

Charles DeLauder

Charles DeLauder lives and breathes modern technology with a twist of intuition. A seasoned architect, master integrator, and developer at heart, Charles is the Founder and CEO of Polarity3 Consulting, a technical consultancy based in Los Angeles. He has worked with the Small Business Lending space since 2005, providing custom solutions for a variety of lenders and servicers to solve process inefficiencies, improve system performance, and provide architecture for flexibility and growth. Charles also has a strong background in private equity, retail, manufacturing and distribution, specializing in designing cost-effective workflows and building teams to create reliable solutions.