

Tutor Level Disclaimer

Roots of Reading™ Tutor Level is designed for use by educators, tutors, and instructional support providers delivering structured early literacy instruction. While the program is grounded in research-based reading practices and High-Impact Tutoring principles, Word Branch Education does not guarantee specific student outcomes.

Implementation quality, tutor training, consistency, student attendance, and individual learning differences will impact results. The Tutor Level materials are intended to support literacy instruction but are not a substitute for licensed special education services, speech-language therapy, psychological services, or formal academic intervention programs.

Tutors and educators are responsible for exercising professional judgment when using this program and for ensuring that instruction aligns with local regulations, institutional policies, and student needs.

Roots of Reading™ does not certify, license, or credential tutors unless explicitly stated in a separate written agreement.