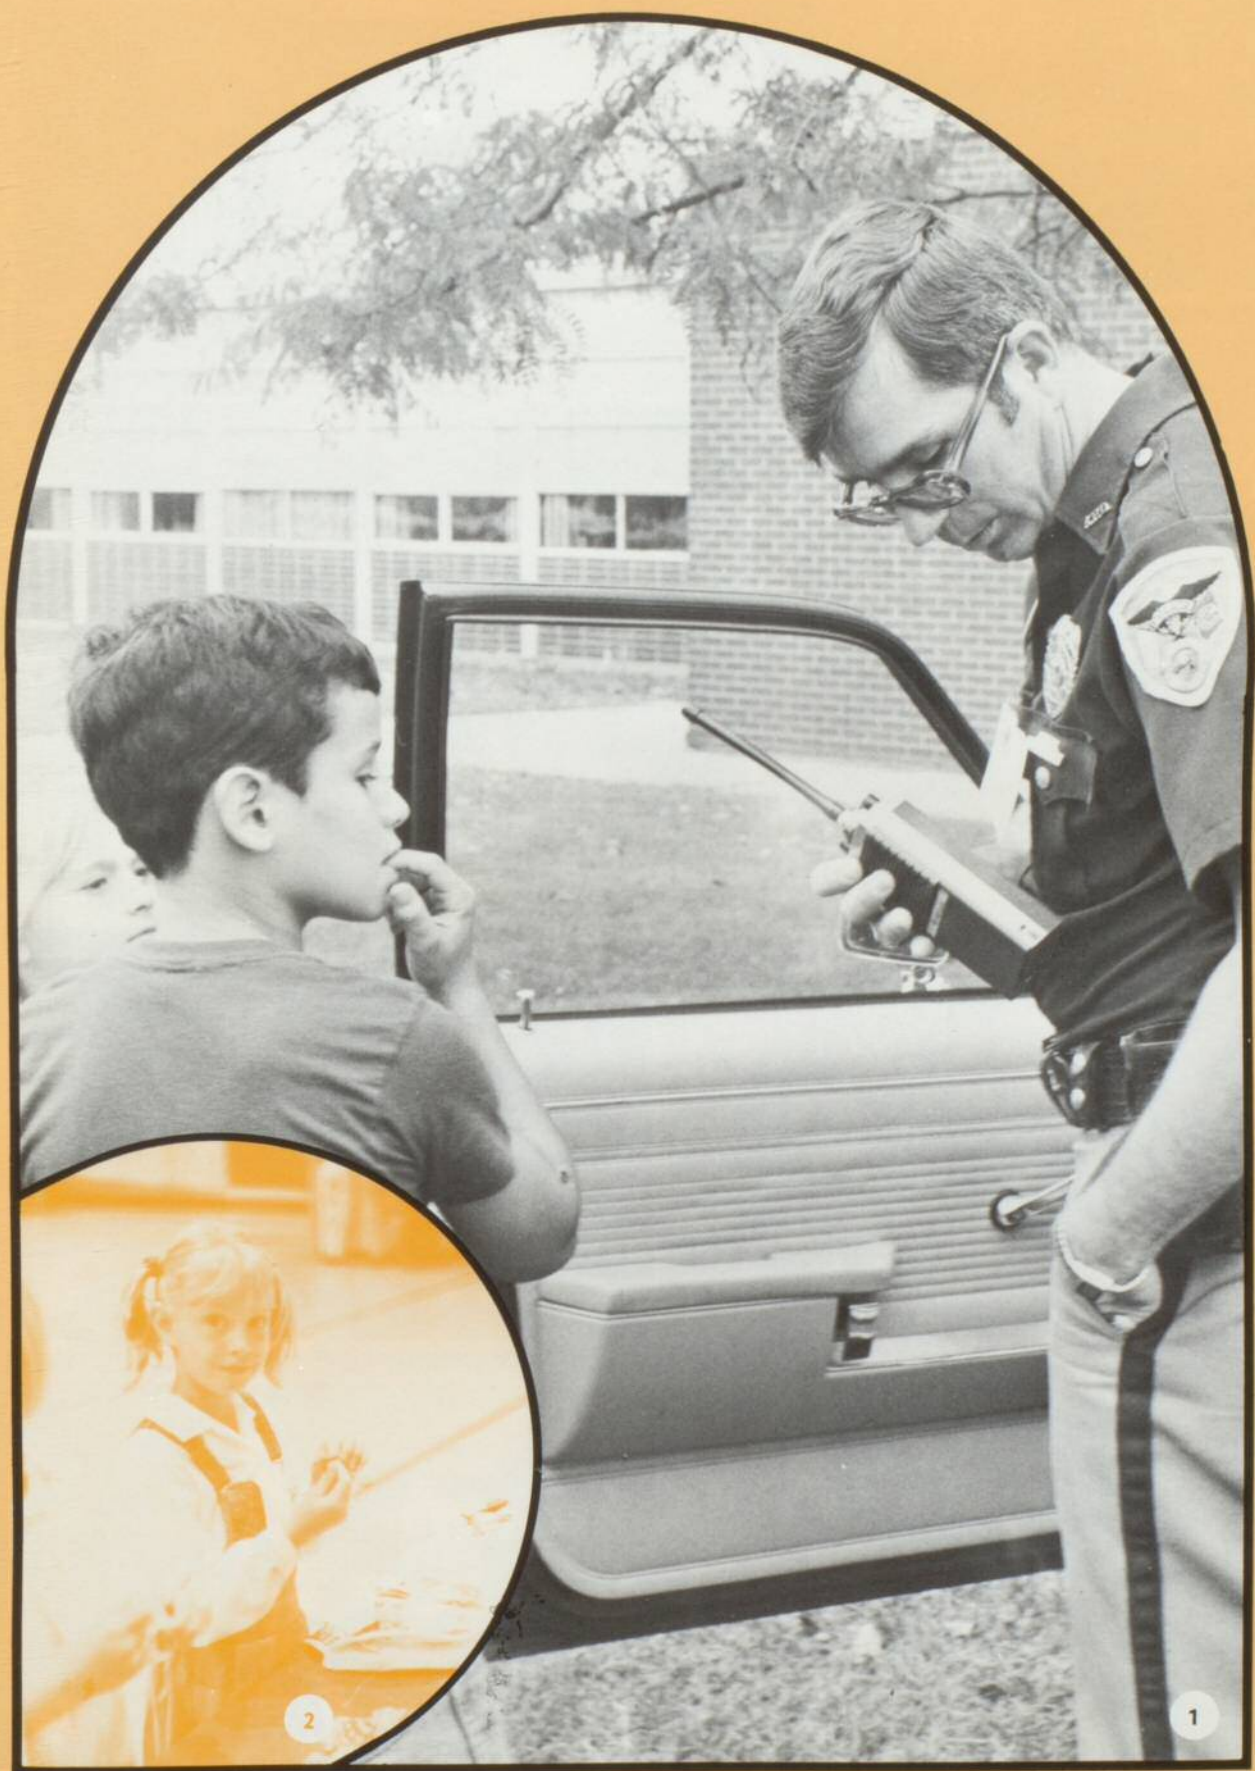

4 — Jason Hill and Lorie Lard pay close attention as Robert Stone explains about his semi.

