This event is hosted by Black Youth Empowerment (BYE) Institute

We work with at-risk youth and BIPOC students from underrepresented populations to provide them with opportunities to support their personal, educational, and professional growth while engaging and empowering their communities by addressing problems and assessing needs. We partner with organizations working to improve the livelihood of Black and Brown people, and train youth and young professionals as social impact leaders. We give young adults the platform to utilize and amplify their voices and bring innovative ideas to impact society for all.
