PLTI is open to anyone who cares about the well-being of children. Over the course of 20 weeks, you'll learn to become an effective advocate for children and a change agent for your community.

You'll also complete a community project of your design, to put your new skills into action.

PLTI teaches you how to identify problems affecting children – in schools, communities, and local and state government – and work towards solutions.

By exploring your own passions, strengths and ideas, you'll develop leadership, interpersonal, and communication skills. By learning about government and the media, you'll understand how to engage with the political system to get your voice heard.

Apply to PLTI and get the training you need to change your community!
