Where the money goes?

The campus of the Clemson University Outdoor Laboratory on beautiful Lake Hartwell, is home to Camp Sertoma, the statewide project of all South Carolina Sertoma clubs. Each summer, Sertomans and their partners send 240 speech and/or hearing impaired or economically disadvantaged children to camp. Since its inception in 1969, over 11,000 kids have attended Camp Sertoma. In addition to recreation, campers learn life skills including teamwork, self-respect, independence and confidence.

Construction and enhancement of permanent facilities has continued since the mid-1970s and Camp Sertoma is now an incredibly beautiful spot where children can have a world-class camping experience in a safe, loving environment – at no cost to the families. The skills and traits, friendships and memories they bring home will last a lifetime.
