Pleasant Valley farmer dies at 84

Bliss was a descendant of longtime dairy farmers

by Sharon Nesbit
staff writer

Lifetime Pleasant Valley farmer Maurice Paul Bliss died Tuesday, March 16, in Portland at the age of 84.

Bliss, who suffered from a pulmonary disorder — a breathing problem that ended his days as a crack shot in local gun clubs — was taken to hospice, missing by a few days dying in the farm home where he was born.

A memorial service for Bliss, who sheared his own sheep, cut his own trees, baled hay and scrambled up ladders into his old age, will be at 11 a.m. Saturday, April 24, at Gresham Memorial Chapel, 257 S.E. Roberts Ave.

In recent years, Bliss and the picturesque farm buildings where his family had lived for generations served as the image of rural Pleasant Valley, now encompassed by the metropolitan area urban growth boundary and destined for development.

A descendant of Bliss family dairy farmers who once occupied each corner at the intersection of Southeast 190th Avenue and Richey Road, he was one of four sons of Cleveland and Hazel (Chitwood) Bliss. He was born Nov. 28, 1925, to a family that included the Clevelands of Gresham and the Chitwoods of Damascus, all movers and shakers in their communities. His grandfather Chitwood was a leader in the Oregon Grange and a founder of the Pleasant Valley Grange.

One of four brothers, Maurice would be the runt of the litter. A childhood bout with polio and a crippled foot forced him to wear an oversized boot on his left foot. Photos show him standing akimbo to accommodate the foot and gimpy leg, but the handicap didn't stop him from leading an active life, up at 5 a.m., in bed by 10 p.m.

"He was in pain, but he just kept pushing forward," said his son, John.

Maurice attended Pleasant Valley School, founded by pioneers in 1857 and went to Benson High School in Portland. He loved airplanes but hopes of being a pilot were dashed because of his foot, so he set out to be an aerospace engineer. World War II forced him to stop his studies and return to the family farm.

He married Barbara Liebe in December 1946. They had two sons and were divorced in May 1952.

He lived alone the rest of his life, but enjoyed many years as an avid sportsman and fisherman and a prize-winning competitive rifleman. He was a lifetime member of the Columbia Willamette Rifle League and the Gresham Wildcats, who fashioned a shooting range in the basement of Gresham's Masonic Lodge.

He ended his competitive shooting career because his breathing issues hindered his ability to shoot and compete at a team level.

He particularly enjoyed the Wallowa Mountains and was a lifetime member of the Sandy Chapter of Northwest Steelheaders. He joined the Antique Steam Club at Brooks where he helped maintain and operate old steam equipment.

"He volunteered everywhere and anywhere (he was) needed," said his son. He was famous for baking cakes with fruit and nuts from his own farm.

He was preceded in death by his brothers, Cleveland Bliss Jr., Lewis Bliss and Jerry Bliss.

He is survived by his sons, John of Gresham and Tim of Baker City; eight grandchildren; and 11 great-grandchildren.

The family suggests contributions to Hopewell House Hospice, Portland.

Former owner of Burns Feed Store dies at 95

Ike Burns bought the store in 1950

by Calvin Hall
staff writer

Ian Robertson Burns, better known to East County residents as Ike Burns, the former owner of Burns Feed Store in Orient, died Wednesday, Sept. 8, at Eric's Heavenly Adult Home in Gresham. He was 95.

A memorial service for Ike will be held at 3 p.m. Monday, Sept. 13, at Sandy Funeral Home, 39551 Pleasant St., Sandy. Private entombment will be at Lincoln Memorial Park in Portland.

Ike was raising a family and farming berries, poultry and cattle in the Boring area when the owner of the local feed store, where Ike was a regular customer, asked Ike to look after the store until closing time while he went away on business.

However, the owner had decided he didn't want the store anymore, so he called Ike and offered it to him. Ike, with little business experience, purchased the store in 1950 and renamed it Burns Feed Store.

ing litters of kittens until she was 22.

Ike recalled one time when Grandma helped catch a burglar in the store.

"I was asleep in the apartment upstairs and Grandma just wouldn't stop crying at me," he told The Outlook in 2005, "and she never cried like that, so finally I got up and went to look out the window and I saw this guy down below, breaking into my store."

"I ran right down the stairs and pointed my finger in his chest like a gun and told him he better not move a damn muscle or I'd kill him."

"My wife's yelling down the stairs whether I want a real gun or not, and I said I was doing just fine, I had a gun."

"Well, I must have scared him, because the guy stayed put till the cops came."

Crystal preceded Ike in death in 1979. Ike handed ownership of the store over to Rawley and retired to Palm Desert, Calif.,

"It just kind of happened," said Rawley Burns, Ike's son, who was 4 years old at the time. "(Ike) didn't go in there thinking he would take over the business."

Rawley doesn't know why the owner picked Ike to run the store, but believes the owner must have thought highly of his dad, who was known for his integrity and honesty.

Ike was born June 11, 1915, in Troutdale to John and Isabell (Grant) Burns. Ike was raised in Troutdale and resided in Washington for a while before returning to Troutdale and graduating from Gresham High School. He attended Washington State University, where he studied animal sciences. His goal was to become a poultry veterinarian, Rawley said.

In 1940, Ike married Crystal Hayden, whom he knew from school in Troutdale. He was unable to join the military during World War II because of health problems, so he worked for the Weyerhaeuser mill.

Ike and Crystal moved to Boring in 1946. Ike ran both his new store and his farm until he sold the farm in 1964. He and Crystal then moved into an apartment above the store.

