A Message from the Founders of SLIVS

Welcome to a new vision for learning. In this eBook, you will discover how Summit Learning Institute® Virtual School (SLIVS) is transforming education for middle and high school students across the United States. We share our passion for providing a safe, stable, and high-quality learning experience that meets today's challenges head-on, while empowering families, students, and educational partners to take charge of their future. Education today is evolving faster than ever, and families need adaptable solutions. At SLIVS, we believe that learning should be accessible, relevant, and empowering. Our virtual school model is designed with flexibility and personalization in mind, so students thrive academically while developing skills that prepare them for success in college, careers, and life. This guide will take you through our educational philosophy, academic programs, and the real-world impact SLIVS is having on students, families, and partner organizations across the country.

As founders, we draw from both our professional backgrounds in education and our personal experience as parents and homeschoolers. We successfully graduated all three of our children from home-based learning at the age of sixteen. Two of them received full scholarships to college and graduated with honors, and the third is currently excelling at a historically Black college on a full academic scholarship as well. Our journey taught us the value of flexibility, cultural affirmation, and high standards, and those values are embedded in everything we've built at SLIVS. We want families to know that they can educate their children in a way that reflects their values, pace, and priorities. Education doesn't have to be one-size-fits-all. It can be personal, powerful, and transformative.

The SLIVS model is rooted in the belief that students thrive when given agency, structure, and the right support. Our school is designed to be flexible enough to meet the needs of diverse learners, including students with special education needs, high-achievers, homeschoolers, and those seeking to recover credits or transition from traditional schools. We are proud to offer an accredited program that is rigorous, innovative, and culturally responsive. Our teachers are certified, compassionate, and equipped with the tools to support students academically and emotionally. Our commitment to programs that include AP courses, CTE pathways, NCAA-approved courses, and meeting CA A-G requirements sets us apart from other virtual schools.

We understand that choosing the right educational path is a major decision. That's why this guide is not just informational—it's a blueprint for understanding the benefits and possibilities of virtual private education. Whether you're a parent, student, educator, or community partner, we hope this eBook inspires you to think differently about what school can look like. You'll learn about the state of education today, the advantages of virtual private schools, and why SLIVS is uniquely positioned to support learners and families in this new era. From the foundations of school choice to the practical steps for enrollment, this eBook offers a comprehensive view of what we believe is the future of learning.

Thank you for taking the time to explore what SLIVS has to offer. We believe in the power of education to uplift families and transform lives. By the time you finish reading this eBook, we hope you'll not only understand the SLIVS model, but see how it can be a catalyst for your child's academic and personal success. We're excited to welcome you into our learning community and walk alongside you on your educational journey.

Part I: Understanding the Educational Landscape

The Power of Parental Choice in Education

Parental choice in education has emerged as one of the most impactful shifts in modern schooling. For decades, parents were expected to send their children to the neighborhood public school, regardless of whether it met their needs. But today, a growing number of families are demanding more flexibility, control, and alignment with their values. School choice allows parents to select educational options—including public, charter, magnet, private, and virtual schools—that work best for their children. At SLIVS, we see this movement as a step towards empowerment. When parents are given options, they are more likely to be involved in their children's academic journey. Empowered parents lead to empowered students.

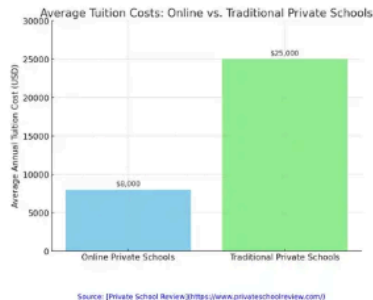

This transformation is not just about logistics; it's about freedom of choice. School choice gives families the freedom to opt out of systems that have historically underserved them. For many marginalized communities, including Black and Brown families, many public schools have failed to provide safe, affirming, and rigorous learning environments. Virtual private education offers a pathway out of educational inequality. It gives parents the ability to choose high-quality instruction, individualized pacing, and safe learning environments. Families no longer have to settle for schools that don't reflect their values or meet their child's unique needs. Instead, they can actively shape their child's academic path while serving as the primary educators of their own children.

