He came to Gresham in 1921. On July 3, 1921, he married Mildred St. Clair, daughter of the founder of the

Death Takes Two City Businessmen

Gresham lost 2 businessmen and members of prominent families this week with the death of Arthur Dowsett and Severt Thoren. Mr. Dowsett was long active in civic and community development. Mr. Thoren was a noted figure in the Powell Valley Mission Covenant church, and had been active in residential building here. Obituary sketches appear on page 5.

Albert H. Dowsett

The service will be at 2 p. m. at Carroll's funeral home in Gresham and interment will be in Forest Lawn cemetery. Dowsett died Wednesday of a heart attack.

Dowsett helped organize the association after he moved to Gresham from Wisconsin in 1907. He was the first poultryman of the area to use electric brooders and was a leader in introducing up-to-date production methods.

He was first secretary of the association and for 27 years was director until he retired from the poultry business in 1946.

He was born in Galion, O., and was reared in Ohio and Wisconsin. He was a fireman for the Wisconsin Central railroad for six years before moving to Oregon.

Lucy B. Donley

Lucy Beers Donley, born in Gresham in 1891, died Monday in Yachats where she has made her home in recent years.

The body will be cremated and no funeral service will be held. However, a graveside service will be scheduled at a later date at Gresham's Pioneer Cemetery.

Mrs. Donley, 92, was born Sept. 19, 1891, the daughter of William M. and Anna L. Beers, who came to Oregon from Topeka, Kan., in 1883. She was the granddaughter of Ezekiel and Drucilla Beers who came west in 1878 and settled on Hogan Road near the Clackamas County line.

She married Augustus Donley in 1912 and the pair lived in Gresham many years. He has since died.

Mrs. Donley was a member of Eastern Star and Worthy Matron of that organization in 1939.

She is survived by a brother, William M. Beers, Portland, and an adopted daughter, Betty Ballard, Yachats. There are four grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Gresham Pioneer Dies at Age of 96

Death took one more Gresham pioneer last Friday, when Mrs. Agnes Dickson, 96, passed away at the home in which she has lived for 60 years, on Rockwood road between the Section Line and Powell Valley. She had been blind for the past 25 years and an invalid for the past six. Funeral services were held Monday at Finley's chapel in Portland.

Agnes Steele was born near Larne, Ireland, October 20, 1840. She came to America in 1865 and five years later married William Dickson, a native of Scotland, in New York City. The two came west to Sacramento by train in 1877, going by river boat from there to San Francisco and then north to Portland by ocean liner.

They bought 80 acres the same year, which had been their home the rest of their lives. It is now operated by a son, James Dickson.

The land they bought was then covered with huge virgin timber, most of which was uprooted in the terrific wind storm of 1880. Some of the logs were sawed for lumber in the mill operated by Boone Johnson, husband of Mrs. Hannah Johnson.

Mrs. Dickson helped in the founding of the Fairview Smith Memorial church in 1890. She was the last charter member. Before being afflicted by blindness she was very active in church work.

Her mind was clear and her memory sharp up to the day before her death. She enjoyed good music over the radio and daily listened to news broadcasts. She kept abreast of current events.

Mrs. Dickson is survived by one son, James H., a daughter, Daisy I. Dickson, and two granddaughters, Agnes L. and Jane E. Dickson, all of this vicinity. Her husband died in 1913.

over the world, but chose Gresham as his home and the place to launch a 32-year career as a Realtor.

His funeral will be at 2 p.m. Thursday, May 17, at St. Henry Catholic Church, 346 N.W. First Street, followed by a 3 p.m. reception at the Town and Gown Room of Mt. Hood Community College, 26000 S.E. Stark St. Interment with military honors is at 1:30 p.m. Friday, May 18, at Willamette National Cemetery, 11800 S.E. Mount Scott Blvd. Viewing continues today, Wednesday, at Gresham Memorial Chapel, 257 S.E. Roberts Ave.

There were few organizations in Gresham that did not know Davis' touch.