Ike and his employees expanded the inventory and added extra rooms to the 200-square-foot store to accommodate space for horse and garden supplies. The store became an institution in Orient, especially for the area's chicken and berry farmers.

Rawley joined the business as a partner in 1972 and found that he enjoyed working alongside his dad, who was happy to let Rawley handle many business decisions. Ike preferred waiting on customers, sweeping the floor and other tasks.

"He was really content not to do the other stuff" such as ordering supplies and handling financial matters, Rawley said.

Ike also kept a stray white cat named Grandma, a fixture in the store who lived to age 23. Rawley said Grandma kept produc-for the warm weather. He met Grace Beckwith, and they were married.

Meanwhile, Rawley remodeled the store to about 7,000 square feet of retail space, and expanded its inventory and services. But customers still asked about and for his dad, Rawley said.

Ike made an effort to visit every summer during the store's customer appreciation days and its anniversaries. Rawley said he was always nervous about what Ike would think of the changes he had made to the store, but Ike always seemed to approve.

Ike loved going to garage sales and woodworking. He was an avid golfer until he was 91. Rawley noted Ike could still play better than his golfing buddies, who were in their 70s and 80s. Ike was also an avid walker.

"He would preach to anyone, whether they were 5 years old or 100 years old, that you never want to sit down," Rawley said. "You always want to be active."

Grace preceded Ike in death in 2002. Ike moved back to Gresham in 2007 and settled at a care home.

If the care home employees had any complaints about Ike, Rawley said, it was that it was hard to keep track of him because he loved to go for walks, whether it was at 5:30 in the morning, in cold, rainy weather or in hot weather.

"That's the great thing about being old," Ike told The Outlook in 2005. "You just don't worry about anything. I always say be happy and keep busy and try to do a good deed every day."

Ike is survived by his son, Rawley Burns of Damascus; daughter, Sheryl Burns of Portland; two grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

Eugene "Gene" L. Bui

Sept. 5, 1936-Oct. 20, 2010

Eugene "Gene" L. Bui, a former Troutdale mayor, city councilor and community volunteer, died Wednesday, Oct. 20, in Redding, Calif. He was 74.

A memorial service was held Wednesday, Oct. 27, at Lawncrest Chapel in Redding.

Gene was born Sept. 5, 1936, in Redding and raised by his mother and stepfather, Marguerite Bui and Elmer Nixon. He graduated from Shasta High School and attended Shasta College and California State University, Chico, where he received his bachelor's degree.

On Jan. 27, 1980, he married Nancy Hottenstein. They divorced in 1992.

Gene worked as a police officer and probation officer in California before taking a job in Astoria in 1968 as the Clatsop County juvenile court director. After two years there, he became the regional consultant in the Northwest for the National Council on Crime & Delinquency. He then worked for Multnomah County as a justice system coordinator and executive assistant to the board of commissioners before returning to Astoria as the Clatsop County administrator. Gene then worked for the state of Oregon before starting his own criminal justice consulting firm, whose clients included the Portland Police Bureau.

Gene moved to Troutdale in 1980 and was appointed to the city's budget committee. He was later appointed to the Troutdale City Council. While he was serving on the council he developed a non-malignant brain tumor — his second brain tumor in eight years — that left him legally blind. His wife, Nancy, read all the city documents to him aloud before each council meeting.

Gene was elected mayor in 1992, succeeding Mayor Sam K.

Cox. Gene took office in January 1993 but caused controversy shortly afterward by making remarks about gay employees in regard to an anti-gay rights initiative promoted by the Oregon Citizens Alliance.

"All I can say is I said it and that's how I feel," he told The Outlook in 1993. "I said it, and I'm not going to apologize."

Gene's comments drew much attention in the press and community, and in March 1993 a committee formed to recall him. He resigned as mayor in April 1993.

"That was really unfortunate all the way around," said Paul Thalhoffer, who succeeded him as mayor. "After that happened, he just couldn't handle the stress."

Gene was a board member of the Troutdale Historical Society and liked to bring a small brass section in Santa hats to play at Harlow House Christmas openings. He later moved to Gresham and ran for a seat on the City Council in 1996 but lost.

Gene served on the Gresham Salvation Army's advisory board and taught jazz in the Reynolds School District. He collected toy fire trucks and drove a 1929 fire truck, which he purchased from the Dallas, Ore., fire department.

"I've always liked fire engines since I lived near the fire hall as a kid in Redding," he told The Outlook in a 1984 profile.

After moving back to Redding, Gene ran for public office and kept active in the community. He helped create a teen center and served on committees for the Shasta Union High School District and the Retired Senior Volunteer Program. In later years, Gene was an active member of the Elks, the Moose, the Lions and the Knights of Columbus.

His brother, Norman Nixon, preceded him in death.

Survivors include his wife, Madelaine; daughter, Bettina Cagwin of Astoria; son, David Bui of Villa Park, Calif.; stepsons, Patrick Johnson of Redding and Gregory Johnson of Redding; brother, John Nixon; and three grandchildren.

Penny Kristine Balch

Aug. 9, 1959-Oct. 27, 2010

Penny Kristine Balch, mid-county resident and longtime treasurer and board member of the Troutdale Historical Society, died of acute leukemia at Oregon Health & Science University on Wednesday. She was 51.

PENNY

the Museum Barn at the Harlow House, 726 E. Historic Columbia River Highway, Troutdale.

Balch was active in the historical society for more than 20 years, serving off and on as treasurer, writing occasional grants and frequently taking on special projects. Though she was no longer treasurer, society officials called her back to examine documents that led to the conviction of a staff member who embezzled funds from the organization. The judge commended her for her thorough work.