The rise in homeschooling and virtual private schooling is a direct result of families reclaiming this power. Parents are asking critical questions: Is my child safe? Is my child seen? Is my child being prepared for the future? When the answers to those questions are unclear or unsatisfactory, school choice becomes the solution. SLIVS supports parents in making informed decisions by offering a transparent, flexible, and high-quality virtual private school experience. Our enrollment advisors walk families through the decision-making process with honesty and care. We don't just enroll students—we build partnerships with families.

Critics of school choice often argue that it undermines public education. But in truth, it introduces healthy competition and raises the bar for all schools. When parents have choices, schools are encouraged to innovate, listen, and improve. Virtual private schools like SLIVS are filling a gap that public systems have struggled to address. Rather than being in opposition to public schools and private schools with high tuition costs, we see ourselves as part of a broader solution. We collaborate with public and nonprofit partners to support credit recovery, tutoring, and enrichment. School choice isn't about exclusion—it's about inclusion through empowerment.

Our Tuition is Affordable

Online Private School vs. Traditional School Tuition Costs

The graph compares the average annual tuition cost of online private schools and traditional private schools in the U.S. This chart shows online private school costs are significantly less—around $8,000 annually compared to $25,000 for traditional private schools. As a result, private virtual education provides a more affordable alternative while maintaining high-quality instruction and personalized learning opportunities.

Ultimately, parental choice is a human right. Every child deserves access to an educational environment where they can thrive. And every parent deserves the right to choose that environment without financial or systemic barriers. SLIVS stands with families seeking autonomy, flexibility, and excellence in education. Through this guide, we aim to show why school choice is not only necessary—it's transformative. Your child's future shouldn't be dictated by a district boundary or outdated model. With school choice and virtual private education, the future is in your hands.

Part II: Introducing SLIVS – Summit Learning Institute® Virtual School

What is SLIVS?

Summit Learning Institute® Virtual School (SLIVS) is a fully accredited, online private school serving middle and high school students across the United States. Students can enroll anytime and from anywhere in the U.S. SLIVS was created to provide families with a flexible, high-quality learning alternative that honors the diverse needs of modern students. We offer rigorous, standards-aligned curriculum paired with personalized support, mentorship, and student accountability systems. Our school is designed to empower students to take control of their learning while receiving the support they need to thrive. SLIVS serves students from all walks of life, including homeschoolers, student-athletes, credit recovery learners, and families seeking to ensure cultural alignment and safety for their students. By removing geographic limitations, we provide equitable access to private education at a fraction of the traditional cost. SLIVS offers the benefits of a private school with the freedom and innovation of online learning.

Vision, Mission, and Core Values

At SLIVS, our vision is to transform education by making high-quality, student-centered learning accessible to all. We aim to develop confident, capable learners who are equipped with the academic skills and self-awareness to thrive in any environment. Our mission is grounded in student agency, empowerment learning, and academic excellence. We believe in meeting students where they are while guiding them to where they want to be. Our core values include innovation, transformation, joy of learning, and partnership with families and communities. These values drive every decision we make—from our cutting-edge learning management system (LMS) to teacher preparedness and certification to how we support our students every day. By committing to these principles, SLIVS ensures that students are not only learning but also growing into thoughtful, responsible, and empowered individuals.

What Makes SLIVS a Premier Online Private School

SLIVS is distinguished by its accreditation, its personalized learning pathways, and its commitment to whole-child development. We are accredited by both Cognia and the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC), ensuring that our diplomas are recognized by colleges and employers nationwide. Our course catalog includes core classes, Advanced Placement (AP), honors, and dual-enrollment options for college credit. We also offer Career and Technical Education (CTE) programs that prepare students with real-world skills and certifications. Students benefit from a flexible learning environment that supports asynchronous instruction, allowing them to balance academics with personal commitments. Our experienced educators, learning specialists, and learning navigators (a.k.a., academic mentors) provide layers of support to ensure students stay on track. SLIVS doesn't just prepare students for tests—it prepares them for life.