"Bob had quite boundless energy," said Sue O'Halloran of Kohler Meyers O'Halloran Real Estate. "It was probably because of his military background that he liked things done just so. He always took an active role in issues and took the time and effort to express his opinions ... Sometimes we butted heads, but we were always friends and supportive of each other."

O'Halloran helped honor Davis when he was named Gresham's Realtor of the Year in 1988. He was a founding member of the Gresham Board of Realtors and served as president of the Portland Million Dollar Realty Club.

Beyond the job, he was active in the Gresham Area Chamber of Commerce, Rotary, Elks, Toastmasters, American Legion and Knights of Columbus, as well as St. Henry Catholic Church. He was part of the Northwest Gresham Neighborhood Association, the Multnomah County Sheriff's citizens budget advisory committee, the Multnomah County Democratic Forum and the Gresham Fan Club, which sponsored a float and marching unit in four Starlight parades.

"I do a lot of things because I believe in them more than for the money," he said in a 1988 Outlook interview. "It's an attitude you get when you are part of the community. It's an old-fashioned attitude, but I believe everyone should, in some way, contribute something back to their community."

A lifelong Oregonian, he was born in Portland Feb. 15, 1928, to Franklin and Letta (Blanchette) Davis

Korea and Vietnam.

In 1953, while on leave in Portland, he asked his sister, Ruth, to find a date for him, "specifying a young, short woman," as he told the crowd at their 50th anniversary celebration in 2003. From his station in Savannah, Ga., he later phoned Lorraine, asking if she "would make a one-way trip to Savannah to marry me." They were married June 15, 1953, in Savannah.

The Davises bought their first home in the Rockwood area in 1968, and in 1971 after he completed his Air Force career, they became permanent Gresham residents, becoming friends with Sen. Wayne Morse and later with Sen. Wyden.

"My dad was a dyed-in-the-wool Democrat," said his daughter, Norine LeCroy.

Wyden said that in the beginning he didn't know what party Bob Davis belonged to, knowing only that Davis cared about the community and being involved.

"Bob volunteered at my very first campaign in 1979," the senator remembered in a call from his Washington D.C. office. "I am almost certain he was at the first coffee that Barbara (later Governor) and Frank Roberts gave for me in East County ... He did things in a low-key, quiet way. He was no showboat."

Davis attempted to run for state representative in 1987, but did not win. During his years at Mt. Hood Community College, he was most proud of helping the college win more than $2 million in a lawsuit against developers charged with fraudulent practices in building a student housing complex on campus.

"Because of his real estate background, he knew what was going on, and he went after it, like a bulldog," remembered Norine LeCroy.

Davis' 28-year service to the college, from 1971 to 1999, was "unprecedented," said Robert Silverman, president of Mt. Hood Community College. Davis served four times as board chair and was named MHCC's Patron Saint in 1989.

During his career, he worked with Stassens Realty, then started Homefolk Realty Inc., and in 1989, purchased the Gresham-area franchise from Prudential Real Estate Affiliates and spent three years as a broker with ERA Freeman & Associates. He retired in May 2005. His grandson, Damon Riddle, was his business partner for "My father was a railroad man, and I was the youngest of four children. I know you have to earn things in this life," he said in 1988.

He attended Jefferson High and Oregon State University, earned a degree in political science from University of Oregon and did two years of graduate study at Portland State University.

Davis wanted to be an Air Force pilot, but at only 5-feet-2-inches tall, was too short. He completed his 20 years with the Air Force, serving in 14 years.

His son, Dean, preceded him in death.

He is survived by his wife; daughters, Norine LeCroy of Portland and Denise Brady of Alameda, Calif.; five grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

John Douglas, a survivor of the war of 1812, and a resident of Multnomah county since 1852, died at the residence of his son-in-law, Thomas Buoy, in Powell's valley, on the 28th of June, aged 83 years. On the 4th of July, 1876, when the soldiers of the war of 1812 were invited to join the procession at the celebration at Portland, Mr. Douglas alone responded to the invitation. He was clad in a uniform of his soldier life and driven in a carriage through the streets, being the only representative present of the struggle of 1812. Five daughters survive him.