She was born Aug. 9, 1959, in Portland to Robert and Leona Balch. She graduated in 1977 from Centennial High School, where she worked on the school newspaper. She went on to earn a bachelor's degree in accounting from Portland State University and passed her certified public accountant test but did not pursue the credential.

She worked for Entercom Radio and volunteered there for special events. She also worked part time for an auction house and for the last two years before her illness for OnPoint Community Credit Union.

She suffered breast cancer about five years ago. In celebration of the end of her treatment, she went out to buy a new car, thinking Toyota Camry, and bought a Jaguar instead.

Her interest in her family genealogy and history took her to the Troutdale Historical Society. She also collected Barbie dolls, furnished dollhouses, and made doll dresses and miniature displays and costumes for her nieces and nephews. She collected and wore vintage hats and wrote children's books for her niece and nephew. In 1998 she put on a flashy red dress and a fish-trimmed crown and was a princess in the Troutdale parade's Smelt Queen and Court float.

She wanted to see completion of the Troutdale Centennial Arch and gave a contribution to guarantee her name on the structure.

Her father died in 1991, and a nephew, David Craft, died in 2006.

She is survived by her mother; brothers, Bobb Balch of St. Helens, Mark Balch of Portland and William Balch of Gresham; sister, Beth Wood of Castle Rock, Colo.; and numerous nieces and nephews.

Dale Baldwin, who died at age 92, was honored by tribes

By Sharon Nesbit
staff writer

Dale McDonald Baldwin, 92, of Gresham, died Nov. 6 on a trip to Newport with his daughter.

Baldwin, whose career was with the Bureau of Indian Affairs, was much honored by the tribes with whom he worked. Services have already been held at Fairlawn Retirement Center. His ashes were placed at Willamette National Cemetery with his wife Betty, who died March 25, 2009. The two, both World War II veterans, met during their military service in Saipan — in the Philippine Sea — during the war.

He was born to James Lynn and Elsie Gordon Baldwin on July 13, 1918, in Newcastle, Penn. The family moved to Portland when he was an infant, living first at Lents and later in Montavilla.

He attended Beaumont Grade School, Washington High and Multnomah Junior College before being drafted in September 1941 just prior to the attack on Pearl Harbor.

While in the army, he attended Officer Candidate School and obtained his commission. During WWII, he served with the Army Transportation Corps in Hawaii and later landed on Saipan with the Fourth Marine Corps Division and later received the Presidential Unit Citation. On Saipan he commanded a company of African-American troops in the still-segregated military.

At the end of the war, he held the rank of brevet major, and went on to serve several more years in the Army Reserve, retiring as a major.

While on Saipan, he met Lt. Elizabeth Clark of the Army Nursing Corps, who was to become the Bureau of Indian Affairs on the Umatilla Indian reservation near Pendleton.

During his time with the Umatilla tribes, there were a number of occasions when he felt honored and accepted. At one meeting of the Tribal Board of Trustees he was asked to take minutes, something the then superintendent said was unheard of.

At a Korean War veteran's funeral, Baldwin and a few others from the BIA were asked to come and wear some of their military uniforms. Baldwin was the flag bearer at the cemetery. The service included military, Christian and Native American services.

His next assignment was as assistant superintendent of the Fort Hall Reservation near Pocatello, Idaho. As Land Operations Officer he helped design an up-to-date irrigation system on a large tract of newly developed tribal property and facilitated funding of a new workspace for the irrigation officer.

The BIA then transferred him to act as superintendent of the Southern California Agency at Riverside, where he held a job as field representative for 33 reservations and colonies in Southern California.

In 1957, Baldwin transferred to the bureau's headquarters in Washington, D.C., for an executive training program. In 1959, he was assigned superintendent of the Fort Peck Reservation in Poplar, Mont. There, he helped that tribe write its first constitution. They held a large banquet attended by came with his assignment as Portland Area Director for the BIA, where he directed the Bureau's operations in Oregon, Washington and Idaho. During this period, he was instrumental in providing support for the lawsuit that resulted in the Boldt decision on tribal fishing rights.

Baldwin also took the lead in making the Umatilla and Spokane tribes, then sub agencies, into whole agencies. He also managed to divert funds to provide home improvements, such as insulation and wallboard, to the homes of several tribal members. The tribes honored him by declaring Oct. 20, 2006, as Dale Baldwin Day.

He retired from government in 1974 and received a gold medal for Distinguished Service. He later worked for several years as business manager for the Confederated Tribes of Umatilla Indian Reservation.

After retirement, he and Betty moved from Gresham to a house that they built above the Columbia Gorge near Corbett.

They traveled extensively throughout the U.S., Canada and the Asia-Pacific region. They were active in the square dancing community and danced all over the country.

He was a member of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees, Oregon and Troutdale historical societies and he and his wife were Vista House volunteers.

As they grew older, they moved back to Gresham, and spent their final years at Fairlawn Retirement Center.

He is survived by his children, Collyn Baldwin of Corbett, Thomas Baldwin of Daejong, his wife of 62 years. They were married May 4, 1946, and resided in Renton, Wash., where he worked for the Canadian Pacific Railroad. When the GI Bill came into effect, he moved his young family to Corvallis, returned to Oregon State College and graduated in 1949 with a degree in agriculture.

After graduation, he went to work as a soil conservationist for the full tribal council and Dale was adopted into the Sioux and Assinaboine tribes and gifted with a headdress and a star quilt.

He then went to Stewart, Nev., as superintendent of the agency working with many reservations and colonies and included the Stewart Indian School, which had 600 students from Alaska and several other western states.

