

Alondra Union

About us

PATH Sociedad Anónima de Argentina, was founded in 1991 by Engineer Pedro Daniel Corrado, who is the current CEO of the company.

This boutique software company, focused on providing computer services, to three prestigious universities, and was developing different research applied to optical character recognition technology.

Research

Since 2020, PATH begins an ambitious project, to develop an algorithm, executed by its own software, of the short and medium-term trends, of the prices of the main commodities, based on the coverage reports, published weekly by the Commodity Futures and Trading Commission (CFTC), of the United States government.

Goals

This project will provide practical guidance to Central Banks, Investment Banks and Sovereign Funds, as well as to the small investors, producers, collectors, distributors, exporters and importers from around the world, on how to correctly allocate their resources and inventories. This system works like a weather radar, anticipating future price movements, from a few weeks to several months in advance.

Achievement

Number of commodities analyzed: Approximately 280, covering the agriculture, energy, metals, currencies, and indices (bonds and stocks) sectors.

Forecast accuracy: an accuracy of between 85% and 91% was achieved.

Visualization of the results: advanced graphics are used, provided by the MongoDB database technology. Tables and explanatory videos of current trends, are also used.

Publication of information: through free periodic reports on Amazon, and electronic newsletters in HTML5 format.

Types of reports: short-term - 30 days - and medium-term - between one month, and up to 18 months, depending on the commodity.

Return on investment: Backtesting was done, which confirmed an average return of 17% per year.

Outlook

The evaluation commission of the GoGlobalAward event, to be held soon, on Long Island, in November 2023, will be informed of this project in detail.

The evaluation of a stock market index will be carried out, and the formation of different investment vehicles.

Get in Touch

Web: <https://alondraunion.com/>

Email: info@pathsa.com.ar