Dowsett Ends Long Career

Staff Dowsett, Gresham mayor, presided over his last meeting of the City Council Wednesday night.

Dr. Alan G. Fisher will move up from councilman at the next meeting of the council Jan. 8 and be sworn in as the city's new mayor.

This will end 14 years of service to the city by Dowsett as councilman and mayor.

Fisher has been noncommittal on who he might nominate to fill the vacancy on the council created by his taking the mayor's chair.

He says only that there are a number of dedicated persons in the city who could serve well in the post. And also points out that his nomination must be confirmed by the council.

There has been some talk that perhaps one of the dissidents from the recent election should be appointed. However, an official who chose not to be quoted by name, said that it would hardly be fair to pass up some individual who has spent years in workings for the betterment of the city for some one whose chief qualification is that he is a dissenter.

New to the council will be Sidney A. Bartels, Gresham attorney, who was elected Nov. 5. Re-elected were Robert E. Ward and H. E. (Herb) Wandtke. The only councilman who failed re-election was John Schmick.

Death Takes Art Dowsett, Severt Thoren

Thoren Service Set For Today at 2 p. m.; Rites for Five Others

A leading citizen of Gresham for the past 45 years, Arthur Dowsett, 73, died last Thursday at the Portland Sanitarium where he was taken following a heart attack at his home that afternoon.

Funeral services were held Monday at 2 p.m. in the Gresham Methodist church with Dr. G. W. Bruce officiating.

Mr. Dowsett was born in Galion, O., on July 14, 1876. He bought stock in a western gold mine and moved to Portland in 1902. The stock proved worthless. Mr. Dowsett marked it off as "no good" and moved to Gresham a year later, where he founded the Gresham drug company.

During his more than 40 years as a Gresham business man, Mr. Dowsett saved the shares of gold mine stock as a constant reminder of his original poor business venture which brought him to a successful life on the west coast. He was in partnership with Joe Pateneau in the drug store until the latter's death in 1929.

Early residents in Gresham will remember the Gresham drug store when a hitching post and watering trough ran the length of the store front. Friends usually met on sunny afternoons in front of the store to pitch horse shoes.

Mr. Dowsett married Miss Pearl Stafford in 1905. They successively lived in the back room of the store and on a 24 acre homestead near Gresham. Mrs. Dowsett died in March of 1948.

Mr. Dowsett was founder of the Farmer's Exchange, the first Gresham telephone system. The switchboard was located in back of the drug store.

Mr. Dowsett's son Stafford took over Mr. Pateneau's share in the drug store in 1929. Mr. Dowsett retired from the drug business in 1938 to manage his property holdings in the Gresham area.

He and his partner built several buildings in Gresham between the years 1912 and 1920, including the old Condon hotel.

History of Arthur Dowsett Is Review of Business Growth in City; He Started Career Here in 1903

By Fred Haas

A man who came to Gresham on a bicycle in 1903 with everything he owned slung over one shoulder left it last Thursday comparatively a rich man.

The man—Arthur Dowsett—built his fortune on faith in the business possibilities of the city. When he died last Thursday he left properties valued even on conservative estimates in the many thousands of dollars.

Had Faith in City

Probably no other individual during the early struggling days of the community had any more faith in the city. At least none backed his faith any more heavily financially.

As early as 1910, Mr. Dowsett, then a resident of the community for only 7 years, started acquiring property along with his partner in the Gresham Drug store, Joe A. Pateneau.

They constructed the building located at the northwest corner of First street and Main avenue, now occupied by Bjur Electric, Walrad Insurance Agency, Bill's Barber Shop and Pauletta's Women's and Children's Wear.

The building originally housed the old Condon Hotel, a landmark in the city for many years. It was operated by Bill Condon, who died several years ago.

Many present-day Gresham businessmen remember the old landmark well. Some of them had business locations there. On the corner where the Bjur store is now located was the Old Bank of Gresham, in which Jim Elkington, still active in business in Gresham, was interested. The Gresham Anchor Store operated by Burton Walrad Sr., now retired, occupied the location where the Walrad Insurance Agency and Bill's Barber Shop are now situated. The Sterling-Kidder Hardware store was located in the store now occupied by Mrs. Glenn Ewalt, owner of Pauletta's. L. L. Kidder, now retired was one of the partners, and Glenwood "Sport" Miller, now one of the owners of the present Kidder Hardware store, worked there.

