

WELCOME TO SPRING — LET’S GET TO WORK

Spring’s here. Finally. The cold days are losing and the momentum is picking up. You can feel it. Jobs are opening up, schedules are filling, and the pace is about to shift. That’s a good thing. But here’s the truth—busy doesn’t build great companies. Discipline does. So first—thank you. To everyone who showed up, did the right thing, and handled business even when nobody was watching... that’s what builds this company. That’s what builds trust. That’s what wins contracts.

Over the last few weeks, we’ve brought on new team members both upstate and downstate. Make sure you introduce yourself, help them out, and show them The AUS Way. That’s how culture spreads—person to person, job to job. Now let’s talk about a big win... We officially secured the National Grid contract for Long Island. That’s real... Not just because of the name. Not just because of the workload. But because this is a 4–6 year contract. That gives us stability. It gives us the ability to plan, grow, and open doors across the entire state. This happened because of how you work. But with that comes responsibility.

New contractors mean new expectations. Every contractor has different rules, procedures, and ways of doing things. We don’t complain. We adapt. Make sure your PPE is ready. Make sure you understand the job before it starts. Pay attention to the details. Ask questions when you’re unsure.

Spring gets busy. Busy creates pressure. Pressure exposes weak habits. So we stay sharp. We stay ready. We stay safe.