The capstone of his career South Korea, and James Baldwin of Bangkok, Thailand, as well as two grandchildren, Jeremy Borden-Baldwin of Portland and Bonnie Bowker of Gresham; and by his sister Eleanor Aldridge of Long Beach, Calif.

Kathleen Whitley Bialostosky

Feb. 25, 1918 - Jan. 14, 2013

On the crisp winter morning of Jan. 14, 2013, with soft music playing, snowflakes lightly falling and her husband and youngest son by her side, Kathleen Whitley Bialostosky passed away at the age of 94 at her home in West Linn.

She was born Feb. 25, 1918 in Monroe, N.C., eldest daughter of John Bunyan and Daisy O'Dessa Simpson Whitley. Her early life during the Great Depression was one of severe poverty which gave her lifelong strong survival skills and a love of providing bountiful meals and pantry stock for her family. She graduated Wingate High School in Wingate, N.C. in 1935, and then attended Wingate Junior College and graduated from Woman's College at Greensboro (now U.N.C. Greensboro) as a science major in 1939. She taught from 1939 to 1942 at Belle Arthur High School (N.C.), living in the teachers' there; she taught civics, physics, English, science, and math and directed a school play. When WWII broke out, she answered the call for service and entered an accelerated training program for needed Army nurses at Bryn Mawr College, and then attended Johns Hopkins Hospital School of Nursing from 1942 to 1945, and was a U.S. Army nurse (lieutenant) stationed in the Philippines as the war ended.

While stationed in Manila, she met and fell in love with a young Army medic, Julius Bialostosky, aka "Blackie", of New York City, and used the excuse of buying a tin of Almond Roca from him at the PX to get a better opportunity to talk to him. He shipped out for home three weeks after they met, with plans to relocate with his parents and brother to Portland, where they planned to buy a farm. She famously said "Honey, I was born on a farm" when he was discussing his future plans, brushing away any doubts about her willingness and ability to take on farm life. They wrote daily until they reunited in Portland, where they married on July 23, 1946.

They lived on their 50 acre farm in Damascus, and had five children over the next 10 years. They raised their kids alongside Julius' brother, Abe and wife, Betty's family of three children who shared the farm with them, as did Julius' parents, Louis and Sophie Bialostosky. Kathy later resumed teaching at Gresham High School from 1948 to 1950 and then from 1965 to 1981 where she also served as a guidance counselor. The entire clan relocated from Damascus to N.W. Portland in the 1970s where Abe co-founded the Metropolitan Learning Center and several of the Bialostosky kids were among the first students at M.L.C.

Kathy had many hobbies and interests and was very vibrant and active, making meals for up to 30 people into her 90's, until a stroke slowed her down in her 94th year. She was an avid gardener and had a long history of filling her home and her family's homes with her handmade pottery and her handmade quilts. She also enjoyed finding the sun at their property on Fifteen Mile Creek near the town of Dufur.

She is survived by her husband of 66 years, Julius; and her five children, Don (Sue) Bialostosky, Neal Bialostosky, Lynne Harrington, Julee Bialostosky and Del (Sandra Barton) Bialostosky. She is also survived by her eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren, Sophie (Doug, Ben, Ruth) Armstead, Ivan (Rachel and Elanor) Bialostosky, Anna Bialostosky, Meralee (Baruch and Sean Pyle) Valenzuela, Ivy McGrew, Colin McGrew, Lindsay Hulbert and Rory Bialostosky. She also considered former daughter-in-law Donna Phillips and former son-in-law Clifford McGrew as an ongoing beloved part of her immediate family; as well as niece Debbie Zukerman (Stan and Korinne Breed) and the nieces and nephews who grew up on the farm alongside her own children, Carol Bialostosky, Gary Bialostosky and Kay Bialostosky Smith; her former sister-in-law, Betty Groves; and later, Sue Bialostosky, Johanna Bialostosky and Rachael Bialostosky Hein. She is survived additionally by her brother, John Whitley; and her sisters, Louise Hinson, Martha Irwin and Beth Hatcher. She was preceded in death by her older brothers, Lewis and George Whitley and younger siblings, Ruby Baker and Arthur, Roy and Tommy Whitley.

Her whole family appreciates the loving, gentle and very dedicated care given these past few months by caregivers Alisha McCambridge and Candace Brewer. Special thanks also to son, Del Bialostosky, whose daily efforts enabled his mother to achieve her fervent dream to move back home from the care facility they lived in for a time after her stroke. Del's super-care for Mom was deeply appreciated by the whole family, and his work gave his parents several weeks of true bliss in their own home before her passage.

Family was everything to Kathy and she was the loving and beloved matriarch of a large extended family. She is greatly missed by all of us who loved her and were bonded to one another through her love and hospitality over half a century. There will be a private family celebration of her life in March, and her ashes will be interred at Damascus Pioneer Cemetery.

BARRY LEROY BIRCH
April 11, 1943 - March 31, 2015

Birch co-founder remembered for compassion, generosity

Barry Birch's memorial service scheduled for Saturday, April 11

By SHANNON O. WELLS
The Outlook

Barry Birch not only helped Ray Keen and his family when they needed it most, he made a long-term investment by hiring him at Birch Community Services.

"I came into the program when I had kids coming into a young family," recalls Keen, development manager for BCS. "We were trying to buy our first home and financially stretched. The (Birch) program was very helpful for two years until I was able to increase my income. Then, I landed here."

While assistance from Birch Community Services doesn't normally lead to full-time employment, the above-and-beyond style of caring Barry extended to Keen was typical.

"Barry was a compassionate man, a generous man," Keen says. "I think he understood what generosity is about. He's given away millions of dollars to the poor, and I think he's done it in a way that hasn't enabled people. He actually helped them move forward and make progress."

