Combining authentic Armenian heritage and New York City attitude, Arianna Danae is inspired by her own diverse cultural experiences growing up, bringing these influences to bear with flair to compose her own style of ethnically-blended sounds and true four on the floor music grit.

Emerging circa 2018 through more intimate Brooklyn venues, Arianna found her first true home at Jupiter Disco in 2019 with her monthly Rebelle events, which weathered the pandemic and brought in many now-respected names of the Brooklyn nightlife circuit. 2021 saw the beginning of her involvement at Flash in DC as a resident, moving forwards into booking nights for the club, as well as sharing the booth with many of the world-famous luminaries who play there. More recently, she's expanded this role to include booking events at other well-respected venues across the US.

This same year also saw the beginning of Arianna's residency in the already-thriving Laylit events, an internationally roving, Middle Eastern-oriented event focusing on North African, Arabic and Southwest Asian cultures including Armenia, and thus a perfect fit for her unique voice. Her association with Laylit coincides with its shift from a decidedly side room sized event to one able to take over large, multiroom venues, following years of press praise and steady growth. Now having achieved regional recognition through her residencies and booking work at renown clubs and events in NYC and DC, she seeks to expand on these already strong foundations into the next phase of a quickly-blossoming career celebrating diversity and dedication to craft.
