Seniors

In November, the Senior English class traveled to Indianapolis Repertory Theater to see "A Christmas Carol" and then enjoyed some free time at The Circle Mall before heading home.

Class Motto:

"To our beginnings, there will be no end. Thanks for the memories, the class of 2010."

The senior class felt it only appropriate that their senior picture be taken with the Argos Fire Department Fire Engine which began the year at the high school, putting out a fire that occurred in the building only 1 day after their senior year had begun. Thanks, Argos Fire Department.

The Class of 2010.

Scott Sanders has always wanted to drive the Fire Truck, or at least sit in the drivers seat!!

They finished the season with a 8 wins and 9 losses.

Dragons Continue the Tradition...

Girls' soccer has consistently been one of the best programs in the area. 2009 was another good year with a 12-5 record. Despite being the smallest school, Argos is often the name circled on the other team's schedule. 8 of our opponents were sectional champs or runners-up and 2 advanced to the semi-state. Some highlights were beating Kankakee Valley who later advanced to the semi-state, and an exciting penalty kick shoot-out win with Westview. Despite a close 2-1 loss to Culver Academy, Argos won the Northern Indiana Soccer Conference for the 8th time--more than any other team. A disappointing 0-1 loss to Plymouth in the sectional couldn't change Argos' domination in the series (20-6-2). The defense was solid this year, with 7 shutouts, and a 5th-best 1.18 goals allowed per game. The 20 goals allowed tied a school record. The senior's 4-year mark of 52-19-4 was the second best ever, and included a 2007 Sectional championship. Also unusual was having six 4-year letter winners. This team enjoyed each other more than most, and can be proud of their accomplishments. They carried on the Argos girls' soccer tradition in a manner of which they can be proud.

"Most of us seniors have been playing soccer together since we were just wee little things, and I wouldn't have wanted it any other way. I love you all, good luck with everything in life. "

Senior, Jami Hooker

Dragon Basketball

Rebuilds

2009-2010 was a challenging season for the girls' basketball program as it had its first losing season in seven years. After a tough 1-9 start, the girls regrouped to go 6-5 in the second half of the season and finished 7-14 on the year.

A new system under first-year coach Joel Lowe came with a steep learning curve. Coach Lowe, however, felt the girls played hard every game. That effort resulted in a solid defense allowing about 45 points per game, which is similar to previous seasons. However, the weakness of the squad came on the offensive end. The 43 points per game scored on average was about ten points fewer than last year. Just adding those ten points would've meant six more wins.

With a 46-15 varsity record the previous three seasons, it was difficult for the players to take the losses. During the first half of the season, the Dragons were competitive nearly every game and several games came down to one poorly played quarter. But when the girls had a single win with nine losses to show for their efforts, it was easy to get discouraged. To their credit, this year's edition of Dragon basketball didn't fold, and they can take solace in the six-win and five-loss record in the last half of the season. Some teams would have quit, but these Dragons were made of tougher stuff.

Highlights of the season included a four-game win streak started by an upset of Rochester in the consolation game of the Winter Classic, and a victory over Bethany Christian on Senior Night.

Kassi Hensley averaged 8 points per game to lead the team, followed by Kyla VanDerWeele (6.6 ppg). Both Hensley and VanDerWeele finished with around 400 career points. Juniors Latisha Shepherd (5.9 ppg), Sam Stults (4.1 ppg) and Alex Zechiel (3.6 ppg) should make for a good core for next season, while freshman Kayla Prochno averaged over 5 points a game and cracked the starting line-up before injuring her foot prior to the sectional. Karlee VanDerWeele, also a freshman, contributed increasingly as the season went on.

Team awards were Kassi Hensley (Most Valuable), Hannah Alcorn (Mental Attitude) and Alex Zechiel (free throw award).

Regardless of the difficulties of the year, the Dragons played hard every night, and showed the determination to improve.

2009-2010 Boys Basketball

The Argos - Culver Bell game is "Hoosier Hysteria" at its finest as Argos WINS the bell for another year.

*"The 2009-2010 Argos basketball team was a fun year. I had the best senior year that I could have. Coach Grindle was a great coach and made things really fun for our team and myself."

Learning is Exciting

Grandparents Day is always an exciting time for the kindergarten class to show what they have learned to their captive audience.

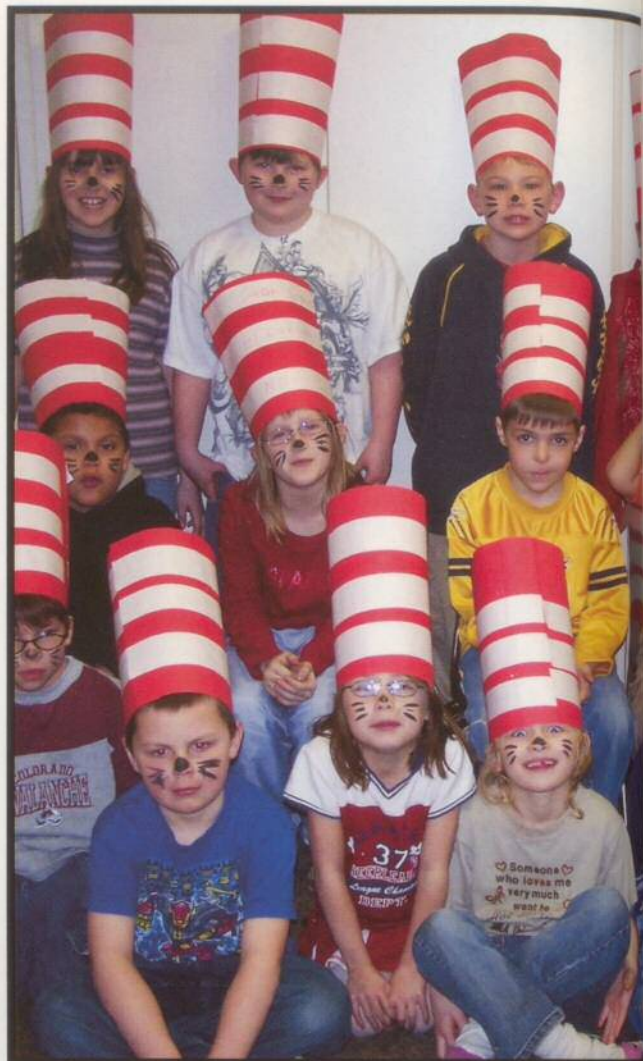

Dr. Seuss

Dr. Seuss's birthday is a big celebration at Argos.

During the week of his birthday, the elementary students are treated with several of his books, which are read to them by high school students and faculty who volunteer to spend time in their classrooms bringing his books to life.

Cake is served during lunch to students in K-12 to honor him and prizes are given for the best costumes.