"He's given away millions of dollars to the poor, and I think he's done it in a way that hasn't enabled people."

— Ray Keen, Birch Community Services development manager

Birch, the beloved co-founder of Birch Community Services, died at his Happy Valley home on Tuesday, March 31, after a short battle with Guillain-Barré syndrome. He was 71.

A memorial service to honor Birch's life will take place at 2 p.m. on his birthday, Saturday, April 11, at Mountainview Christian Church, 1890 N.E. Cleveland Ave., in Gresham.

Birch founded Birch Community Services — one of Oregon's largest food-distribution programs — with his wife, Suzanne, in 1992. He served as the organization's executive director for the organization's first 13 years. After retiring in 2005, he stayed on as a key volunteer.

A message from his family and employees on the BCS website said Birch "loved to see a spark of generosity result in a blessing to families in need. He richly loved people with a compassionate and gentle spirit, as he himself had been loved."

BCS, which provides a variety of services to families in need, started, as its website explains, "with a donated bag of squished bread on the Birch front porch, distributed to two single moms in need."

Other food retailers who had heard of the Birch's giving spirit joined in donating their surplus for re-distribution by the Birches to a growing number of families.

The organization grew to become one of the largest food-distribution programs in Oregon.

Kurt Lambert, who as a boy met Barry through church, said Birch's success as a community leader was the result of mistakes he made earlier in life.

"God gave him a second chance," Lambert says of his friend. "And he took that chance to provide leadership and serve others. He took what God had given to him and gave it back to others."

Kim Ikehara, office manager at BCS for 11 years, said the past week has been tough for employees and longtime clients of the organization.

"We're all hurting," she said on Friday, April 3. "We feel really blessed to have known him and are grateful for his contributions to the community."

Guillain-Barré syndrome is a disorder that occurs when the body's immune system mistakenly attacks part of the nervous system, leading to nerve inflammation that causes muscle weakness and other symptoms.

Suzanne Birch led the family in establishing the Barry Birch Memorial Fund. To contribute, visit www.birchcommunityservices.org.

Phyllis Ann Baltz

March 28, 1928

- November 21, 2016

Phyllis Ann Dissmore-Baltz was born March 28th, 1928 to Harold & Alta Dissmore in Portland, OR. She grew up in East Portland with her two sisters Barbara Morris (92) & Bette Becker (94). She graduated from Gresham High in 1945. Her parents owned a grocery store on SE 162nd and Division in SE Portland, where as a child she helped stock shelves and ran around the store while her parents worked. She dated her high school sweetheart Tom Baltz for 4 years, and they eventually married in 1949. She completed 2.5 years of college. They later had two sons (Jeff & Jon) and 1 daughter (Rae Ferrell). Her husband Tom died Nov. 26th, 1993 after sharing 44 years of marriage and memories. Phyllis enjoyed being a wife and mother, as well as being a secretary for the Baltz & Sons family business that sold golf equipment and installed golf courses.

Phyllis was a classy woman, and a socialite in the Gresham Community. She was often seen having luncheons around Gresham. She especially enjoyed her lunch dates with her niece Gail and sister Bette, or with her "Gopher Group," a group of friends from her high school days. Some of her favorite local restaurants included Dea's Inn and Out, Heidi's, and Chu's Chinese. In her younger years she loved traveling, with some of her favorite vacation spots being New York, Palm Springs, and the beach in Seaside, Oregon. She loved gardening, playing cards, and cheering on the Portland Trailblazers. She enjoyed sunny days watching squirrels and birds who frequently visited her backyard, with her favorite birds being the hummingbird and red cardinal. She enjoyed putting together puzzles with her friend Bob, her grandson Ryan and her niece Gail.

Her strong Christian faith and family values led her to rarely missed a Sunday service at Smith Memorial Presbyterian Church in Troutdale. She looked forward to her dates with her "Mariners Group," a group of local church friends who dined together and shared in evening desserts and games at each others homes.

Phyllis was the world's GREATEST grandma to Andy Baltz, Alex Ferrell, Ryan Ferrell, and Melodee Baltz. GG (short for great-grandma) enjoyed watching her three great-grandchildren Drew (10), Brooklyn (8), & Dylan Baltz (6) play sports and loved spending their birthdays and the holidays with them. Marian Kathleen Boettcher

September 7, 1923 to January 6, 2017

Marian Kathleen Boettcher, 93, died in the early morning hours of January 6. The child of James William Wilson and Theolina Gina Wilson (Pederson) was born in Kenmare, North Dakota. She graduated Minot State Teachers College in elementary education. She taught general education in Oregon schools to start, then moved to music education, from which she never left. She received a Master's Degree from Portland State University in the mid-1960's. She went on to sing opera in college and later, took up singing the swing music of the 1940's. After getting to Portland, she joined the Portland Chorale and was in the traveling group, a high distinction.

She taught school singing groups in the Orient School system, both general and special small group. The Gresham and Barlow high schools were the recipients of the best singers in East County, having been tutored by Marian. She mastered the art of convincing grade school boys that it was okay to be in choir by approaching the school athletes to have them sing for her. Once those kids were in the choir, other boys would follow.

She played organ and piano for services at St. Joseph The Worker Church in East Portland. She would also play for weddings and funerals. When she moved to Cascadia Village in Sandy in her 90's, she continued to provide music for events and dinners. In her last Christmas outing with family, she took to the piano and, from memory, played a number of old Christmas favorites in full, luscious chords. She was singing Frank Sinatra with the family the day before her passing.