Rented Building First

Mr. Dowsett and Mr. Pateneau during the early years rented their drug store corner space from John Metzger in the old Metzger building, a wood structure which housed several other businesses including the Kessler barber shop and Pete Lenard's Tailor shop. Mr. Dowsett bought the property from Mr. Metzger and in 1927 razed the old structure and built the building still standing at the Main and Powell location today. The drug store and Ray Martin, Inc., now occupy all of this building.

About this same time, Mr. Dowsett also constructed a row of business buildings on the north side of Powell boulevard west from the city hall. Between the Dowsett properties is a building which was put up and is still owned by Mr. Lenard. This building houses the Gresham Tailor Shop and the Carl Dahl Shoe Repair shop. A building on the east near the city hall is owned by the city.

As one Gresham businessman said, "The impact of Arthur Dowsett on the growth of Gresham cannot be assayed. However, is certain he played a tremendous part in the development of Gresham we know today."

Stafford Dowsett, executor of his father's estate, said this week that the properties will remain in the estate.

Obituary: Dreiser's Widow Dies

Mrs. Helen Esther Dreiser, widow of the celebrated American novelist, Theodore Dreiser, died Thursday at her sister's ranch near Gresham. She was 61.

Mrs. Dreiser, a writer herself, suffered a stroke in Burbank, Cal., in early 1951 and was flown to Gresham where she lived as a bedridden invalid. Because of her illness, she was seldom interviewed and had few visitors.

Occasionally, former friends from the world of American letters came to pay their respects. About six months ago Mrs. Dreiser chatted with Mrs. Sherwood Anderson, wife of the noted playwright.

MRS. DREISER completed her autobiography, "My Life With Dreiser," in 1951. Because of her illness she was not able to write anything further.

She was born in Portland and attended school here. During the years she spent with Dreiser they lived alternately in New York, California and abroad.

The body will be sent by air to Forest Lawn cemetery in Los Angeles where it will be buried alongside that of her husband. Mrs. Dreiser's sister, Mrs. C. A. Butcher, will go to California for the services.

Daughter of Outlook's founder die

Mildred Davies, 88, who gave the Gresham Outlook its name when she was a young girl, died of heart attack Aug. 31 at a Portland hospital.

The funeral will be at 10 a.m. today, Sept. 3, at Bateman Carroll Funeral Chapel, 520 W. Powell Blvd. Private burial will follow in Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

In an interview with The Outlook in 1985, Mrs. Davies, the daughter of Harry and Lena St. Clair, remembered sitting around the family dinner table in 1911 discussing with her parents the new newspaper they planned to print in Gresham.

"My father's words and expressions prompted me," she recalled. "He had spoken of a paper that would take an outlook on this area — an outlook on the present and the future and maybe what's on past.

"I said, 'Why not the Gresham Outlook?'"

"And my father said, 'That's perfect — just perfect.'"

Harry St. Clair was a minister

MILDRED DAVIES

when he first came to Gresham.

Called to a church in this community in 1902, he drove with his wife and four children out Powell Boulevard. "There were big trees along both sides (of the road) and framed at the end of the road was Mount Hood. Father said, 'This is paradise. I want to live here the rest of my life,'" Mrs. Davies remembered.

Well known berry farmer Bob Dix dies at age 84

was 'everybody's first boss'*

By Sharon Nesbit
staff writer

Troutdale berry farmer Bob Dix, who is remembered by scores of children who worked and grew up in his berry fields, died Friday, Aug. 21, at his Boring home of esophageal cancer. He was 84.

His funeral service will be at 1 p.m. Friday, Aug. 28, at Smith Memorial Presbyterian Church, 2420 Fairview Ave., where he and his wife, Louise, were members of the Mariners. Viewing is from noon to 7 p.m.

