

Springer Ln's

Month of Recommendations

An anthology of the human experience.

March Recommendations

In the face of all of March's chaos, we are taking a short break from reviewing art and submissions. We encourage you to dive into some of your own and our favorite authors, museums, musicians, literature and films this month. Next month we will resume our regularly intended schedule, so don't forget to submit to Springer Ln's April Edition-- but let us all take a breath this spring and open our hearts to some of our current favorites.

Literature Recommendation

From Clara-Lane

As an aspiring writer I have read a multitude of books on how to write creatively or "freely", but I can say with confidence that Natalie Goldberg's Writing Down The Bones is among the best. Use this when you are feeling stuck in your writing or as a guiding light to illuminate your path down the creative process.

SPRINGERS CURRENT ROTATION

Flow- Cage the Elephant

Big Brat- Phantom Planet

Tomorrow is a Long Time- Bob Dylan

Picture This- The Rubies

1997 DIANA- BROCKHAMPTON

Suddenly- Drugdealer, Weyes Blood

MUSIC

King - Florence + the Machine

"I need my golden crown of sorrow

My bloody sword to swing

My empty halls to echo with grand self-mythology

I am no mother

I am no bride

I am king"

I found this song a little while back and it makes me feel like I've entered a memory-- one of 17 year old me, with infinite potential, deciding who I wanted to be after high school and the years to come.

Clara-Lane's Recommendation

GET YA
MOVIE ON!

For our Southern California based friends, pay a visit to Brain Dead Studios, a beloved movie theater in Los Angeles. I won't spoil what's in store, just read the description for their March movie lineup and indulge in this gnarly film-lovin' haven:

"Breathing and beating, it's none other than that very vessel we all live in this March with THE BODY FANTASTIC. A ride through bloodstream, glands, guts and neurons. It's physical, metaphysical, it's both real and alien. Feel it!"

LITERATURE RECOMMENDATION

ATLAS OF THE HEART - BRENE BROWN

In this book Dr. Brene Brown uses her research to analyze the 87 human emotions. If you want to understand emotions and how to create a deep connection with yourself and others, this book is worth checking out.

Clara-Lane

Things to see in Philadelphia

- Clara-Lane

- Philadelphia Museum of Art
- Rare Books Tour & Culinary-Literacy Classes at the Free Library of Philadelphia
- Penn Museum - Eastern Mediterranean Gallery
- Barnes Foundation

WINGS OF DESIRE

A FILM BY WIM WENDERS

A film about how life under the sun is a dream and how life is freedom. An ode to a broken Berlin, Wings of Desire follows two angels as they study human life. Between the angels' lives a devotion to the things that make us human- coffee, the grass under our feet, despair, the smell of nature, failure, mothers, embrace- and it doesn't take long for them to yearn to be assimilated into our condition- mortality.

You can watch Wings of Desire on HBO Max. Life is divine, and this film is nothing short of transcendent. Possibly the dreamiest film I've ever seen.

Recommendation by Springer

Call It in the Air

"Call It in the Air" asks us about our grief- have we handled it, have we changed because of it, do we know where it goes? A hymn to his late older sister, Ed Pavlić rummages through the remnants of the loss of a late sibling.

Local bookstores to support that carry "Call It in the air":

LA- Skylight Books
SF- City Lights
Booksellers & Publishers
And of course,
thriftbooks.com ;)

LITERATURE RECOMMENDATION IF WE WERE VILLAINS BY M.L RIO

A richly layered story of love, revenge, drama and murder. The story carries you away, and with it you will find yourself in the middle of a college performance group, with seven dangerously obsessive young adults, that are covering up a mystery that is decades old. I could say so much more about M.L Rio's brilliant writing, spectacular incorporation of Shakespearean language and fascinating murder/mystery scheme.

From Clara-Lane