PROFILE

Jean Parker is an experienced financial business leader and change agent with over 25 years background in multiple industries; including oilfield distribution, automotive manufacturing, technology, and garment manufacturing. She is also an educator with 10 years experience in curricular development and instruction. She is an executive and leadership coach and facilitator certified with the International Coaching Federation (ICF).

Jean is known for leading organizations through growth and change. She is a proponent for creative solutions. In addition to leading numerous acquisitions and reorganizations, she is also a strong developer of people and process improvement structures. Her expertise includes organizational design and change; leadership mentoring; and initiating, implementing and guiding corporate strategies to fruition, to promote the financial health of an organization.

As an educator, Jean is known for her development of a unique Integrated Curriculum Program focused on growing the competencies of students to become engaged thinkers, ethical citizens with an entrepreneurial spirit. Her expertise includes curriculum design, collaboration, group instruction and facilitation, project based experiential learning, assessment, and leadership skill development.

Over the years Jean has been passionate about creative thinking and has coached, mentored, and facilitated business leaders, employees and students to explore ideas, make connections, look for possibilities and then implement those ideas. Her shift into coaching as a certified practice is a continuation of her desire to help others clarify and create value based solutions.