Opposite Page

1 — Mark Miller watches Chief Walters put his walkie talkie away.

2 — Kerry Harshbarger takes a break from working on a quilt.

SPECIAL FRIENDS BRIGHTEN OUR DAYS

Many of us have a special friend we can count on to put us in a good mood when we feel low, to make us laugh when we're sad, and to be there when we need someone to talk to. These friends are what make our high school years special and memorable.

1 — Jeff Hudspeth and Cindy Clemens stand at her locker to chat.

2 — Traci Miller and Jeff Herrin work on an algebra problem in class.

3 — Chris Stults and Angie Thompson are working on their homework together at noon.

4 — Mike Denny and Dar Rosebush show off their friendship toward each other.

5 — Pam Rowe and Tom Mechling sit by their lockers at noon.

6 — Shawn Crawley and Tracy Patton smile before they go to class.

Opposite Page

1 — Dave Winenger states his point while Jeanne Drake smiles up at him.

FREEDOM: SPIRIT IN SOUND

The annual Variety Show was held on November 13, 1981. The show was directed by Pamela Huber and Sandra Burroughs. The audience enjoyed humor, music, and even a magic act.

Opposite Page

1 — Kevin VanDuyne sings the song "He Ain't Heavy."

2 — A girls' quartet shows their friendship to each other by singing "Side By Side."

1 — These young men tell everyone how happy they are to be country boys.

2 — Sharlene Stults steals the hearts of the audience by singing "I Honestly Love You."

3 — The new flag girls do a routine with canes to the song of "Celebration."

4 — Miss Robbin Lerch, the math teacher here at Argos, plays "The Swan" on her cello.

5 — Melinda Leffert displays her talents by singing "I am a Promise."

6 — Arnold Shufelt and Rod Miller do a comedy act, Joe Schmo.

7 — The clarinet trio did a "Soft Shoe Dance."

THE 1981 HOMECOMING QUEEN IS . . .

The 1981 Homecoming crown was placed on the head of Senior Kim Heuer on November 25. Kim Thompson, also a senior, was named first runner-up; Pam Rowe, a junior, was elected second runner-up.

The Argos basketball team won the game that evening with a close score of 53-48 against North Miami.

1 — Second runner-up Pam Rowe poses with escort Tom Mechling.

2 — Junior candidate Marilyn Houin asked Mike Alford to accompany her.

3 — Chris Andrews and Tammy McGowen, a sophomore candidate, seem to be very happy.

4 — Angie Thompson, sophomore, and Chris Stults wait for the results.

5 — John O'Dell and freshman candidate, Robyn Gonzales, are anxiously awaiting the outcome.

1 — The 1981 Homecoming queen and her court are shown here.

2 — Kim Heuer, senior, walks happily to the center to receive her trophy, roses, and crown for being chosen as the 1981 Homecoming queen at Argos High School.

PRESENTING THE ARGOS MARCHING DRAGONS

THE REINCARNATION OF THE PINK PANTHER

Opposite Page

1 — Inspector Clouseau (Dave Winenger) and Cato (Dan Taylor) find the half moustache.

2 — Cato and the Inspector fumble with Clouseau's gloves.

1 — Wanda (Pam Rowe) and the Frigidaires perform in the Boom-Boom Room. The Frigidaires are Kristi Snyder, Traci Miller, Nancy Hartman, and Susan Cowen.

2 — Bob Zentz as Papa Sahn and Tami Tucker as Mama Sahn kiss after a minor spat.

3 — Here is Clouseau's arch rival Juan Guiseppe (Arnold Shufelt).

4 — Mona Ramona (Julie Madonna) is giving the latest Hollywood gossip.

5 — Papa Sahn smiles broadly as he explains his new invention.

6 — The two crime fighters visit Mama Sahn to get information to solve the kidnapping.

7 — The foreign delegates — General Principles (Tony Stone), Igor (Mark Bauman), and Wang (Paula McGee) discuss the merits of the hydroctane converter.

The Reincarnation of the Pink Panther was written by Rockie Levi, the director, and Dave Winenger. It involves a teen-age boy who is a great fan of Peter Sellers. When he learns of Sellers' death, he has a dream. In his dream, he is the great Inspector Clouseau on a mission to find Papa Sahn who has been kidnapped because he has invented a device capable of converting water into gasoline.

FALL PLAY CAST

Cato and the Inspector are in another of their many scuffles.

Clouseau mistakes Wanda for the real kidnapper.

JR-HI ENROLLS IN SHOP AND HOME ECONOMICS

SAM MAHLER DISCOVERS MAYNARDETTE

Seventh-grade biology has offered many new and exciting experiences for students. One of these is the dissection of frogs. This gives students first-hand knowledge of the internal organs of a frog.

As Sam Mahler found out, this knowledge can then be applied to human anatomy, which is similar in many ways to that of a frog. Sam and his lab partner, Chris Lee, had the privilege of dissecting the largest frog in the class. They named it Maynard until they found out that it was a girl, and it then became Maynardette.

Sam felt that what he learned from the dissection was very useful, especially if he decides to become a veterinarian. When asked what advice he would give to younger students about dissection, Sam responded that they should be careful when using the scalpel and also that they should pay attention to the teacher and not work at their own pace.

