

Time for Great Expectations

But when the time arrived that was set by God the Father, God sent his Son, born among us of a woman. Galatians 4:4

The calendar has turned a page;
A new year has begun.
No matter what our place or age
Hope blooms for everyone.
We know that God has ordered time
And set our world in motion;
God formed the clouds and every clime
And filled the seas and ocean.

At last God sent our Savior Christ
Born as a tiny babe,
Who for our sins was sacrificed
And conquered sin and grave.
Now we are children of our Lord,
Adopted, loved, forgiven.
All humankind has been restored
And has a place in Heaven.

The joy we feel on Christmas Day
Should last the whole year through,
For such great love that comes our way
Remains forever new.
The new year dawns, the old has passed -
Rejoice with all creation -
For now the time is here at last
For hope-filled expectation. Patti Miller
