NEW BOARD MEMBER BIOS

Robert "Chip" Stephenson

Born in Fort Wayne and raised there until middle school, Chip graduated from Columbia City Joint High School in 1992. While attending college and working full-time in Fort Wayne, he married Jennifer Moore and moved back to Columbia City in 1996. In 1997 Chip was hired by the Columbia City Police Department where he worked for over 25 years until retiring in 2023. Chip and Jenny bought Shoes & Moore from members of their family and have enjoyed running it to this day. Chip's wife Jenny is employed at Whitley County Government in the Engineering Department. They have two grown children, Thomas and Megan, and reside in Columbia City.

Naomi "Sue" Lewis

My career with the Allen County courts began in 1964, shortly before Bill and I married. I worked as a deputy clerk until our daughter was born in 1967. While raising our three children and pursuing my education, I continued taking part-time assignments with the Clerk and Superior Court.

Once the kids were in school, I headed to IPFW and earned my bachelor's in criminal justice. This led to an internship and a seven-year career with Victim Assistance at the Fort Wayne Police Department. By 1991, I was the Director of the YWCA Women's Shelter, which allowed me to serve on several domestic violence boards and commissions at both the city and state levels.

In 1997, I stepped back to focus on my master's in public affairs and my mother's care. During that time, I also served as a director and trustee for Specialized Alternatives for Families and Youth, a foster care agency. Family has remained my priority; I was my mother's primary caregiver until she passed in 2009, and I have spent the last five years caring for my husband.

ARTICLE'Mom, I need money!': Beware of AI voice technology being used in scams

Criminals only need seconds of your voice to clone it.

By Tania Luviano Hurwitz • Published March 3, 2026 • Updated on March 3, 2026 at 5:33 pm

Artificial-intelligence voice-cloning scams are rising in San Diego and across the country, with criminals using advanced AI technology to fake emergencies and trick families into sending money.

Experts warn scammers can now clone nearly anyone's voice in seconds — using just a short audio clip pulled from social media posts, videos or voicemails.

To see how easy it is, we asked AI strategist Roberto Moutal to clone a voice using free technology available online. He needed only about 10 seconds of audio. Moutal said recreating someone's voice is even easier than generating images.

The Federal Trade Commission has warned consumers since at least 2023 that scammers can clone a loved one's voice with just a short audio clip, but, Moutal said, the problem is getting worse as technology advances.

When asked whether someone needs to be an AI expert to clone a voice, Moutal was clear.

"No, no, super simple, all you need is to get 10 seconds of your voice, and that's all I need to create," Moutal said.

Scammers can easily capture audio from social media posts. Moutal used a brief clip from a human voice to build a voice clone. Within seconds, the AI-generated voice delivered a convincing message.

Hey, Dave, I'm here at the bank, and for some reason, the ATM is not working. I think I may have the wrong PIN number. Can you give it to me again, please?"

The result was unsettling.

"Super dangerous," Moutal said.

Law enforcement sources and the FBI say AI "virtual kidnapping" and family emergency scams are exploding. The FBI has issued warnings about criminals using AI-altered media and voice cloning to extort ransom payments in fake kidnapping schemes.

"They're absolutely AI, and you can't tell," Moutal said.

A Berkeley study surveying more than 600 people found that participants incorrectly identified AI-generated voices more than 80% of the time.

Moutal said families should create a secret pass-phrase to verify emergencies.

"Today you gotta have some kind of pass phrase or secret phrase with your relatives," Moutal said.

'Mom, I need money!': Beware of AI voice technology being used in scams

Moutal suggested asking a personal question that only close family members would know the answer to.

"What is the last movie we saw? Something that no one else but you two would know, and that's the only way you can start believing things," Moutal said.

When creating a safe word, it's advised to do it without any devices nearby in case someone is listening.

Experts also recommend never sending money, gift cards or cryptocurrency based solely on a phone call. Instead, hang up and call your loved one back using the number saved in your contacts. If a caller pressures you with urgency or fear, experts say, it is almost certainly a scam.