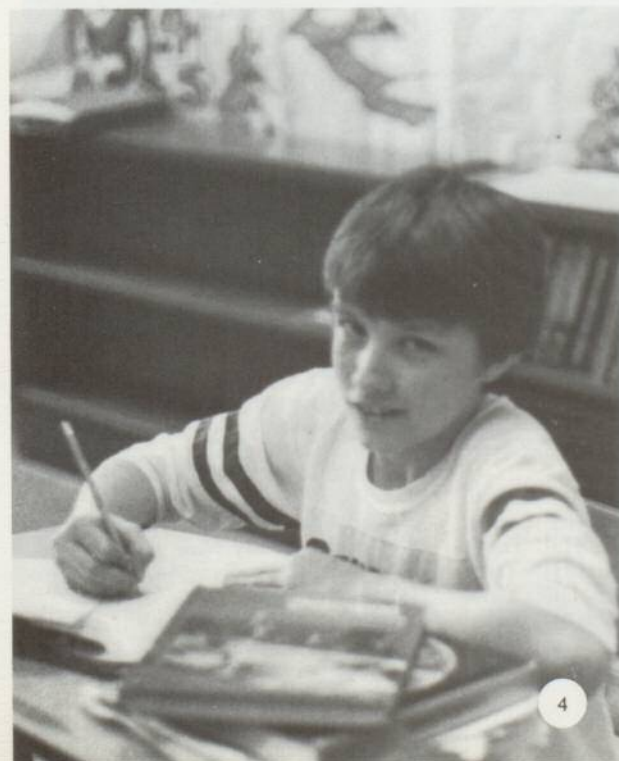

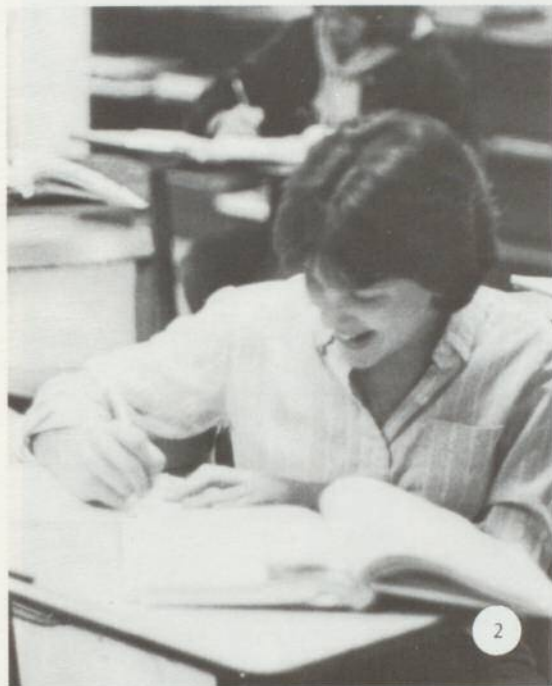

1 — Sam Mahler and his frog friend enjoy seventh-grade biology class.

2 — Jeff Shivers takes the eighth-grade CAPS test for history.

3 — Jill Hill practices her shading in art.

- 1 — Jerry Stone listens intently to the instructions in shop class.
2 — Rachel Slemmons laughs about something in reading.
3 — Rejeana Lowry shows off her skills in P.E.
4 — Jeff Tolsen glances up from his work.
5 — Mike Miller is prepared to have his hair cut by Mrs. Schmidlapp.

