Brief History

The Penn Yan Racquet Club originated in the former Elmwood Theatre, with shadows of the old balcony and echoes of vaudevillians accompanying play. That is until Penn Yan demolished the building to construct its new village hall.

The club expanded to include Racquetball players and raised money for the new building through members contributing a "share" and a generous donation from our former landlord. Construction was a true "barn raising", with a local Mennonite construction crew. Originally on "Sewer Plant Lane", the street address was changed to 10 Elmwood Court to honor the old Elmwood Theater, our site of origin. Our name was amended to Penn Yan Racquet Club to reflect the addition of the Racquetball court and the Pickleball courts.

The club continues to invest in capital projects to improve the members' experience. Some of the major improvements over the last five years include:

1. Air handling system to improve air circulation
2. UV lamps for germicidal protection
3. Air conditioning to improve temperature and humidity in the summer
4. Refurbishment of lobby and bathrooms
5. New entry way to increase changing space and keep dirt and water off courts
6. Scrubber to clean tennis/pickleball court thoroughly and more often