Personalized Learning Pathways

SLIVS students begin their journey with an individualized learning plan that outlines their goals, pacing needs, and support structures. Our model accommodates learners who need acceleration, remediation, or simply a different pace than traditional school allows. Students can choose when and how they learn, allowing for a more customized educational experience. Our platform includes weekly monitoring and monthly mentor check-ins, real-time teacher feedback, and parental access to progress reports. Students are taught how to set goals, manage their time, and reflect on their academic habits. These soft skills are essential for long-term success in college and beyond. By centering the student in the learning process, we build agency, confidence, and a deeper love for learning.

Mentorship and Support: Balancing Independence with Guidance

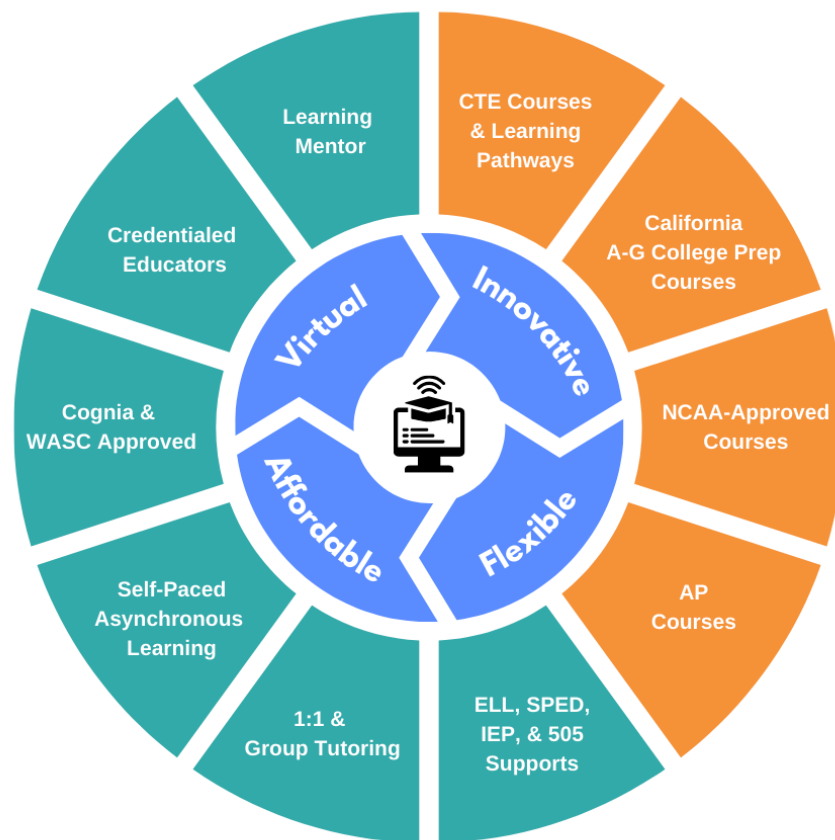

One of the cornerstones of the SLIVS model is the intentional relationship between students and their assigned learning navigator. Every student is paired with a learning navigator who acts as a coach, advocate, and accountability partner. These academic mentors conduct regular check-ins, help students stay on track with assignments, and provide emotional encouragement. They also communicate with families to keep parents informed and engaged in their child's academic journey. This system balances the independence of online learning with the relational support that students need to thrive. In addition to learning navigators, students also have access to on-demand online academic tutors and special education specialists, if needed. The result is a network of caring adults who are invested in each student's growth. At SLIVS, students may learn online—but they are never learning alone.

