

Response to motion to leave

By Wxxxxxx Hxxxx

Gilbert Perez leaving this case confirms that there are secrets that must stay off the record. His denial to do what I asked him to do confirms that he was assigned to control, not to represent. To limit my rights to a fair trial and to advocate for my son.

He seems like a decent man, so I don't blame him for getting out while he can. I wouldn't want to be stuck being expected to make sure certain things don't get put on the record while I limit another Dad from getting his son and him in a safe environment.

I asked Perez if he would ask Ashley something when she was on stand that would basically shut this entire wave of discrimination and manipulation completely down.

Gilbert received the evidence that I have allowed to stay off the record to avoid discrimination and because I wanted to win full custody based on what my petition has shown. I wanted to win because I am the more fit parent and I am not a parent doing things to create chaos. Unfortunately, everyone wants to push it to a spot where they think they are going to trick me. So even though Gilbert wanted to only discuss defense, I asked Gilbert if he could ask the mom something when he cross examined her. This was the first question of many more that need to be asked if everyone is going to take it to this level. Gilbert said no with a tone that showed slight disgust and agitation and told me I was thinking of weird things and to stay on task.

This was after Gilbert expressed how he was trying to help me by asking me if I thought subpoenaing the school would do good for me. Something he already asked me that I responded to through text. I felt insulted and argued how it was a legitimate question that could clear up everything real quick. My tone was assertive but I didn't say anything disrespectful to Perez, who claimed I was being disrespectful. We ended the conversation by agreeing to meet the next day at 1230. Right as I submitted a complaint to the FCLU and the NYS commission of judicial conduct, Gilbert called me back and said he scheduled a digital hearing for the next day where he was going to drop from the case.

I anticipate KDV showing her disappointment in me again as she paints a narrative that I am to blame, and I'm sure I'll be seen as the one who is delaying the trial, Again.

When I asked Perez to do something that could actually help me win this case, Perez drops out and is doing what everyone does, blame me.. Proof. Again. That discrimination and unfair right to trial is happening. Proof. Again. That the court is trying to control and manipulate everything. Unless the court has a plan to stop interfering with the Dad's, the Mom's and the child's lives, there is no excuse for any of this and it needs to be shut down immediately. The corruption needs to go immediately.

It's funny how people blame me for bribing, yet the truth is, I have been holding on to evidence, in hopes that the court will do the right thing. Holding it because I don't want to hurt my son's mom.

All I've seen so far is manipulative tactics that are far too familiar. Eerily similar to what the mom has done. Now I'm really wondering if my son's mother is the one to blame or is it her lawyer? If a parent's lawyer is responsible for coaching deceptive behavior that are actually attempts to divide a parent and child by manipulating things to make it look like the other parent is brainwashing and Alienating, does that lawyer belong anywhere near a family court? How can a court claim to want what's best for the child while they allow a parent and a lawyer to do things like this? This family court is garbage and they are literally ruining children's lives.

Maybe it's not the small hearted boy Jeff. Maybe it's someone else with deeper roots in the system. You see, the further we go the more I see, and the more likely this is going to get way bigger than anyone wants. But it just keeps going. And if it is, everyone is still responsible for what they've done.

What I asked of Gilbert was one of many things that needs to be asked at trial. And if my lawyer refuses to represent me, I will report it. Because there is nothing wrong with what I suggested and it was nothing unethical like Jeffrey Gerace using a photo album to get me arrested, from an order of protection that should be used against the mom and whoever told her to file it, because it shows what the court has done to my son's mother and how everything I've said in my petition is real and why my son and I need to get away. At least that immature and desperate move showed exactly what the order of protection is and exactly who Jeff is. Not that all of us didn't know this already. It truly exposed what people have done to my family and confirmed that people like Jeff have no place in a place that decides the futures of families, and especially children's.

My son and I are indeed victims of a federal crime.

The discrimination I've faced now has another example.

I've faced lawyers that try to get me arrested for photo albums and coach/pressure my son's mother into filing orders of protection that were originally assisted to obstruct justice. Then go to hearings where everyone acts like they didn't read what I caked layers of in my petition to remove all doubt. Leaving only discrimination left if I don't get full custody. Unless Ashley has been pressured into doing the things she did by someone else.

So Ashley gets the lawyer of the year who does something desperate and unethical. Is this how Jeff wins his cases? Schemes that create real parental alienation while he blames the one being alienated as the alienator? Pathetic. In a fair court, this would backfire completely which if not here, it will somewhere else eventually.

