

Skills

Guiding and supporting authors through the publishing process
Creating and maintaining schedules
Creating and maintaining budgets
Sourcing and managing freelancers

For fiction and non-fiction:

Writing reader's reports
Proofreading
Copy-editing
Structural editing
Onscreen editing including full Word styling for typesetting preparation

I have both a clear eye for organisation and project-management, and an excellent ear for prose and dialogue. I am widely read and tertiary-trained in narrative techniques. One of my specialities is the ability to work within an author's voice; I maximise the reader's engagement with a story without trespassing on the writer's intentions.

I am extremely reliable, often returning projects early. I work to a budget though I can also charge by the hour if preferred. For self-publishing authors, I provide full editorial services at market rates. For authors hoping to secure a contract with a mainstream publisher, I offer reader's reports, which are an affordable alternative that help with self-editing or provide direction for a new draft. I also work with selected uncontracted authors, helping them develop work for self- or trade publishing.