BOB DIX

Wednesday, Aug. 26, at Gresham Memorial Chapel, 257 S.E. Roberts Ave.

"Bob Dix was everybody's first boss," remembered Mary Bryson of Springdale, who worked in the Dix berry fields when she was growing up.

Neil Handy of Troutdale, who recently turned 62 and collected his first Social Security check, started working for Dix as a fifth-grader. Handy and his brothers worked weekends after school, then summers picking and in late day helped Dix load crates to take to the cannery.

It was how you learned your work ethic, Handy said.

"You were a kid and you had your own money and you learned to save some."

Nancy Callister Buley, who now works for J. Frank Schmidt & Son nursery, worked in the Dix fields and was a friend of their daughter, Julie.

ship, the USS San Bernardino, at Midway and the Aleutian Islands. He was a quartermaster 3rd class and was discharged in 1945.

Dix first got a taste for the berry business while tending his father's five acres. In about 1948, he and his wife moved into a rented home in Troutdale, surviving the winter of 1949-50 when everyone was snowed in for more than a week. They purchased about 40 acres at the top of the hill in Troutdale, the present location of the Strawberry Meadows subdivision.

"Every field I used to work in is all houses now," Handy said.

But in the late 1940s when they first purchased their farm, no one even considered homes on the site. Louise Dix remembered, "We had to make a payment of $500 a year on that land, and how we struggled sometimes to get it paid."

Dix frequently choked up when he remembered the years that his wife put a baby in the carriage and went out to the field to work beside him.

"He was always pretty calm but there was a special signal that let us know how things were going," Buley remembers. "Bob always had some quarters in his pocket, and if they were really clinking together loud, we knew that he was worried about something (the rain, or sunscald on the raspberries, or the price of berries at the cannery, or a broken down truck). The louder the jingling change, the more we knew we'd better pay attention to our work and be model berry pickers."

And at the end of the season, the Dixes took their workers on a blowout party at Blue Lake Park where "we all went crazy," Handy remembered. "He knew how to work hard, but when it was time to have fun, he knew how to do that, too."

Dix, smiling and soft-spoken, was a child of the Depression. Born Nov. 3, 1924, in Blunt, S.D., to William "Ben" and Luella (Snell) Dix, the family came west seeking a healthier climate for his mother, who had asthma.

They loaded a 1929 Buick with all their possessions, headed for "nice and cool" Oregon, but to do so, they had to drive the Columbia River Highway through the gorge.

"Unbelievable," he remembered in an interview. "The road was enough to scare us to death."

The family spent its first winter living in a shed in Mill City, still relishing the mild weather, which Dix said, "For us it was like going to Palm Springs."

They settled in Troutdale when Ben Dix went to work for the Bissinger Wool Pullery. His mother became secretary of the Troutdale School Board.

Dix attended Troutdale Grade School and graduated from Gresham High School in 1942. There he met Ella Louise Wall, whom he married Oct. 2, 1943, in Pocatello, Idaho.

He attended Pacific University on a baseball scholarship in 1942-43 and entered the Navy in 1943. He served on a weather

Robin, wanted to continue the farm, Dix named the operation Bob Dix & Son Berry Farm, but Robin was killed in a car accident in 1982. In 1995 their daughter, Julie Dix Bybee, and her young son died in a car-train collision in Idaho.

In response to those tragedies when they sold the Troutdale farm for development, the Dixes helped preserve the canyon and historic trail behind their fields. In honor of their children the trail is called Robins Way.

The Dixes retired in 1987 and moved to Boring. He was a charter member of the Troutdale Lions Club, served for a time on the Troutdale City Council and was a board member of the Gresham Berry Growers Association. He and his wife were members of the Mariners group at Smith Memorial Presbyterian Church.

He was a lifetime member of the Troutdale Historical Society and donated strawberries for that organization's early ice cream socials.

He liked dancing with his wife and they enjoyed traveling the United States towing their trailer. They visited many different countries as well. He enjoyed hunting, fishing and golf and two beach homes at Cape Meares and on the Puget Sound. He and his wife were faithful fans at their grandchildren's and great-grandchildren's sporting events.