Marian is survived by her three sons: Rodney (Pamela), Richard (Julie), and Mark. Also surviving are grandchildren Logan, Rhiannon, Keir, Alex and Jillian, niece Sally Church and nephews Bob and Mike Wilson. She was also preceded in death by her brother, James Wilson.

She had many of her extended family with her the night before her death and called them by name as she spoke with each. She was an ardent supporter of conservancy and nature groups and gave religiously to the Mount Angel Abbey/Monastery.

The funeral, memorial gathering and interment will be on Thursday, January 19, beginning at 12 noon at Lincoln Memorial Funeral Home, 11801 SE Mt. Scott Blvd, south of Foster Road on SE 112th Ave.

Marilynn Joyce Buley

August 29, 1924 to May 20, 2017

Marilynn was born at home in Portland, Oregon, to Harvey and Bertha (Palmer) Hudson. She was the third of four children born and raised in the Eastmoreland neighborhood home built by their father; brothers Craig (Jeannine), Dexter (Roseanna) and sister Shirley (Tab) Boyer.

Marilynn graduated from Duniway Elementary School and Washington High School and attended Oregon State College. Her childhood included many activities and events stemming from her family's involvement in the Maccabees fraternal organization. Her favorite childhood memories and stories were of the family retreat at Peach Cove on the Willamette River. Purchased by her grandparents at the turn of the century, the riverside farm was the place where she spent countless happy days with cousins with extended family over a span of more than 75 years. Swimming, boating, fishing, hiking, picnicking, growing vegetables, flowers, peaches and filberts were among the cherished memories of Peach Cove.

Marilynn met Neil O. Buley when he returned from England following his service in the U. S. Army Air Corps in World War II. After marrying on August 15, 1947 they settled in Northeast Portland, where they welcomed six children to their family. Marilyn supported Neil in his career as a Senior Master Sergeant in the Oregon Air National Guard and was active in PTA at Glenfair Grade School. She loved music, sewing, knitting, gardening and arranging flowers. A longtime member of craft and ceramic clubs, she was also an active supporter of Kiwanis International for many years. In her later years, she attended River Crest Church.

Marilynn is survived by her six children; Michael (Karen), Scott (Catherine), Barbara (Frank) Schmidt, Craig (Brenda), Joanne, and Kim (Brad) Pepper. Nine grandchildren (welcomed into her loving arms in this order) survive her: John Schmidt, Julie (Schmidt) Rasmussen, Heather Buley, Brandon Mauck, Carrie Schmidt, Neil Buley, Ashley (Buley) Larkin, Nicholas Pepper, Whitney (Buley) Wright, Natalie Pepper and Hayden Buley. Patricia L. Brost 9/12/2017

February 12, 1940 to September 7, 2017

After a life of service to community and family, Patricia L. Brost passed away on Thursday afternoon, September 7 at home with family. She had endured a years-long battle with cancer with courage and grace and is finally at peace.

Patty was born the oldest of five children to Martin & Loretta Gilsdorf in 1940 and lived in the Portland area all her life. She graduated from St Mary's Academy in 1958 and received her Nursing Diploma from Providence School of Nursing in 1961. A week after graduation she married the love of her life, Pat Brost, whom she had met years earlier in the berry fields of east Multnomah County. After their honeymoon Patty immediately found employment at Gresham General Hospital – the beginning of a life-long career in the health service field in the Gresham area. Taking a few years off to start their family of five, Patty returned to Gresham General in 1964 and worked in a variety of nursing capacities. In 1974 she began to move into public education and outreach for the hospital. She would make this the focus of her career for the next forty-plus years, coordinating and facilitating health education classes, workshops and seminars for the community as well as arranging for meetings and speakers for support groups at the hospital. Patty received two Bachelor degrees while she was working and raising her family – a Bachelor of Arts from Linfield College and a Bachelor of Science in Nursing from Walla Walla College.

She retired from Legacy Mt Hood Medical Center in 2002 but went on to serve with many community service organizations including Elders in Action, Gresham Senior Council, Meals on Wheels Advisory Council, Governor's Commission on Senior Services, Home Care Commission and Soroptimist International of Gresham.

Patty's family life was often centered around the interest she shared with her husband Pat in vintage cars & clothes. Proud owners of a restored Model A Ford and a 1933 Plymouth Coupe (with rumbleseat) they would tour the west with other members of the car club dressed in vintage clothes. Their children were always a part of these adventures as well as numerous camping trips to the Oregon coast and mountains.

Patty is pre-deceased by her husband, Patrick Brost and her brothers, Bob & Mike Gilsdorf. She is survived by her sister Kathy Walsh (who provided tender hospice care for her sister), brother Jim Gilsdorf, children David, Tim, Chris, Lisa (Wagner) and Mark; grandchildren Mary Shaye, Mitchell, Scott, Nicholas, Abby, Jeshua and Eleena.

The Funeral Mass of Christian Burial will be held at St. Peter's Catholic Church on Wednesday September 13 at 11:30 am, with rosary at 11:00 am. Reception in the Parish Hall and graveside services will immediately follow Mass.

Thomas (Tom) Edward Bachhuber MD

March 31, 1930 to October 5, 2017

On October 5, 2017, beloved son, brother, husband, father, doctor, and friend passed away peacefully while at home in Gresham, OR with his cherished wife, Margo, by his side.