CHOIR CONTINUES TO HARMONIZE

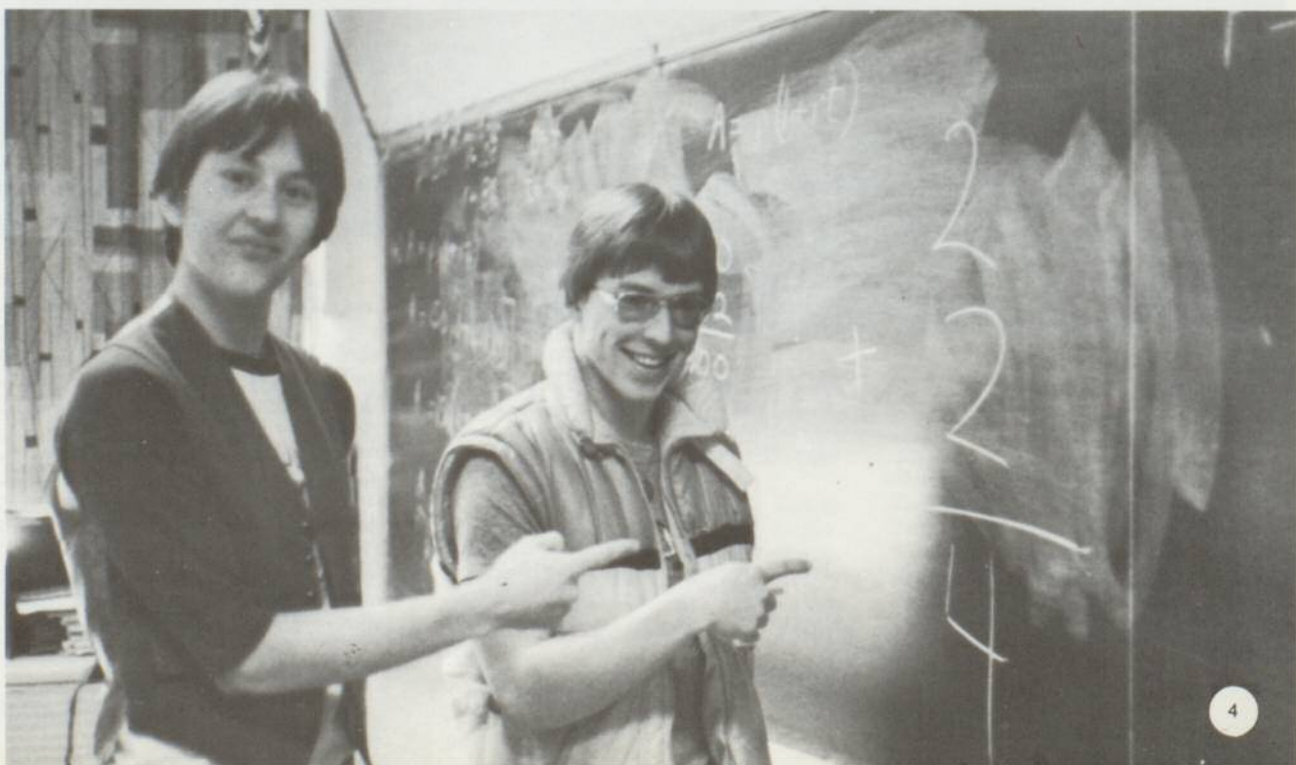

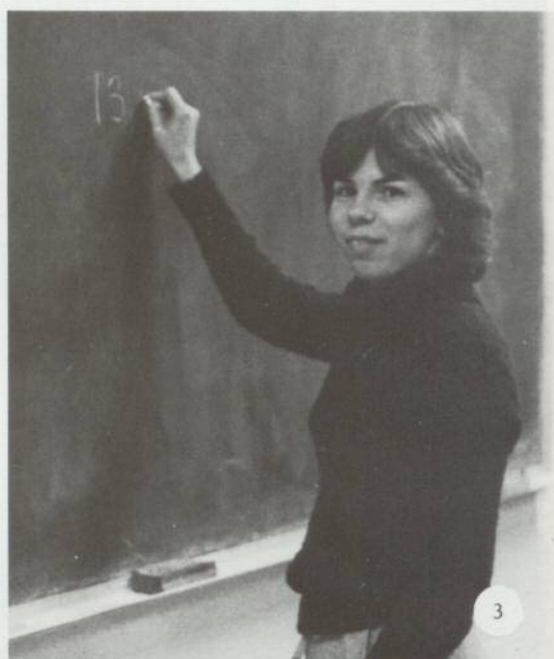

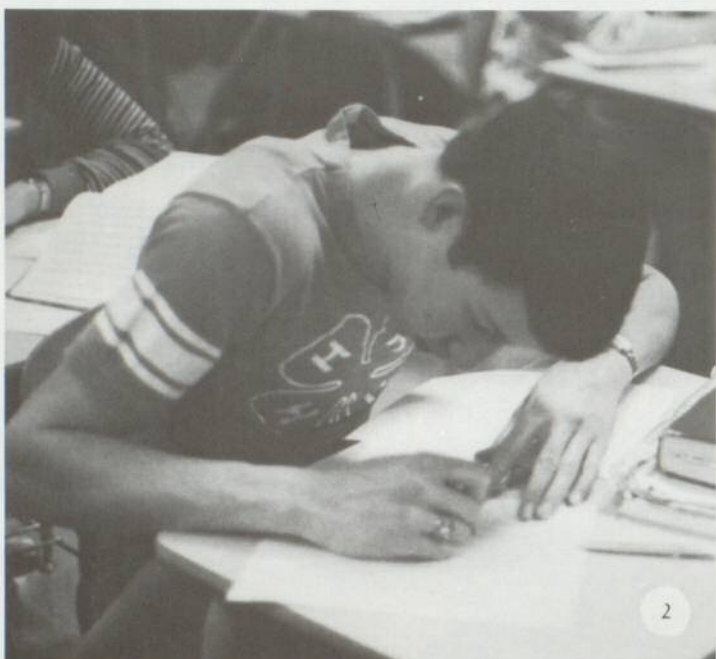

1 — Sue Smith smiles as she draws angles on the blackboard for Geometry class.

2 — Mark Barlow, working carefully, takes a quiz in Algebra II.

3 — Connie Detwiler demonstrates her knowledge in Business Math.

4 — Jim Carpenter and Dave Winenger learn how to add in Trig.

MATH PLUS SCIENCE EQUALS SOAP?

1 — Char Taylor and Cathy Snider dissect a worm in Biology.

2 — Julie Cooper, Tina Keefer, and Nancy Hartman enjoy making soap in a lab in Chemistry.

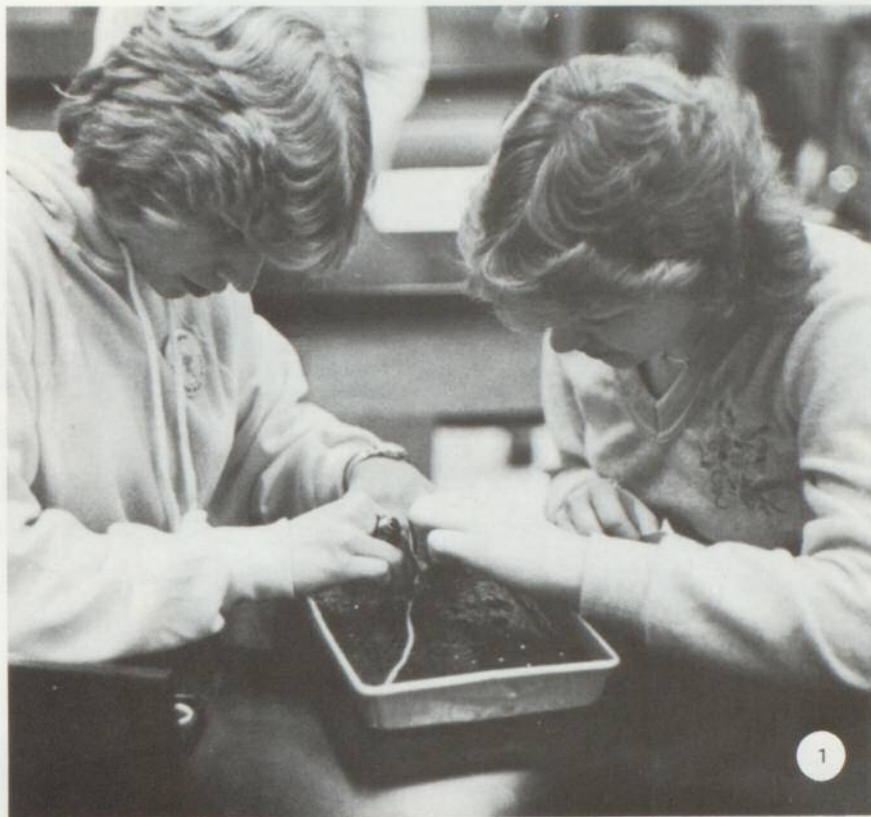

3 — Jeff Hudspeth discovers the mysteries of Physics.

One of the most interesting labs that the Chemistry class did this year was that of making soap. For centuries, people have boiled animal fat with the water extract from wood ashes to make soap. Today, however, soap is made by combining animal fat and sodium hydroxide.

From this lab, Julie, Tina, and Nancy learned that soap has several disadvantages as compared to detergents. Soap not only gives problems with hard water, but it also causes bathtub rings.

The three major areas of science study at Argos include Physics (the study of matter and energy and their interactions), Chemistry (the study of the composition, structure, and properties of substances and of the transformations that they undergo), and Biology (the study of plant and animal life).

Science and Mathematics provide the foundation for many careers — from medicine to computer programming.

1 — Jana Stauffer and Robyn Gonzalez display flash cards for Spanish I.