For me, so far I've received a lawyer who didn't respond to me, then I pay a law firm that gets taken off of the case while I lose $2500. Then I get a lawyer who doesn't want to ask questions that are very relevant, and that would end this harassment and brutal attempt of parental alienation once and for all. Everyone knows what's going on but they all want to teach me a lesson. Teaching me a lesson is obviously far more important than the well being of the child, but these people don't care if it's obvious. Because they can just tell me I can't speak and tell everyone that I'm crazy.

This court case has been a circus and a complete joke. It's obvious no one cares about the child here but me. Everything you all have suggested, claimed and enforced hasn't helped the child or Ashley or me one bit.

I feel like I asked a place to help my family, that is responsible for destroying it and the further we go, the worse it gets.

I'm starting to feel like my son's mother is a small portion of the reason for many things that happened. Could the family court be responsible for child abuse? Maybe the family court is being pressured by someone else? Maybe that's why Lorna lied, why my business has been sabotaged, why secret orders were placed, why I was told not to speak as the false narrative driven OOP was enhanced, and why Jeff stooped so low.

I've been blamed for coercion, but it looks like my son's mom is being coerced by others.

I've been blamed for parental alienation, yet all I see is people going out of their way to divide my son and I.

I've been blamed for brainwashing, but I only tell my son the truth and I'm seeing a lot of lies and manipulation from the people who make decisions for children and families.

This is considered parental alienation. Each person who assisted a false narrative, created obstruction to having a peaceful life with my son, and each person who has done something unethical in relation to this case, is guilty of parental alienation.

The Mom made the wrong choice by lying and manipulating to get help from scum bags and criminals. The court made the wrong choice by allowing her to manipulate them. Meanwhile you all watch my son and I go through unbelievable times while my heart is completely ravaged on a daily basis. Then you all point your fingers at me and judge me while you know deep down what everyone has done to us. You know that the mom's best life was with us and ours was with a committed mom/wife.. But none of that mattered. The only thing that mattered was you. You teaching me a lesson. It's pathetic.

Have you never had someone find out what is really going on? There's no way I'm the first right?

Here's an idea that helps everyone keep things covered up... take accountability or make the mom take accountability. I'm sorry but a man who mocked my child and I, sabotaged my business and/or taunted my child so that I would do something that could possibly put me in jail will be fought until the death of me. There is no way the family court could possibly allow a parent time with a child that the child doesn't want to be with (for great reasons), while also forcing the child around a man that has disrespected the child and the other parent in such ways. There is no way a court can allow split custody to a parent who is directly related to a business sabotage so bad that their child lost his home. Now that's on record. That should be more than enough.

Choose what you will and understand while doing so that I am not Nick abele.

I'm not Ben ronnenberg, Jeffrey Gerace, Andrew stedxx, james baxxr and I'm definitely not Robert moore.

I am Wxxxxxx Hxxxx, proud father of Elias Hxxxx and he is damn proud of me being his Dad.

I will not quit.

Ever.

I don't hack peoples accounts or parasite off of other men's business. I don't scheme and try to get good Dad's arrested. I don't steal from people or make shit up to get full custody of my kid, and I don't mock other men in front of their children.

So far, the worst mistake in my entire life was seeking help for my family at the family court of monroe county.

And if I find out that more people are coercing the girl that we needed, I give you my word that you will see your day too.

I am requesting a new attorney for the child since the one in this case has been nothing but an attorney for the mother and a person with personal agendas that are more important than the child, such as payback for her girl Darcie.

I am requesting a new judge and one that will be fair as I am ashamed I voted for KDV. Or i am requesting KDV to step up to the plate and be the person I spoke to before she was elected.

If the mother has to have two attorneys, then fine, I'm use to it by now. But all I ask is that the court assigns me someone who is going to fight for my son and I. 2v1. It's still advantage mom. I'll take those odds all day as I have had nothing close to it in the past 3 years.

If none of the above can happen, can you pay me back the $2500 that I paid for a law firm that you found a way to get rid of, so I can pay for my own lawyer at least?

The need for closure and to fully understand The Who's, what's and whys are even more important now. I have every right to be represented by a lawyer who is going to ask the questions that need to be asked.

There was a good 9 months the mom could've changed , but she got worse. And it's 100% because of the support for her getting stronger and the encouragement to continue making our lives chaotic and sad.