Tom was born to Hugo Charles (Chas) Bachhuber and Louise Marie Brunke and raised in Mayville, WI. He was the eldest of four children and graduated from Mayville High School in 1948. Tom married his high school sweetheart, Mary Jane Starr, in 1952. They were married for 21 years and had four children before divorcing. Tom graduated from the University of Wisconsin-Madison in 1956 with a doctorate of medicine and a specialization in orthopedic surgery. Following his residency in Madison, WI, he moved to Portland, OR to join an orthopedic practice in 1961. In 1966, he opened one of the first orthopedic practices on the East side of Portland. He was adored by his patients and hospital staff, who fondly remember the sound of his ever-present clogs walking down the hospital hallways at Providence, Woodland Park, and Mt. Hood Medical Center.

Tom had a strong work ethic and could fit a lot of activity into his daily routine. Rising before dawn, he regularly went fishing, then went to work and cared for as many as 40 patients a day (many of whom became life-long friends), before returning home to his family and feeding the animals on his farm—all before bedtime.

Tom married Margo Beam, the love of his life, in 1974. They were married for 43 years and had two children together. After retiring from his medical practice in 1992, he had time to focus on his many diverse interests. He wore retirement well, becoming an excellent cook. His favorite foods included German sausage, stinky cheeses, lutefisk, all sorts of fermented vegetables, donuts, and pie.

His passions were salmon fishing and hunting; foraging for wild mushrooms; gardening; travel; ethnic foods; IPA's; the Portland Pilots soccer teams; and the Portland Trail Blazers—having been a season ticket holder since the team's second season (1971-1972).

Tom never stopped learning over the course of his 87 years, especially about current events and politics. When not treating patients, fishing, or spending time with his family, he either had his nose in a book or was glued to the radio or TV. Even as an 11 year-old, he was tracking world affairs on the radio and was the first to break the news to his small community about the bombing of Pearl Harbor. Not only did he like to learn, he encouraged others to learn as well—providing support for his children and grandchildren to attain higher education. His lifelong motto, which he faithfully lived and imparted to others, was that life's rewards are greater if you "delay gratification."

He is survived by his three sisters, JoAnn Fiorenza, Mary Nell Treible, and Betsy Simons; wife Margo Bachhuber; 6 children—Sarah Bachhuber Peroutka (Alan), Thomas Bachhuber Jr. (Carolyn), Susan Bachhuber Bors (Bert), Beth Bachhuber Eastman (Mitch), Eric Bachhuber (Lauren Newhouse), Andrea Bachhuber (Rob Sokol); 16 grandchildren—Kristen, Chad, Anna, Rachel, Marie, Daniel, John, Madeline, Marcus, Amanda, Maggie, Owen, Emmett, Cody, Camden, and Gavin; and 6 great-grandchildren—Khaenin, Amara, Blake, Isabel, Ava, and Charlie.

Larry was born in San Diego, California to Archie and Frances Becker. He was the third child of four. He is survived by his wife Rosalie, his son Justin Becker (Tricia), daughter Ashley Becker-Nunley (Boyd), and four grandchildren. He is also survived by his siblings Dick Walsh (CA), Edward Becker (CA), and Barbara Becker (IL). Larry leaves behind many cousins, nieces, nephews, aunts and uncles.

After graduating from Helix High School in 1965 he joined and served in the U.S. Army, with two tours in Vietnam as a Medical Corpsman (combat). He completed his tours in 1968, rejoining briefly with the Army National Guard and was honorably discharged on July 1980 as a 2nd Lieutenant.

Larry met his wife Rosie, and fell in love while he was recovering from spinal surgery. They married in San Diego, CA November 6, 1971. After meeting Rosie's family and her beautiful home state of Oregon, the family moved to Corvallis. Larry attended and graduated from Linn-Benton Community College as a refrigeration and air conditioning technician. Eventually moving further north to Portland with his family as an HVAC Sales Engineer.

Larry loved his family and took joy in volunteering his free time in the children's extracurricular activities. His hobbies included camping, fly fishing, hiking, crafting and rocking out to music. Seattle to Portland and Summit to Surf just to name a few of his favorite rides.

Larry was known for his jokes and wit, along with an outgoing personality. He loved all people, and the importance of bringing laughter and joy into the hearts of those around him. He saw the importance of volunteering where needed. The city of Gresham, Gresham Elks, and the Veterans Hospital to name a few. Having felt so blessed in life, giving back to those in need was a must in his retirement. He never complained over the many years of struggling with the effects of Agent Orange and instead tried to bring laughter and love to the lives of others.

Donna Jean Brady

In Loving Memory
9/14/2018

Donna Jean Brady of Portland, Oregon, died on August 25, 2018. Donna was born in Roseburg, Oregon, on March 25, 1936, to Alfred John "Bud" and Frances Ellison. She was in awe of her ancestors in the Agee family who traveled by covered wagon on the Oregon Trail from Missouri to Oregon in 1852. The rest of her family came out by train which seemed more reasonable. She spent all of her K-12 school years in Roseburg and was proud to be a member of the RHS class of 1954. Donna met her husband, Duane, at Lewis and Clark College. After his graduation, he was drafted into the Army. They married August 24, 1957, and Donna returned to Lewis and Clark College to finish her education. She graduated magna cum laude with a degree in English. Later, she would earn a Master of Education degree from Portland State University.

After graduation from Lewis & Clark College, she joined Duane at Fort Ord, CA. She worked at Quartermaster, experiencing her first earthquake, and with others in the department made sure that Fort Ord did not run out of toilet paper. Their teaching careers began in Coquille, OR, followed by a move to Reedsport, where Duane taught and coached, winning a state championship in basketball with the Reedsport Braves in 1967. The last move was to Gresham, OR, where Duane taught, coached, and later was District Athletic Director at Centennial H.S. Donna spent eighteen years as library/media specialist at McCarty Middle School in the Gresham-Barlow District.

