Topics format organizes content into different sections (lessons, units, or whatever you prefer to call it.) Topics are the most popular format for organizing an eLearning course. Weekly format is similar to the topics format, but instead of units, you'll have weeks. This is a good option for you if you'd like to set a regular learning pace for your students. You can rename dates into Week 1, Week 2, and so forth, to make a course more reusable. Social format. If you choose this format, then you'll have a forum instead of traditional units. Click Edit quiz and, in a new window, click Add → + a new question. In Moodle, there are 15 types of questions you can use, such as multiple choice, matching, and drag and drop. Choose the type you'd like to use and click Add. In a new window, you'll need to fill out the details of the question text, answers, and feedback. The interface is quite self-explanatory, but in case you have trouble, there are detailed step-by-step instructions on how to create quizzes in Moodle. When you're ready, click Save changes. Again, you'll find yourself in a quiz editing menu where you can repeat the same sequence of action and add as many questions as you need. With its help, you can ask your students to submit their homework and check how well the unit is being digested and provide feedback. Just like with quizzes, choose the section where you'd like to add the activity, click + Add an activity or resource, and choose Assignment in the pop-up window. In a new window, give the assignment a name and specify what you expect your students to do in a description field. For instance, you can ask them to watch a video and share their opinion on the topic, or ask them to edit a text and submit an improved version, as we did in our example. There are also a number of useful settings that are worth playing with. We'll mention just a few basic ones. Availability In this section, you can set time frames for submitting assignments or set a reminder to check students' work before a certain date for yourself. Submission types In this section, you'll need to specify in what format you expect the students to submit their work. Choose Online text if you want them to type their responses right in Moodle, File submissions if you want them to attach a file, or both options at the same time. You can also specify certain formats of files and the number of words in essays for the Online text option. Click Save and return to course when you're done. An alternative way to create content for Moodle While Moodle is a versatile platform with rich authoring features, its interface can be, well, not really difficult but somewhat overwhelming, especially if you're new to check whether the editing model. is turned on every time you want to change something. Its design capabilities are also limited. So if you need to develop professional eLearning content, uiteriace with special features for developing eLearning content. With its help, you can create interactive e-courses, quizzes, software simulations, YouTube-style video lectures, and dialogue simulations — each of the items can be published as a SCORM package and easily uploaded to Moodle. In this blog post, you'll find a detailed step-by-step tutorial on making a course with Moodle and the same course made with iSpring Suite. Preview of a quiz made in Moodle and the same quiz created with iSpring Suite. Managing Learners to explore the content. First, let's set up the enrolment methods. Within a course, choose the Participants tab in the left menu, then click a gear icon in the upper right and select Enrolment methods. If you also click the eye icon. If you al students on a courseUsually, teachers don't have to add users to the system, because the list of users is pre-loaded by an admin or a manager. So, to enroll students on your course, choose the Participants tab in the left menu. From there, click Enrol users in the upper right area and then, in a pop-up window, select users or groups of users from the drop-down lists. When you have finished, click Enrol selected users and cohorts. How to create groups For more convenience, you can also divide the enrolled users into groups. It's especially useful when you have different classes that study the same course, or there's another teacher assigned to this course, so you would like to split the learners. To create a group, click on the gear icon in the upper right and select Groups from the drop-down menu. By the way, you may have noticed that in Moodle, you have to click this gear icon like, well, all the time! Think of it as a benefit: you'll definitely remember where it is. In a new window, scroll down the page and click Save changes. Again, in a new window, select the group from the list and click Add/remove users from the right. You'll see the list of users enrolled in the course; select those who you'd like to add to the group and click Add in the middle. How to message students In Moodle, you can communicate with your learners and colleagues, just like in Whats App. In the upper ribbon, there's a bubble icon that opens the list of your contacts. You can send private messages to users as well as group messages, which is a very convenient feature when you need to quickly discuss something, inform, or share an insight. How to set up a gradebook gradebook is a Moodle feature that helps you collect scores for graded activities from your course. With its help, you can collect and view marks and manually enter grades for offline activities. To set up a gradebook for a course, click on the gear icon in the upper right and select Gradebook setup. On a new page, you'll see the full list of graded items for the course. For each item, there's a Weights column. The bigger the number, the more important the grade for performing this task (more on that in a minute). For now, let's make gradebook items look more organized and divide activities into categories. Scroll down the page and click Add category. In the demo course we use, there are three types of graded items, so we can create any number of graded items, so we can create three types of graded items, so we can create any number of graded items, so we can create three types of graded items, so we can create three categories as you need. After clicking Add category, give each created category a name and click Save changes. Now, move the items to their category by clicking the arrow icon on the left of the item's name. Now, when your items are organized, it's easier to assign the weights. For example, it's 50. We tick a checkbox for Assignment and enter 50. All the other weights are automatically adjusted, so the sum is 100, but you can define weights for each item within a category. When everything is ready, click Save changes in the left bottom. How to grade learners' assignments To grade assignments, you need to choose the one you'd like to begin with. You can do this in several ways, but let's go the most direct way and choose Grades in the left menu and then find an activity you'd like to grade in the row and click on it. You'll get in the Grading summary page with two options: View all submissions or Grade. Click View all submissions, to begin with. After doing so, you'll see the list of all enrolled users and their submissions (or lack thereof). For more convenience, you can assignments. The gradebook's interface allows you to leave annotations, text comments, mark with colors, and put various stamps as feedback. Enter the grade for the student's submission in the right panel, change the status, and then click Save changes to quit or Save and show next to proceed. Get Started Teaching with Moodle. It's a great (and free!) platform that allows you to teach as many students as you wish from all over the world. Being teachers' advocates, we'd also love to recommend you try iSpring Suite for developing professional eLearning content. It's not as free as Moodle itself—though, there are a free trial and discount for the academic sector — but it helps to keep your life easier and create content two times faster, at the very least.
