POLICE REFORM COMMISSION REPORT RECOMMENDS EVIDENCE-INFORMED PRACTICES TO REFOCUS POLICE AND INVEST IN COMMUNITY SERVICES

The Police Reform Commission was established by the D.C. Council to examine policing practices and provide evidence-informed recommendations to reimagine the role of police in the District. The proposed reforms refocus the Metropolitan Police Department's role and resources to more effectively prevent violence and invest in community-based services that will enable a more fair, just and resilient city.

Attend the virtual press conference announcing the release of the final recommendations.