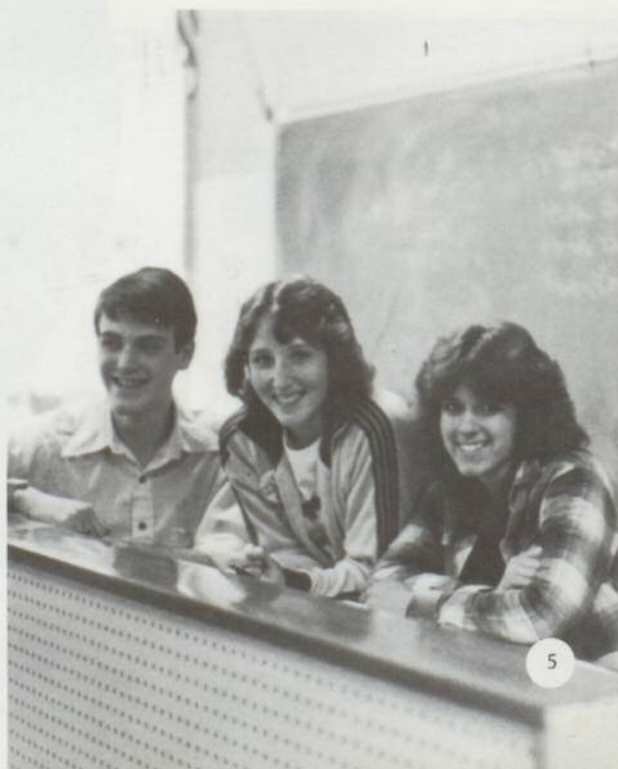

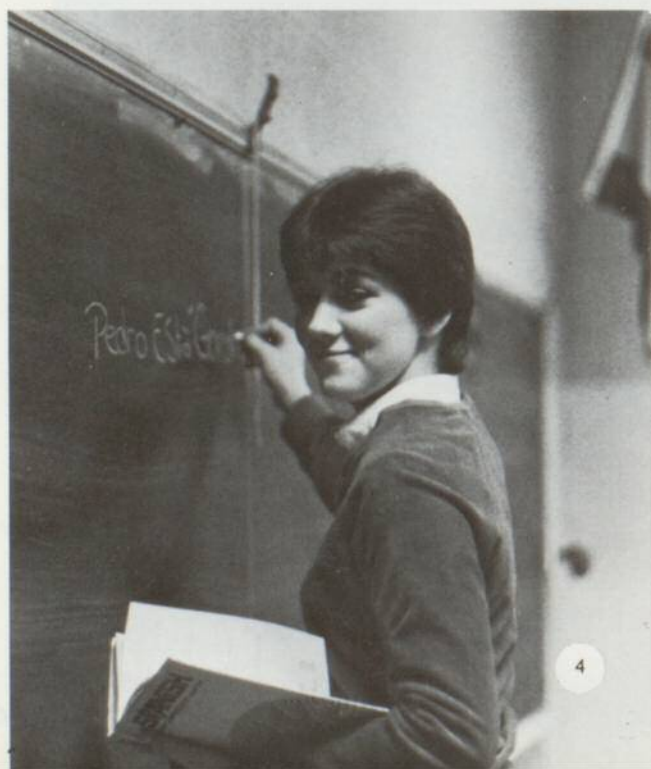

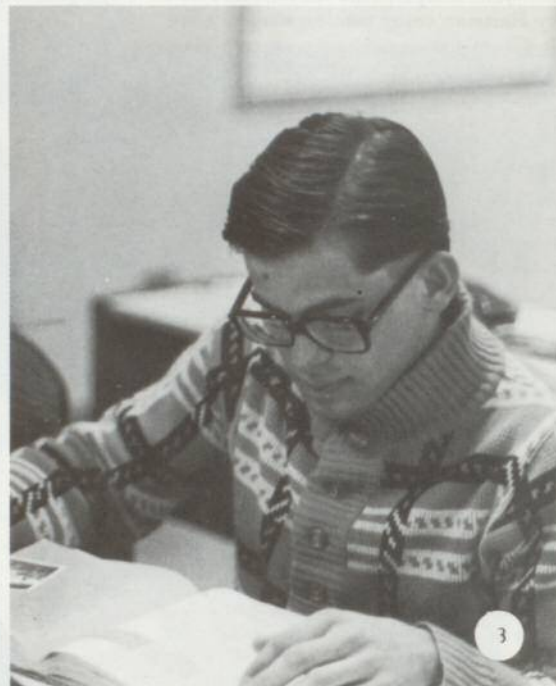

2 — Kristi Walters finds that Spanish II homework requires a great deal of concentration.

3 — John Davis, while learning customs of a foreign country, studies his French lesson.

4 — Reva Hensley diligently works at the blackboard.

5 — Bob, Michelle, and Cara share a happy thought.

THE LANGUAGE OF ART

THE ART OF LANGUAGE

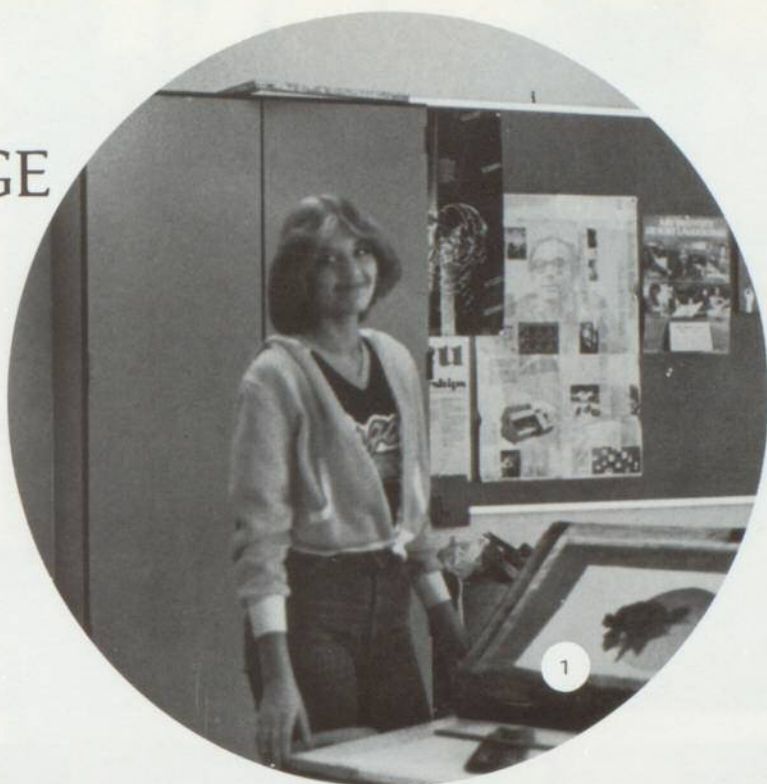

1 — Kim Lattimer, with her "award-winning" smile, displays her silk screen print of a rose.

