artist & thought leader*

Luli Sulichin

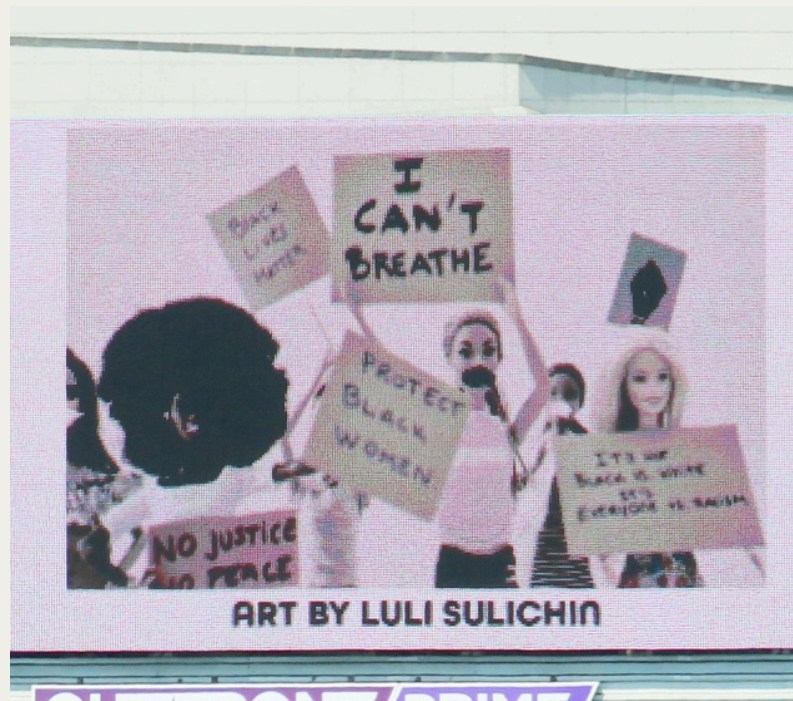

Luli believes that her role as an artist and thought leader is to engage with global audiences to address difficult topics through playful and sarcastic fictional episodes.

ABOUT LULI

Luli Sulichin is an American visual artist, born in Argentina in 1984, who interweaves art and technology, emerging as a thought-leader in the field. Her artistry spans large-scale installations and a multitude of disciplines, employing materials like acrylics, collages, digital performances and photography. Luli's work critically examines societal norms and moral questions within a global culture, probing themes of liberty, beauty, morality, and the potential to redefine the past and the future.

THOUGHT PROVOKING ART ON EARTH & BEYOND

Raising The Future

Luli's work Raising The Future was prominently displayed on Miami's 195 causeway between the Adrienne Arscht Performing Arts Center and the Perez Art Museum of Miami

Content Apathy

Her digital performance Filtered / Fragmented: Content Apathy was showcased on the iconic Nasdaq Billboard of Times Square in 2023

Digital Octogenarian

Luli's artwork transcended all barriers by reaching the surface of the Moon as part of the Lunaprise Mission Museum collection. Her work with the UN Sustainable Development Goals of Gender Equality, Technological Innovation and Education was inspired by her grandmother, and recieved world wide accolades.

Generation S

One year later, Luli returns to Times Square once again with another digital performance. In Filtered/Fragmented: Gen S she once again calls for authenticity within virtuality and explores the correlation between the use of filters in social media and the compulsive consumption of beauty products in teens and tweens.
