

Moonlight Kisses

One shouldn't be settled in loneliness

Or put up a fight
To come face to face
With a charming knight to secretly kiss, under the moonlight

One can't be opposed to happiness

It's safe to assume it's a right
To fulfill an emptiness
Or fill one's night skies
With stars that shine that bright

Suppose one should never forget,
That loneliness
Brings nothing along but rather, leaves nothing but emptiness
