

John & Jamie

Dear birth family,

Hi! We're Jamie, John, Sam and Jack from Kansas City. We hope this glimpse into our little family helps you to see how much we love and cherish our children, and value the open relationships we share with their birth parents.

Our relationship began in an unconventional way by meeting at the grocery store! March 2023 marked 17 happy years together. John was raised in the Midwest and spent eight years in the Air Force. He works from home in computer security and loves to bike, fish and camp, and is a big Chiefs fan! Jamie was raised in New England and taught third grade before choosing to stay home with our boys. She loves all things horses, playing the guitar, and soaking up sun on the beach. Our journey to grow our family began with news that we would never have biological children. We were heartbroken, but knew it didn't matter how our children came to us. For us, love was all we needed to be a family.

Enter Sam and Jack 😊 Sam(8 in August) and Jack (5 in August) were both adopted as infants. They are all boy, and our home is full of wrestling, trucks, trains, and dinosaurs. Sam loves being a big brother and is quick to protect and nurture Jack. He loves to teach him new ninja moves and correct his dinosaur names. Jack is our fearless toddler, a natural little fish and a ray of sunshine. He is quick to smile, all while stealing your snacks and cuddling in your lap. Both boys adore babies, and would love another brother to wrestle or a little sister to partner with. We have a wonderful relationship with both Jack's birth mother and birth father, and hope to continue fostering that connection throughout his life. As a family we love nature hikes and parks, local attractions like World's of Fun and Royal's baseball games, and traveling to the gorgeous Florida coast each year. We bot come from very large families, the majority living close by. Sundays and Holidays are almost always spent with Grandparents, aunts, and cousins. Our time together is full of friendship and noise, and we find joy surrounding ourselves with family. Our children are our first priority, and we can promise a home full of love and laughter. Our children are our first priority, and we can promise a home full of love and laughter. We are eager to develop and maintain a life-long connection between our children and their birth families.

We understand how important that bond can be, and we promise to foster that relationship. We look forward to beginning this journey together.