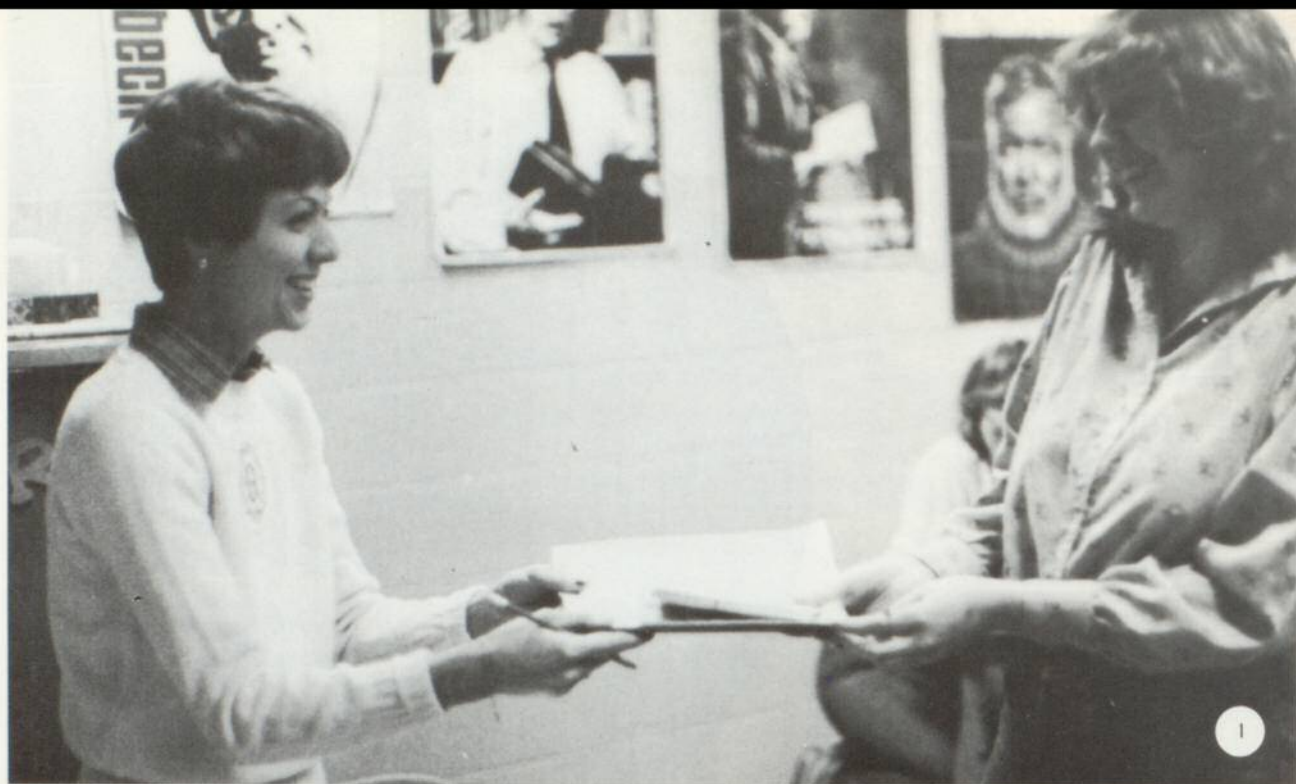

2 — Curt Irwin spends some time thinking about his project in Art II.

3 — Jeff Brown works carefully at developing his artistic ability by drawing a sketch of Mr. Miller.

The language of art has always been expressed by the creativity and imagination of the artist. Kim Lattimer demonstrated her talents in this area when she participated in the regional competition of the Scholastic Art Contest this year. Her entry, which received honorable mention, was a silk screen print of a rose. It was displayed at L.S. Ayres in Scottsdale Mall, along with approximately 4,000 other entries. Kim was the first Argos student ever to win something in this contest.

The art of speaking a second language has helped people from different countries to communicate with each other. It has also helped many students receive advanced college credit or credit from pre-testing programs. When Mr. Levi was asked why he felt students enjoyed his class, he responded, "I think students like learning something that they cannot learn in any other class. It is a change of pace from the monotony of required subjects that they have had for years."

2 — Rich Paton reads "The Pearl" written by John Steinbeck in English I.

3 — Chris Hammond works on his journalism project for the school newspaper.

4 — Claudia Robb, using Todd Kuchel as a model, explains how to cut hair in her speech.

JOURNALISM CLASSES WRITE THE NEWS

1 — Debbie O'Dell finds that giving a speech to her peers is one of life's most difficult tasks.

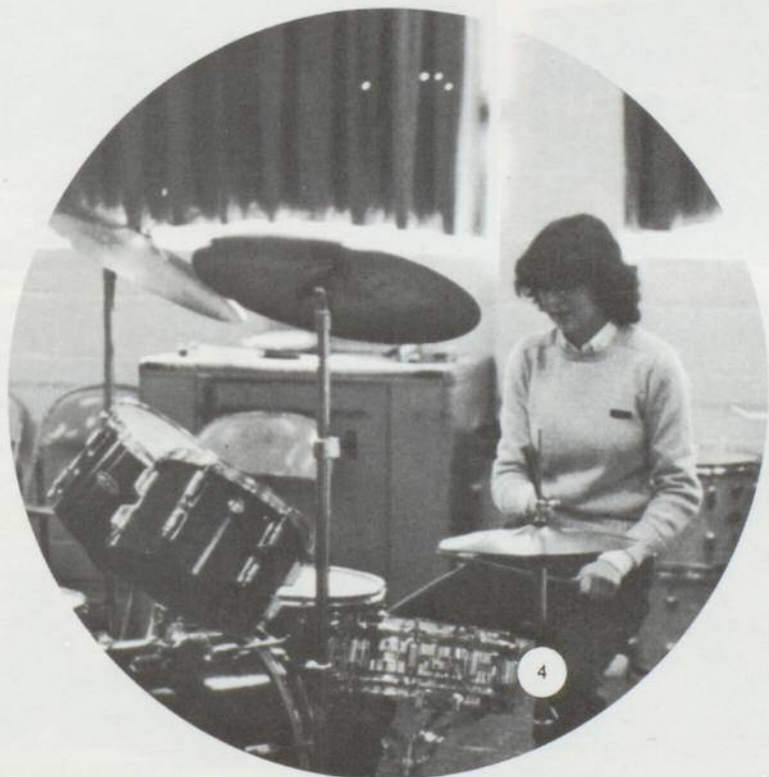

2 — Jenny Mullaney presents a speech about her poodle, Max.

3 — Julie Curry shares her experiences in camping with the class.

4 — Rhonda Gonzalez demonstrates her hidden talent on the drums in speech class.

Entertain, inform, stimulate, and persuade — these are some types of speeches. All Argos students must have at least one semester of speech to graduate, along with three years of English and a choice of either journalism, advanced speech, composition, or literature.

Rhonda Gonzalez gave her speech to inform on playing the drums. She has played them for four years. She got interested in drums at her prior school band organization. Rhonda owns her own set and plans to play in a country or rock group as her career.

THE SKELETON OF HISTORY

1 — Julie Cooper pauses to smile about something she has read in her history book.

2 — Bob Zentz reads Newsweek in History.

3 — Don Schafer concentrates on something that Mr. Wysong has just said.

4 — In economics class, Shar Taylor doesn't quite believe that supply and demand interact to create market price.

THE SKELETON OF YOUR BODY

1 — Marilyn Daugherty looks up from reading her sociology.

2 — Stan Yazel learns the names of his bones in health.

3 — Deb Winters takes a break from her work.

Sternum, femur, and xiphoid process — these are the names of some of the bones in the human body. The human skeleton consists of about 206 separate bones of many sizes, shapes, and functions. The sophomore health class is required only to memorize the names and locations of about 30 of them.