Part III: SLIVS Offerings and Community Impact

Tailored Solutions for Schools, Nonprofits, and Community Organizations

SLIVS is more than just a virtual private school—it's a strategic partner to schools, nonprofits, government entities, and community-based organizations across the country. We understand that many educational institutions face staffing shortages, budget constraints, and learning loss among students. Our team of account executives collaborates with partners to co-design virtual programs that address these challenges directly. Whether it's through after-school tutoring coupled with course enrollment or customized credit recovery solutions, SLIVS builds flexible programs that integrate with existing operations. We offer asynchronous instruction, licensed and credentialed teachers, data dashboards, and curriculum aligned to partner goals. Our collaborative approach ensures that students receive high-quality instruction while partners receive the support they need to scale and serve. These partnerships allow us to expand access to private education at an affordable cost while reinforcing community partnerships, collaboration, and impact on key student learning outcomes.

Summit Learning Institute® Virtual School (SLIVS)

A Private, Virtual School Experience Where Innovation Meets Personalized Learning

After-School Tutoring and Credit Recovery

Learning doesn't always happen during traditional school hours, and not all students thrive in standard classroom settings. SLIVS offers flexible after-school tutoring through online, on-demand tutoring and credit recovery programs that serve students who need academic reinforcement or a second chance. Our tutors personalize instruction based on each student's needs. These programs can be offered one-on-one, in small groups, or through structured modules aligned with state standards. Students who have fallen behind due to illness, life disruptions, or disengagement can catch up without stigma. SLIVS partners with schools and nonprofits to deliver these services virtually, making them accessible to students regardless of location. Our programs include real-time feedback, mastery tracking, and learning navigator support to increase retention and completion. With SLIVS, students are not defined by past setbacks but supported toward future success.

Career and Technical Education and Workforce Readiness

Today's students need more than academic knowledge—they need career readiness and marketable skills. SLIVS provides Career and Technical Education (CTE) pathways that prepare students for the workforce while they earn their diploma. Our CTE programs include digital marketing, entrepreneurship, health science, information technology, and more. Students can earn digital badges and industry-recognized certifications that enhance their resumes and college applications. Each CTE course connects academic content to real-world scenarios and helps students understand how classroom learning applies to their future. We also include soft skill development, such as communication, time management, and leadership, to prepare students for interviews and work environments. These programs are ideal for high school students exploring career options or needing relevant skills for employment. SLIVS empowers students to graduate ready for both college and career.

Special Education Services and Academic Intervention

SLIVS believes in equitable access for all learners, including students with special education needs and those requiring academic interventions. We offer “exceptional education services” as a full continuum of services aligned with IEPs, 504 plans, and intervention plans. Our special education teachers collaborate with families to create customized learning experiences that are both inclusive and responsive. Interventions are geared toward scaffolding learning and assignments, progress monitoring, and accessing assistive technology tools. We ensure compliance with federal guidelines while prioritizing student dignity, autonomy, and progress. All students are viewed through a strengths-based lens and are given opportunities to thrive. At SLIVS, diversity in learning is celebrated, and every student is supported to reach their full potential.

Partnering with Families and Making Education Affordable

Families are central to everything we do at SLIVS. We maintain open communication, provide training and onboarding, and include parents in every phase of the educational journey. Parents can receive weekly progress updates through our LMS, access to a student learning portal, and opportunities to meet with learning navigators and course instructors. We also understand that affordability is a major barrier for many families seeking private education. That's why SLIVS participates in Education Savings Account (ESA) programs, state-sponsored school funding and scholarship programs, and is an approved vendor with ClassWallet, a digital wallet platform that many state-sponsored school choice funding and scholarship programs use. Additionally, we offer multi-student and military family discounts, scholarships, and payment plans through PayPal to expand access further. Our goal is to ensure that every family—regardless of income—can choose an education that works for them. With SLIVS, private education becomes possible, not out of reach.