He is survived by his wife of Boring; daughter, Kathy Louise Dix Green of Troutdale; foster brother, Bob Grockett of Gresham; as well as 11 grandchildren and six, soon to be seven great-grandchildren.

Son Robin Jeffry Dix and Julie Dix Bybee, and grandson, Tyler John Bybee, preceded him in death as well as his foster brother, Wayne Cottingham.

Memorial contributions are suggested to Smith Memorial Presbyterian Church or Mt. Hood Hospice, P.O. Box 1269, Sandy 97055.

Frank joined the Navy in August 1939. He was on Corregidor Island in the Philippines when the Americans surrendered to the Imperial Japanese forces on May 6, 1942. He joined thousands of prisoners of war at Camp Cabanatuan before being shipped to Manchuria for forced labor in a machine tool factory.

"I never did know what we were making, but we did what we could to foul it up," Frank told The Outlook in a profile story in April 2007.

After three years, three months and 10 days as a prisoner, Frank was among the POWs who were liberated by the Russians at war's end. He was shipped to Saipan and later to Guam for medical treatment.

After his discharge in March 1946, Frank returned to Portland and worked in the shipyards until they closed. He then worked as a stationary engineer at Good Samaritan Hospital, where he met Jean McKillop, a nursing student. They were married May 10, 1947, in Seattle and built their home just outside Springdale. They endured "some of the worst winters ever" in 1947 and 1948 while building the house. While at RCMH, she met Irving Berlin and Fatty Arbuckle in an elevator, where she obtained Mr. Berlin's autograph. The trip was a highlight of her early years and she had many fond memories of working at Meier and Frank where she made many life-long friends.

only surviving sister, Mildred, were chosen as Grand Marshals of Gresham's 100-Year Celebration Parade in May 2005. Lucile was 90 and Mildred was 94 at the time. It was one of the highlights of their lives.

Lucile was a kind-hearted and giving person who always thought of others before herself, and who always enjoyed being useful to people. She especially loved her family, her home, gardening, and trips to the beach. Although she would have described herself as a homebody, she also enjoyed several trips to Hawaii and one to Europe with her daughter in 1982. She maintained a large flower and vegetable garden every year until the age of 94 when she had to move to assisted living. When asked the secret to her longevity, she said it was probably good genes, walking one and a half miles to school and back every day, and her mother's homemade oatmeal in the morning. Lucile was a product of the Great Depression from which she learned hard work, frugality, perseverance and the love of a simple life. She lived her entire life in a two square block area until one month ago.

In 1949 she married Theodore DeWitte of Gresham and they had one daughter, Carol. After becoming a mother, Lucile retired from M&F and became a dedicated homemaker. She was a devoted mother and enjoyed working with her husband, Ted, on the family farm. She was an avid gardener, the love of gardening learned from her mother. She was married to Ted until his death in 1975. She was a life-long Gresham resident, her parents having settled in the area in 1900. In 1925, her father built a new home on 181st and Powell across the street from the original home that Lucile was born in. She lived in this home for 84 years, until forced to move for health reasons. In recognition of her lengthy life and deep roots in the community, Lucile and her

She was preceded in death by her parents; her husband, Ted; brother, Quinton Kummel; sisters Irene Hendricksen and Mildred Arvidson. She is survived by her loving daughter, Carol Bowles and son-in-law, Bill, of Gresham; and numerous nieces, nephews and cousins. She will be greatly missed by all who knew her. Lucile's family wishes to especially thank Liliana's Home Care where Lucile was lovingly cared for as a family member the last month of her life. Lucile will be buried at Forest Lawn Cemetery, Gresham next to her beloved husband, Theodore DeWitte. Per Lucile's request, there will be no funeral service. Remembrances may be made to the Salvation Army or charity of your choice. Arrangements by Gresham Memorial Chapel.

Harvey Dick Hammons

Oct. 04, 1928 - July 15, 2014

With his daughter and loving caregiver at his side, our dad, Harvey Dick Hammons, was released from the unkind burden his earthly body had imposed on him in recent years, and joined his wife, parents and brother in Heaven the morning of July 15, 2014. The world will be a quieter, much less interesting place without him.