Stan Yazel learned that the living parts of the bone include cartilage cells, bone cells, fibrous connective tissue, blood vessels, and nerves. The nonliving parts are minerals.

Stan also learned about the process of ossification, which is the replacement of cartilage with bone and the deposit of minerals in the bony region.

Health class has taught students many things from life-saving practices to good nutrition to the prevention of certain diseases.

The three social studies classes required for graduation are government, economics, and U.S. History. Government and economics are taken during a student's senior year. In these classes, students learn about our democratic political system and about our capitalistic economic system. In U.S. history, the juniors study wars, treaties, presidents, and the Constitution.

The elective social studies courses include civics, social problems, and world history. In social problems students tackle such subjects as going steady, marriage, and religion. In civics, students learn how to handle their responsibilities and privileges as U.S. citizens. In world history, students study the various civilizations of man — from the beginning of time through the 20th Century. These civilizations are studied in terms of their leadership, economic systems, and contributions to mankind.

1 — Paul Harrell and Mike McCay make a wagon in Ag IV.
2 — Kim Edmonds works carefully at making a feeder.
3 — Dale Blanch's pig peeks out of the basket.

Farmers make up about 2.7% of America's population. This is why the knowledge gained in the vocational agriculture class is so important.

One of the highlights for the freshman and sophomore ag students this year was a visit by Dale Blanch. He gave a talk which enabled the students to see management practices demonstrated on an actual baby pig. Some of the practices shown were giving iron shots, notching ears, clipping needle teeth, and inspecting the underlines. The importance of sanitation for disease control was also explained.

Dale Blanch received his Bachelor's degree from Purdue University and his Master's degree at Penn State. He was Head Shepherd at Purdue for three years. Mr. Blanch, who is in partnership with Jean Wakeland, raises registered Berkshire hogs and Dorset sheep.

Mr. Emenaker remarked that he would like to see more live animal demonstrations and true-to-life experiences presented to his classes.

The Business Department at Argos High School gained a new teacher — Ginger Calhoun — who taught accounting this year. The Business Department also acquired a new electronic memory typewriter which can remember up to 8,000 different characters.

Students in the Business Department can choose from a wide variety of classes — Typing I, Typing II, general business, Accounting I, Shorthand I, sales, business law, business English, business math, and secretarial office practice.

At Argos, one semester of typing or one credit in typing is a graduation requirement. With new developments in word processing and in microcomputers, the AHS graduates will probably use their keyboard skills on their future jobs.

BUSINESS STUDENTS LEARN JOB SKILLS

- 1 — Rock McCoige changes the milling machine bit in metal shop.
- 2 — Brian McIntire and Darrell Hartman pull an engine.
- 3 — Lowell Hollar cleans an engine.
- 4 — Wendy Carlisle, in her first year in woods, learns how to use the sander and drill.
- 5 — Ernie Parker replaces the blades on a disc.

KNACK ON WOOD

Industrial Art classes offer a variety of learning experiences. The different classes available to Argos students include shop, drafting, welding, auto mechanics, and small engines.

One area in metal shop is foundry. Pouring molten aluminum from the furnace into the ladle is the first step (Picture 1). The molten aluminum from the ladle is then poured into the flash (Picture 2). Then after allowing time for it to cool, the flash is separated and the finished project is examined (Picture 3).

- 3 — Tammy McGowen and Tami Montague go over work sheets in home economics.

Home Economics students can see practical applications of the materials they learn immediately. This is why Mrs. Schmidlapp feels students enjoy Home Ec classes.

Home Ec happens to be Jenny Wolf's favorite class. From taking this class, she has expanded her knowledge in many areas such as cooking, child development, housing, budget income, and sewing.

Some of the things that Jenny has sewn this year are a wool plaid skirt, a man's dress shirt, and a blazer. Jenny advised beginning sewers not to work ahead if they think they are doing something wrong. She suggested that they not be afraid to ask questions as they work.

Jenny also encouraged guys to take this course, too, because it will help them if they plan to get married or just live on their own. Home Ec is a good course for everyone to take to prepare them for the future.

Being an office girl, librarian, or kitchen helper is not all that easy. Each position involves duties and responsibilities which have to be done.

The library helpers have to shelve and face books, check out books, put cards in elementary books, make sure the checkout desk is clear, keep track of students running in and out of the library, and check student passes. Student librarians do lots of alphabetizing in the card catalog and in the book checkout file.

The office helpers do many things — answering the phone, picking up and recording attendance, giving messages to the faculty and students, counting money, and distributing mail.

The kitchen helpers serve the lunch. Some students work in the dishroom where they sort silverware, run it through the dishwasher, and put it away.

AN INTERVIEW WITH EUGENE COOPER

Why did you become a science teacher?

I started as a Vocational Agriculture teacher and switched to science after five years, because I thought I could spend more time with my family as a science teacher. I have always liked science, and my master's degree is in the field of plant science.

What is new in your department this year?

We have new textbooks, and as a result are doing some different labs. The project biology and physics students are working on, in connection with the new park for the town, is very new and will be a different experience.

Why do you feel students enjoy your classes?

Science is so exciting. Now that I have taught a "few" years, I have more time to spend planning little fascinating demonstrations for class that help to hold attention.

How will students use what they learn in your classes in the future?

The basic thing that is taught in science is the technique of problem solving scientists apply to research problems. This problem solving can be applied to solving all kinds of problems, not to just scientific explanations. Of course, basic science is at the root of all we do, and a knowledge of this can help in everyday living.

JUST BETWEEN YOU AND ME

On February 13, 1982, Argos High School students enjoyed and danced to the music provided by the band, The Guys, at the annual Sunshine Dance. The theme of the dance was "Just Between You and Me." The dance was held in the school cafeteria which was decorated with stars, foil, and crepe paper.

- 1 — Michelle McKinney and her date take a break from dancing to talk.
- 2 — Clay Carlisle and his date, Tammie Jo Gabbard, dance the night away.
- 3 — Eighth Graders, Tina Alderfer and Glenda Mechling, help serve refreshments at the dance.
- 4 — Jerelyn Wilhelm and Lars Watson romantically slow dance.
- 5 — Tammy Montague and her date are enjoying a special moment.

1 — The band, The Guys, provide the music for the evening.
 2 — Jenny Wolf pins a boutonniere on Calvin Bailey's lapel.
 3 — Cathy Snider and Jim Lipka are all smiles when they dance.
 4 — Kim Edmonds and Michelle Bean show off their dancing ability.
 5 — Dawn Crum and Alan Palmer pose for the photographer.

HELLO, DOLLY

1 — The dancers dance because Dolly (Valerie Overmyer) is back in town.

2 — Dolly (Valerie Overmyer) teaches Cornelius Hackl (Kevin Van Duyne) how to dance.

