EXTREME LONG-RANGE UNLEASHED

THE ELR EXPERIENCE

PUMP'S PRECISION RIFLE TRAINING – CHASE STROUD & RYAN CHENEY ELR

Day Mountain Ranch is not a flat line shooting range with a berm at the end of it like most places where the wind is figured out in 1-2 shots. The firing points sit on ridges and the steel sits on the mountains opposite, so shots cross multiple canyons - falling and rising ground, air that lifts off sunlit slopes and sinks into shaded ones, and wind that can come from 270 ° off the compass rather than from one direction. You can often expect to hold opposite directions of wind on the same string of fire. The property carries steel out to 2 miles.

The accomodations match the range, students would be sharing Cabins 4-6 at the resort: full kitchens, vaulted pine cilings, living rooms built around stone hearths, laundry in each unit, and a private deck over the same country the class shot across that afternoon. There are (4) private suites and (1) private bedroom available for an additional $800, 1st come, 1st served. Breakfast and lunch are provided each training day; dinner is an optional evening out with the group.
