She's toxic, I know it!
But she won't leave my head
She's dug in, too deep
Can only hear her screams

I'm at a point- in which to her, my weak will almost bend

She's toxic, I know it!
But she won't leave my bed
She snuggles like- for sex
Can only feel her disturbing touch

I'm at a point- in which to her, my knees will almost bend

- Every morning -

She knocks at my door and I never want to answer

- Every day -

She manages to trespass into my home and shamelessly invades my space

- Every night -

She lays with me, in bed and disturbingly rapes my sleep

Every time I try ending our friendship

She spews craziness and shoves them deep into my fearful head

I can't block her from my ears

I try to keep her apart but she wants my heart

She's toxic, I know it!

But she's such a loyal friend

She's suicide

She helps me temporarily escape my reality

But I'm mostly afraid

One day, she won't let me return to my reality
