

You Bet Your

Life

outdoor experience

'You Bet Your Life' outdoor experience participated June 3rd and 4th in a meteorological test survey for Channel 9 TV Weather Department by proving beyond a shadow of a doubt that their abnormally high mosquito report for the weekend was extremely accurate. We also helped the Good Morning America show in New York City by documenting their weather prediction of a miserable rainy weekend. A N D Y E T, IN SPITE OF UNSURMOUNTABLE ODDS AS THESE, 'You Bet Your Life' pulled through and proved once again that we can have fun anywhere, anytime no matter what. Those who went on the trip will find the amount they owe attached to this newsletter.

The Keys Trip planned for June 24th and 25th is still on. Due to the high cost of the boat rental it will be necessary to have a minimum of six people signed up to go at an approximate cost of $40.00 per person. This will include one night at the Holiday Inn, all food, transportation there and back, boat rental for two days and all the sunshine you can stand. Those interested in going contact Brent S. at 305-259-3613 and give him your $25.00 deposit by no later than Wednesday, June 21st.

Unquestionably the interlocking third generation involvement requires no further elaboration. It is doubtful whether a random, self executing time cycle influence crystallizes its own serious deficiencies.

Don't forget our cruise. Last word we had from Bon Voyage Travel Agency was that they were booked solid for the first week of August. Anyone just dying to go and are in tears because its too late to sign up, contact Cheryl K., she has a cancelled spot that she can sell you. Deadline for this cancelled spot is July 1st when it will be turned over to Bon Voyage.

The Walnut Bottoms hiking trip to North Carolina is now tentatively planned for the last weekend in August. This will be for a Friday, Saturday, Sunday, and Monday and will be all back-country campsites which means sleeping in two man tents rather than solid shelters. (We didn't go to Walnut Bottoms last trip because the area was closed because of an over-abundance of too friendly bears!).

Anyone interested give Eric H. your $1.00.

We're always open for trip suggestions. Anyone interested in a one day or weekend, spur of the moment excursion give us a call. There's always someone looking for another someone or sometwo to do something with. (i.e. hiking in Ocala, picnic to Wekiva, a walk in the Oviedo swamps, a trip to the beach, a bar-b-que, canoeing anywhere, whatever, cause someone from 'You Bet Your Life' is bound to be interested.)
