The Well Outreach, a Christian food ministry dedicated to providing food and hope to families facing food insecurity, celebrates its 20th anniversary this year. What began in 2006 in the back of a local church has grown into one of Middle Tennessee's most trusted and dynamic community food resources.

Founded with a simple mission — to be the hands and feet of Jesus by serving those in need through supporting spiritual, emotional and physical growth — The Well Outreach operated its first decade as a small, volunteer-run pantry inside a Wellspring Christian Church. Founded by Andy and Amy Hudelson

In 2016, after a full decade of existence within the church, rising community need prompted The Well to expand into its first storefront location — a 1500 square foot strip mall space on Main Street.

In 2019 the ministry hired its first full-time staff member, inviting Shelly Sassen to act as the Chief Executive Officer. At this point in time, The Well Outreach was serving 200 families per month out of a pantry facility that was too small to even accommodate a single pallet of food.

By 2020, the ministry had again outgrown its space and stepped into a significant new chapter by opening a 7,000-square-foot dedicated pantry at 5306 Main Street in Spring Hill.

Continuing its mission to reach underserved areas, The Well Outreach expanded once more in 2024, opening a second location at 700 Main Street in Mount Pleasant, Tennessee. This new 16,000-square-foot food pantry more than doubled the warehouse space, launched the ongoing hydroponics program that produces over 700 servings of lettuce in house for guests each month, and expanded the impact of the ministry further south into Maury County.