Donna liked Starbucks Mocha Frappuccinos, Johnny Mathis, crossword puzzles, gardening, playing the piano, being a "True to the Blue" fan of the Seattle Mariners, and Phelps, who made her more comfortable around dogs. Over many years, she kept in touch with her close friends from high school: Arlene, Joyce, and Marlene; her close friends from college: Eileen, Jeannie, Marilyn, and Marlene; and her pal, Shirley. She was a member of P.E.O., an educational and philanthropic organization. She always had a book in her bag and stacks at home on a table. However, she and Duane most enjoyed attending any school, athletic event, and stage play in which their grandchildren were participants.

She was preceded in death by her parents. Donna is survived by her wonderful husband of over sixty-one years, Duane; Robert and Linda Ellison of Pittsburgh, PA; Darren and Linda Brady, and grandsons, Jacob and Matthew Brady of Woodinville, WA; Devon Brady of Portland, OR; and Gina and Brad Patrick, and grandchildren, Ryan, McKenna, and Cole Patrick of Damascus, OR.

She wanted to mention her appreciation of the staffs at Kaiser Permanente. Dr. Megan Chandler, the ladies in the Medical Lab, and the Nurse Treatment Center at the Rockwood Clinic; and especially Dr. Christine Barnett and her oncology team, the two caring ladies at the reception desk, and the ladies in the Infusion Center. She was always positive, and with their help she survived longer than expected in her battle with AML.

It was her wish to have a private family service which has already been held. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made in her memory to S.M.A.R.T. (Start Making A Reader Today), 101 SW Market St., Portland, OR 97201, or Schoolhouse Supplies, 2735 NE 82nd Ave., Portland, OR 97220.

Alice Blatt

March 3, 1932 to February 6, 2019

John Donne wrote, "No man is an island entire of itself." It was one of Alice Blatt's favorite poems, and the maxim by which she lived. She always saw her life in terms of its connection to everyone and everything around her. From building refugee housing in Europe after WWII, to preserving the Columbia Slough and advocating for more park land in East Portland, to playing in the First Unitarian Church hand bell choir, Alice lived up to this maxim.

Alice passed away peacefully at her home in Portland, Oregon on February 6, 2019. Born in upstate New York in 1932 to Lawrence and Gladys Pasel, she started volunteering early, collecting recyclable material for the war effort before heading to Carleton College. Her time at Carleton, defined by friendships and studies, was one of her most valued experiences. Following college, she attended medical school and became a pediatrician. After practicing for a time, she retired to raise her 4 children.

In Portland, Alice returned to volunteering. She was active in her Wilkes neighborhood, but was proudest of her work to transform the Columbia Slough from clogged backwater to a place of beauty with thriving wildlife. Her work on the Slough, as a Wilkes Community leader and a founder of the Columbia Slough Watershed Council, led the City of Portland to twice award her the Spirit of Portland award.

Alice loved music. She played many instruments, including hand bells, piano, and pipe organ, and even led a bottle band created from empty soda bottles. While she loved all music, it was the sound of hand bells and creating music with others that was one of her greatest joys for over 30 years.

Alice is survived by her 4 children, Elaine, Larry, Jim and John, as well as her 2 grandsons, Philip and Austin. A celebration of life will be held at First Unitarian Church, 1011 SW 12th, on Saturday, February 23 at 1:30 pm.

In Loving Memory

William Henry Barido III

July 14, 1942 to March 8, 2019

To all those who struggle... To all those whose struggles and toils go unsung... we regret to inform you of the sudden yet peaceful passing of William Henry Barido III.

His prolific journey began on the fourteenth of July in 1942. A mere 18 months after our country entered perhaps the most (and possibly only) morally unambiguous war, so too entered into the world one of the most morally right individuals to have ever caressed its face. As described by his surviving sister Linda, William was "...a boy who always 'found a way' to get us into the movies on Saturday afternoons...who popped popcorn in big Kroger bags and sold it to the other kids to get enough money for cokes and candy during all those serials and cartoons. 'Who stood between me and harm more times than I can count...' William made the decision to defend his country in 1960. Having seen his way through the birth and height of the cold war, he traveled to the infamously divided Germany, where he maintained communications for an armored unit for the United States Army.

After his honorable discharge, his devotion to the plight of the working man was only matched and possibly exceeded by his role as a father. Married to Donna Helena Perota in 1964, he fathered children Lisa, William IV, and Toni-Ann. He was also the loving father of Andre Barido. While raising these accomplished people, he also obtained degrees in and held positions at; Mount Hood Community College, the National Labor College, the United Steelworkers Union School, the Los Angeles Federation of Labor, Owen Illinois Glass Co., Thatcher Glass Corp., the Mold-making National Executive Board and the AGFU and USW. Bill was also a first-rate tournament bowler, an amateur science-fiction short-story writer and aspiring comic whose cornball humor was, indeed, unintentionally funny.

William was preceded in death by his parents, Mary Lou and William Barido Jr., and his granddaughter, Kayla Erin Delaney. He is survived by his sister Linda Barido Spagnola and her husband Frank of Old Hickory, TN. His surviving children- Lisa Barido Delaney and husband Bill of Camp Hill, Pa, Bill Barido IV from the Pacific NW, Toni-Ann Barido Iverson and husband Jason from Portland, OR and youngest son Andre Barido from Mt. Lebanon, PA. His 4 children, 10 grandchildren, 4 great grandchildren, numerous nieces and nephews and fellow proletariat's will miss him dearly.

In lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be sent in his name to the American Cancer Society. We wish him the best. Godspeed, Bill. laughlinfuneralhome.com
