Clounie Landscaping, Inc. Announces Ownership Transition and Next Phase of Growth

Fort Wayne, Indiana — February 2026

Clounie Landscaping, a trusted name in Northeast Indiana since 1985, announces an ownership transition that took place in Spring 2025. The company is now owned and led by Zach Kessie, who brings more than 25 years of experience in the construction industry.

Founded more than 40 years ago, Clounie Landscaping has built its reputation on dependable service, quality craftsmanship, and long-standing client relationships. Those values remain central to the company's operations under new ownership.

"This is a company with deep roots and a strong reputation," said Kessie. "My focus is on building responsibly on that foundation by investing in our people, strengthening our operations, and delivering long-term value for our clients."

Since the transition, the company has continued to operate under the Clounie Landscaping name, maintaining the same level of quality and professionalism clients expect. The company continues to focus on commercial projects that integrate hardscape, landscape installation, and ongoing maintenance, often delivered through coordinated, multi-phase scopes of work.

At the same time, Clounie Landscaping is expanding its services to include comprehensive site development and upscale residential projects. The company now offers a more turnkey approach to outdoor work, supporting clients from initial site preparation through installation and long-term maintenance. When specialized services fall outside its direct scope, Clounie Landscaping coordinates trusted partners and manages the work on the client's behalf, providing a single point of accountability from start to finish.

As part of its long-term vision, Clounie Landscaping is currently constructing a new facility in Allen County, scheduled to open in Spring 2026. The new facility will better support crews, equipment, and expanding service capabilities while reinforcing the company's commitment to Northeast Indiana.

Clounie Landscaping continues to serve commercial and residential clients with reliable, high-quality outdoor services built to grow and designed to last.