Part IV: Homeschoolers and Alternative Education

SLIVS as a Homeschooling Partner

Homeschooling is one of the fastest-growing educational choices among families across the United States. SLIVS supports families who homeschool by offering an accredited curriculum, credentialed teachers, and personalized guidance while preserving the flexibility and autonomy that homeschooling provides. Many parents choose to homeschool for reasons such as safety, cultural affirmation, academic rigor, or religious freedom. SLIVS complements these values by providing high-quality courses, structured pacing guides, and live support options that families can choose based on their needs. Whether a parent is seeking a full-service academic provider or looking to supplement their instruction, SLIVS offers solutions that are customizable and aligned with state standards. Students can remain registered as homeschoolers while benefiting from the resources of a full private school. This hybrid model supports academic success and parent-led flexibility without sacrificing accreditation or college readiness.

Legal Options for California and Other States

Homeschooling is legally recognized across all 50 U.S. states, though specific requirements differ from state to state. In California, for instance, families can legally homeschool through one of four main pathways: the Private School Affidavit (PSA), Private School Satellite Program (PSP), Independent Study Program (ISP), or by hiring a Private Tutor. SLIVS supports families using either of these options by acting as an instructional partner and academic recordkeeper, easing administrative responsibilities for parents. In states like Florida, Arizona, New York, New Hampshire, Utah, and Tennessee, Education

Savings Accounts (ESAs) and school choice programs enable families to apply public funds toward SLIVS tuition. Private school tuition may also be covered through merit and need-based scholarships, private loans, or state-approved funding options. Our team assists with compliance, helping families meet state requirements, manage records, and align instruction with state standards. We believe homeschooling should feel empowering, not overwhelming. SLIVS offers families clarity, support, and flexibility.

Meeting the Needs of Black Homeschooling Families

Black families are driving the surge in homeschooling with numbers growing rapidly over the past decade. For many Black parents, traditional schools have failed to affirm their children's identities or protect their emotional and psychological well-being. SLIVS is uniquely positioned to serve these families, as our founders are experienced Black educators who homeschooled their children and deeply understand the cultural dynamics involved. We offer curriculum that includes diverse authors, supports the flexibility of parents to integrate culturally relevant themes, and offers opportunities to explore Black history beyond textbook overviews. Black families find in SLIVS a community where their children are not only supported academically but seen, valued, and celebrated. We honor the legacy of educational self-determination while building toward liberatory futures. Homeschooling is not just an escape from broken systems—it's an opportunity to create something better.

Research, Results, and Rising Trends in Alternative Education

Research consistently shows that homeschoolers outperform traditional school peers on standardized tests, SATs, and college readiness benchmarks. Alternative education approaches foster creativity, self-regulation, and agency—qualities often underdeveloped in rigid classroom environments. SLIVS takes these benefits further by combining the strengths of homeschooling with the structure of accredited instruction and expert teaching. Our flexible pacing allows students to master material rather than memorize it. Families see improved academic confidence, stronger communication skills, and increased college and scholarship eligibility. As more families question the limitations of traditional schooling, interest in alternatives continues to rise. SLIVS is proud to be at the forefront of this movement, offering a modern model that's both effective and empowering.

Why SLIVS is the Right Partner for Homeschooling Success

Choosing a homeschooling partner is a big decision, and SLIVS stands out because of its adaptability, experience, and commitment to student growth. We don't take a one-size-fits-all approach; we offer multiple learning tracks that fit various family structures and learning goals. Students can accelerate through subjects they've mastered or receive extra support where they struggle. Parents are treated as collaborators, not clients, and are included in planning, pacing, and assessment. SLIVS provides a strong community of educators, learning specialists, and learning navigators while partnering with homeschoolers to identify social learning and out-of-school time activities. We also support high schoolers with graduation pathways, college applications, and career planning. For families seeking a rich and supported homeschool experience, SLIVS is not just a school—it's a partner in their child's full educational journey.