3 — Dolly is back at Harmonia Gardens.

4 — Dolly hides Barnaby Tucker (Jeff Herrin) from Horace Vandergelder (Rod Miller) in Irene Molloy's Hat Shop.

5 — Horace and Mrs. Molloy (Tami Tucker) discuss their future marriage plans.

Opposite Page — 1 — The 1982 Choral Department sings in the spring musical, "Hello, Dolly!"

Opposite Page — 2 — Mrs. Molloy, Minnie Fay (Melinda Lefert), Barnaby, Dolly, and Horace are singing "Motherhood March."

THE STORY

Dolly Levi (Valerie Overmyer), a young, attractive widow, was left to live from hand-to-mouth by her late husband, Ephraim. She was a matchmaker, one who arranges marriages in New York City in 1890.

Horace Vandergelder (Rod Miller), a tightfisted hay and feed merchant, sent Dolly to Yonkers after his niece Ermenegarde (Kim Thompson), until her "foolish notion" to marry Ambrose Kemper (Ernie Parker), a struggling young artist, is stifled. Upon her arrival in Yonkers, Dolly is dismayed to learn that Horace has planned to propose to Irene Molloy (Tami Tucker), a pretty young hatmaker to whom Dolly Levi had introduced him earlier. Now, Dolly has secretly planned to marry Horace herself.

Cornelius Hackl (Kevin Van Duyn) and Barnaby Tucker (Jeff Herrin), two underpaid clerks, have decided to head to New York to get a bit of adventure, which is against Vandergelder's orders.

The whole group winds up at the Harmonia Garden's Restaurant as a result of Dolly's manipulation. When Vandergelder spies his two disobedient clerks, a fight starts, and the whole crowd is hauled to court. There, Cornelius declares his love for Irene, and Dolly tells Horace she is leaving.

Having no bride, no clerks, and no friends, Horace finally realizes that he does indeed need Dolly.

68 SENIORS
GRADUATE
FROM AHS

Leaving Argos High School this year were 68 great Seniors. They took with them all of their memories of their past 13 years and great expectations for the years to come.

1 — The Senior Ensemble sings "I'll Never Walk Alone" with Tami Tucker as the soloist.

3 — Mike McCay adjusts his cap before graduation.

4 — Shar Stults explains the Senior motto in her farewell speech.

5 — Stephen Keith, AHS Principal, congratulates Scott Jennings as he goes down the line of the '82 graduates. Mr. Keith has been at AHS for the past four years and is leaving to accept another position in Indianapolis. His positive leadership will be missed by the students, the faculty members, the staff, and the community.

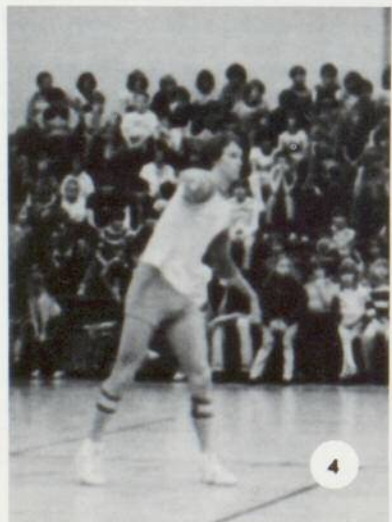

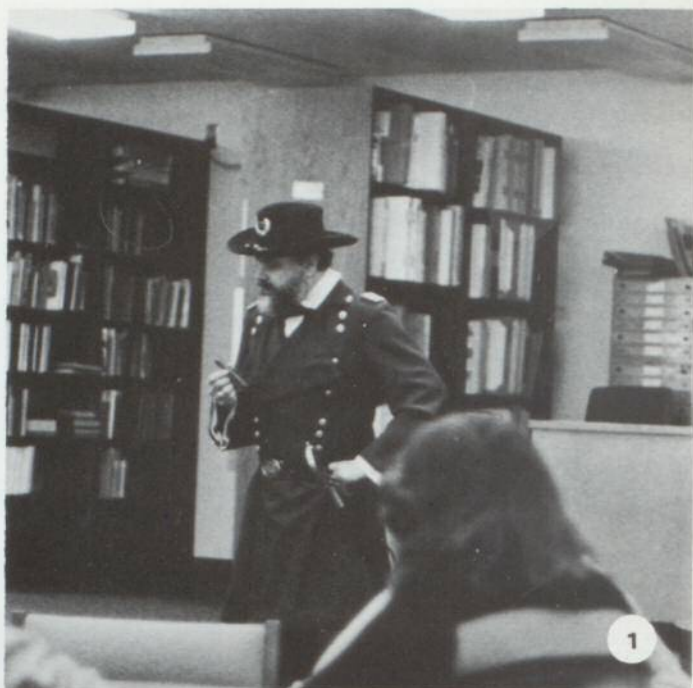

CONVOCATIONS ENTERTAIN AND INFORM

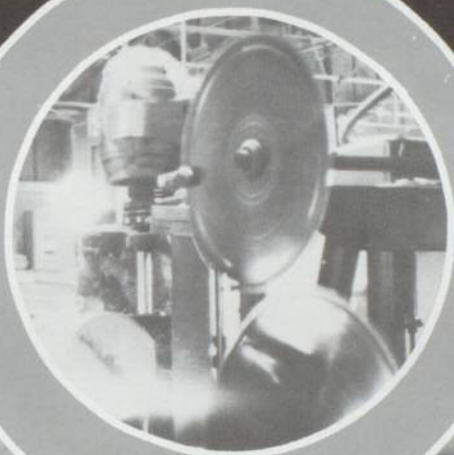

1 — The 8th grade students watch George Dauler play the role of General Grant.

2 — Kim Heuer introduces the Aces. The Aces are champions in throwing frisbees.

3 — Jim spins a frisbee.

4 — Randy shows his form.

A tradition of progressive banking

Progressive,
yet traditional.

Although that sounds like a contradiction, it's a description that fits us perfectly. Because we're really both. Traditional when it comes to such old-fashioned values as integrity and good business sense. Progressive in the way we continually find new and better services to meet your banking needs.

In a way, our customers have the best of both worlds. And since 1901, we've been working to keep it that way. With the last word in progressive banking. That's our finest tradition.

COLOR YOUR YEAR HAPPY ... COLOR YOUR YEAR HAP

PY ... COLOR YOUR YEAR HAPPY ... COLOR YOUR YEA

May 23, 1982, will be the last time all of the Seniors will be together. The thought is a sad one, because each one of us will miss a friend or a teacher. But on that day, we will start a new life different from our years at Argos. Some of us will go in the service; some will go on to college; some will become farmers; some will get married. But each of us has a goal in life, and we should strive to meet that goal. Just remember if the sun can make a rainbow out of raindrops, just think of what you can make out of your life.
