Lord Cornwallis:

"The constant incursions of Refugees, North Carolinians, Back Mountain Men, and the perpetual risings in different parts of the Province, the invariable successes of all those parties against our militia keep the whole country in continual alarm, and render the assistance of regular troops everywhere."

Washington Irving:

"The Battle of Kings Mountain, inconsiderable as it was in the number engaged, turned the tide of southern warfare. The destruction of Ferguson and his corps gave a complete check to the expedition of Cornwallis. . . ."

Thomas Jefferson:

"It was the joyful annunciation of that turn of the tide of success which terminated the Revolutionary War with the seal of our independence."