Part V: Proven Success and Real Stories

Meet the Founders: A Family's Homeschooling Journey

The story of SLIVS begins with a personal and powerful journey of educational self-determination. Dr. NNeke Allen-Harrison, Ed.D., and Dr. Chris Harrison, Ed.D., the founders of SLIVS, are educators with over 25 years of experience in education who chose to homeschool their three children. Their decision was rooted in a desire to provide a culturally affirming, academically rigorous, and emotionally safe learning environment that traditional schools could not guarantee. Through home-based education, they helped each of their children graduate from high school by the age of sixteen. Each child went on to earn merit-based college scholarships and pursued their passions in fields such as cybersecurity, management information systems, business management, and doctoral research. The success of their children stands as a living testimony to what intentional, customized education can accomplish. Their story laid the foundation for SLIVS and inspires every decision made in the school today.

The Harrison Family's Story of Academic Excellence

The Harrisons did not simply remove their children from the traditional school system—they created a learning ecosystem centered on purpose, discipline, and joy. They combined structured learning plans with hands-on experiences, travel, service learning, participation in their local church activities, and exposure to Black excellence in every form. Their eldest daughter now works in marketing for a cybersecurity company, after working for Google and Youtube for a few years post graduation, their son is nearing completion of his Ph.D. in the University of California system, and their youngest daughter maintains a 4.0 GPA while completing her undergraduate studies in an online undergraduate HBCU program with a major in Business Management. These outcomes were not accidental—they were built on intention, alignment, and accountability. Through high expectations and loving guidance, the Harrisons proved that families can educate their children exceptionally outside traditional systems. Their journey continues to inform SLIVS's emphasis on high expectations, scaffolded learning, student agency, and whole-child development. It is not just their story—it is the school's blueprint for excellence.

Organizational Partnerships and Community-Based Impact

In addition to serving families directly, SLIVS has formed partnerships with schools, nonprofits, and community organizations to extend its reach. SLIVS can partner with youth development nonprofits that offer afterschool programs to provide credit recovery for students who are on the verge of dropping out. SLIVS can also collaborate with community-based organizations and middle and high schools to offer summer enrichment to students impacted by pandemic-related learning loss. These partnerships demonstrate SLIVS's ability to serve as a scalable, impactful solution that meets the needs of entire communities. Through these collaborations, SLIVS is helping to close opportunity gaps and offer hope where traditional systems have fallen short.

Appendices

Appendix A: Comparison of SLIVS vs. Traditional and Charter Schools

When comparing SLIVS to traditional and charter school options, it becomes clear how our model stands apart. SLIVS offers unmatched flexibility with both asynchronous and synchronous learning, allowing students to work at their own pace while receiving support from live teachers. Traditional schools are bound by strict schedules, limited course options, and overcrowded classrooms. Charter schools may offer some alternatives, but often lack consistency in quality or access to advanced and special education programs. SLIVS is accredited by Cognia and WASC, ensuring our diploma is recognized by colleges and employers nationwide. Additionally, our students receive personalized mentorship, individualized learning plans, and support services not found in many traditional or charter environments. While public schools remain free, SLIVS supports tuition through ESA and voucher programs in many states, making it an affordable private option for families seeking innovation and excellence.

Appendix B: State-by-State Guide to School Choice Programs

Families seeking to enroll in SLIVS often ask whether their state offers funding assistance through Education Savings Accounts (ESAs), vouchers, or other school choice programs. This guide provides an overview of current options. States such as Arizona, Florida, North Carolina, and Tennessee have robust ESA programs that allow public funds to be directed toward private and virtual school tuition. Other states like Wisconsin, Indiana, Georgia, and Ohio offer voucher programs that support similar access. Some states also offer tax credit scholarships that reimburse families for tuition and expenses related to private education. California, while not offering ESAs or vouchers, still supports homeschooling through independent study and PSA models. SLIVS provides guidance and documentation support for families navigating state-specific programs. For the most current eligibility and program requirements, families should consult their state's Department of Education or SLIVS enrollment advisors.
