

Community Assistance Centers

The greatest humanitarian work will be done at the local level in Communities. The Community Assistance Centers (CAC) is the major vehicle Zim Benefactors will use to bring a wide range of programs and facilities for use in support of the community.

Zim Benefactors Participation in the CAC

With the importance of each Zim Benefactor controlling their own funds, the CAC Program will be implemented by a Zim Benefactor who begins the Revenue Sharing Solutions Program (CAC) in an area or country they want to help. The CAC Directors as described below, will be given authority to do Employee Contract Shares and other responsibilities that use the Benefactor's funds. Therefore, the Benefactors will organize and hire their own people to do the CAC program along with the RSS program. Each Benefactor's employee should be given an Employment Contract Share for compensation. These two programs work together, hand in hand to do the humanitarian work.

Boots on the Ground Admin Structure

The CAC structure starts with a Benefactor hiring Directors at the State level and then into State regions, then counties, then cities, then in individual geographical areas or communities. An administrative structure of Directors will be established at each level in each geophysical area. So, the Director will be the administrator of the geographically designated community. The Director will have the authority to hire as many assistant directors as he/she feels are necessary to accomplish the humanitarian efforts in that community. The Director will have Six main areas of responsibility.

1. Directors will seek out small, service-oriented businesses and offer Employment Contracts to their employees.
2. The Directors will have authority to establish and change the Employee Contract Share's per-minute-download amounts for the RSS share. Using a personal Pin number, each Director will have a personal connection into the RSS Platform under the Benefactor's ID #, where they will function in support of the small business owners and their employees.
3. The Directors will act as a liaison for the RSS share program. He/she will interface with those organization that are participating in the Revenue Sharing Solution program such as church congregation, clubs, and other non-profits who are registering their members into the RSS program.
4. The Directors will Administer the use of grants and loans for infrastructure improvements, IE: buildings, playgrounds, and playground equipment, developing fields for sports and local green houses for food growing activities, in coordination with humanitarian projects initiated by the churches and other non-profits.
5. CAC Directors will interface with Government officials to establish Employment Contract Shares for government workers under the Government Assistance Program (GAP).

Governments of Nations must be GESARA Compliant and have access to the QFS in order for our CAC and RSS programs to work.

6. The Directors and Assistant Directors will also support the National Real Estate Listing Service with Condo conversions, land development for housing, and other related Real Estate activities. The Directors may have many expanded responsibilities as the CAC is implemented in a community. The Benefactors will always maintain control of their funds.

Making Volunteers Directors

Many neighborhoods have underfunded volunteers who do a tremendous good for under-privileged children, etc. We suggest Benefactors find these individuals and employ them as Directors or Assistant Directors. They should be given authority to build local organization around them using Benefactor funds to support their activities. Setting up Trusts with Directors being the Trustees is a great way to put funds into the communities. Finding the buildings and locations that they can build their programs around, can be a priority.

The CAC has a structure that supports the training and cultivation of these volunteer types who will do most of the work in these local communities. Directors in the CAC will be organized in each nation by Benefactors who get involved with our programs. These Directors should be given authority to create Trusts that will function in regional, state, county, city, and local areas to meet the goals of each Community Assistance Center and fund their work. This is why each Benefactor will set up their own structure so they have complete control of their funds as they supervise the CAC Directors.

Benefiting Inner-City Populations

One phase of the CAC program focuses on the inner-city populations where youngsters may come from dysfunctional families. The RSS program will play a key role in funding such programs from paying the volunteers, to paying for facilities and providing supplies and equipment for after school use. Each Community Assistant Center may be given an RSS Trust Share to sustain the day to day needs of the programs. These Directors will have authority to create low payout Childrens Trusts for children that come from broken homes that joins these Boys and Girls organizations. The payouts may be in the pennies-per-minute range. The Director will act as the Trustee to manage the use of the money. This Program may be a vehicle to get parents on the RSS Program. These Trust are positioned to augment what parents are doing for their children. The Director will be given the Referring Bonus to register adults in the area for the RSS program. We see a small weekly allowance given for each child in the Children's Trust program.

Creating a Future for Inner City Children

Many of these children are under the age of 18, so, creating Trusts for their growing up expenses and savings that can be available when they turn 18, will significantly change the way they grow up. They can pay for an education in the fields they have an interest in and the sustained income will give them what they need to create a life for themselves. Couple this with the National Real Estate Listing Service and the children can see their way to obtain a home in their future when they turn 21. This hope in the future creates opportunities that do not presently exist. When they turn 18, they can register as an individual Shareholder to support their own financial endeavors We will find these people as the RSS program is shared with churches and congregations in the local communities. The CAC structure will also cultivate a 2-year volunteer mentor program for retired professionals to act as mentors and advisors for those who come from broken homes, and want to find their niche in life. These Mentors will be compensated using the RSS program.

Managing the CAC structure

The management words for Benefactors is “delegate” responsibility and require “accountability”. The use of an accounting firm with reports, etc., will help support Stewardship Responsibility for the Benefactor. Therefore, each Trust created in support of the Community by the Directors should have an account with an accounting firm to account for the money being spent. Reports generated for each Trust, will be used for management purposes. Any misuse of funds should be investigated by law enforcement agencies. This is necessary to build an efficient, well-functioning humanitarian structure.
