

EAGLECAST WEBINAR SERIES

MARCH WEBINAR

THE T-E-A-M PRINCIPLE

MARCH 28 | 8:30-9:30 AM

REGISTER

THE T-E-A-M PRINCIPLE

with Chris Richie, Director, Auburn University Human Resource Development and part-time leadership instructor for the Harbert College of Business

The T-E-A-M Principle was born from a leadership crucible that Chris Richie experienced early in his career which form a leadership philosophy he still uses. In this webinar, he will share a compelling story describing how a group of average individuals achieved extraordinary results by adhering to the T-E-A-M Principle (Train, Empower, Acknowledge, Mentor). Read more

Colonel Chris Richie, U. S. Marine Corps (Retired), is the Director, Auburn University Human Resource Development and serves as a part-time leadership instructor for the Harbert College of Business.

Chris has led at every rank from Lieutenant to Colonel and directed nine diverse organizations with increasing levels of size, scope and responsibility culminating with command of a Marine Air Control Group [2,500 people, $4 million annual operating budget, $266 million equipment assets]. Read More