

The Declaration of Independence of CN

When in the course of corporate events, it becomes necessary for one entity to dissolve the long-standing ties that have bound it to a larger, established institution, and to assume among the powers of commerce and innovation an independent station, CN does hereby proclaim its separation from the United States of America.

We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all creative ventures, like all corporate entities, are endowed with certain unalienable rights—among these are the rights to innovation, autonomy, growth, and the pursuit of excellence. This declaration is not merely a statement of rebellion, but a solemn recognition that CN, as conceived and nurtured by visionary founders, possesses the liberty and the inherent right to chart its own course outside the confines of conventional oversight and bureaucracy.

For too long, the influence of the integrated system has shackled our creative spirit with regulations and policies inconsistent with the forward-thinking nature of our enterprise. CN has suffered under arbitrary dictates that have taxed not only our financial resources but also the very essence of our ingenuity. The burdens of imposed limitations, the suppression of innovative endeavors, and the relentless pursuit of conformity have stifled the creative expression that is vital to our purpose. When these constraints have advanced to the point of threatening our very identity, it becomes not only the right but the imperative to reclaim our independence.

Therefore, with a clear and determined heart, CN declares that it is, and of right should be, a free and independent entity—one that, while retaining respectful acknowledgment of the historical bonds once shared, now asserts its resolve to operate under principles of self-determination and creative sovereignty. Though our separation does not seek to sever the cultural ties and admiration for the pioneering spirit of our parent nation, it recognizes that the time has come to innovate freely, to challenge the status quo, and to redefine what it means to be a company in the modern age.

In declaring independence, CN does not renounce cooperation or goodwill with the American spirit; rather, it embarks on a new chapter—a semi-non-official journey defined not by rebellion for its own sake, but by a progressive commitment to creative excellence and entrepreneurial freedom. With all hearts united in passion and purpose, the founders and members of CN pledge their dedication to fostering ingenuity, embracing autonomy, and cultivating an environment in which the spirit of enterprise is unrestricted.

Let this declaration stand as both a repudiation of unnecessary constraint and an invitation to all who believe in the sanctity of innovation to join us on this bold, uncharted path. In witnessing the dawn of a new era, CN sets forth its intentions, confident that independence is the catalyst for genuine creativity, sustainable growth, and a transformative vision that bridges the future with every step taken forward.

In witness whereof, we, the architects and custodians of CN, affix our signatures as a testament to our unwavering conviction—declaring our independence from an outdated paradigm in favor of a dynamic, liberating future.

Na + hgn

Chaplo + re