Dick was born Oct. 4, 1928, in Valley View, Texas, the son of sharecroppers. Moving west in search of work, the family eventually settled in Grants Pass, where Dick graduated high school as a letterman on the Grants Pass High School football and baseball teams.

After high school, he entered military service to become an aviator but was unable to continue due to injuries sustained during training. He entered the University of Oregon as the first of his family to attend, and ultimately graduate college after a detour through the Korean War in the U.S. Army, 40th Infantry Division.

After Korea, Dick returned to the University of Oregon and met Edna Mae Tinker, who, on Sept. 4, 1955, became Edna Mae Hammons. The couple settled in Portland, where Dick joined the Internal Revenue Service and served his entire working career as an agent. An involved father, he rarely, if ever, missed a game, performance or school event for his three children, nor any opportunity to be with his family. He coached in Parkrose Little League for many years, even after his own children had aged out, and volunteered as a youth baseball umpire throughout the city.

Upon retiring in 1984, he moved with his wife and daughter to the family farm in Milton-Freewater, where he became a self-proclaimed "unpaid, part-time farmhand." As needed, he would help his son with the farm work... so long as said work did not conflict with golf at Walla Walla Country Club, his annual month-long February trips to Hawaii or rides on his beloved Arabian horses.

Dick is survived by his daughter, Elizabeth, son-in-law, Marc, grandchildren, Zac and Tia Mae Kendall of Gresham; son, Brian, and grandson, Johnathan Hammons of Milton-Freewater; son, Richard Hammons, daughter-in-law, Erin Couch, and grandsons, Colin and Hugh Hammons of Portland.

A memorial service will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday, July 22, 2014, at Zeller Chapel of the Roses, 2107 N.E. Broadway St., Portland. We request you honor Dick at the service by wearing your favorite Hawaiian or golf attire.

Remembrances in Dick's name would be gratefully accepted by Portland's Housecall Providers, housecallproviders.org, 971-202-5500 or by Walla Walla Community Hospice, wwhospice.org, 509-525-5561.

Mary Ann David

June 10, 1947 - July 16, 2014

Oregonian - Sun - 7/20/14

Although we were not there to witness it, it is widely assumed that on June 10, 1947, Mary Ann David burst into the world at the old St. Vincent's hospital in Northwest Portland. The eldest daughter of North Pacific Lumber's Doug and Kathryn David, Mary Ann grew up on a small farm in Raleigh Hills with her two sisters, beloved grandfather, Bapa and a full compliment of barn animals.

At Beaverton High School, Mary Ann was the charismatic captain of the rally squad, energetic features editor of the school newspaper and took her Annie Get Your Gun one-woman show to the state speech competition. After taking a bow at BHS, the five-foot fireball headed south to the University of Oregon. She joined the Alpha Phi, became the social chair so she could plan the parties, sang songs, laughed loudly, danced happily, considered journalistic fame and made friendships so deep that they lasted a lifetime.

Mary Ann married her high school sweetheart, Mike McGinley. The basketball star and the cheerleader, straight out of central casting. They set off for Seattle by way of Spokane and started a family. Boating on Lake Washington, her job at the phone company and three beautiful babies.

Next stop Tigard. She was PTA president, school board, Junior League and fundraiser extraordinaire. She was in charge. Supermom.

Mary Ann was a calligrapher, artist and a bit bohemian. She was resident of The Portland Calligraphy Society, a speaker at national calligraphy conferences and her work was published in multiple magazines and books. Receiving one of her famous, handcrafted birthday cards was an event that none of us will ever forget. Because of their beauty, the cards lingered on mantles long after the holiday had passed.

Mary Ann was an entrepreneur and small business owner. For a decade, she was the proud proprietor of "Mary Ann's," an art and calligraphy boutique in Portland's Multnomah Village.

She saw the world through a lifetime of cosmopolitan travel, but always made time for her favorite places summers in Neskowin, fall on the Deschutes, Mission Hills in the winter and Hawaii.

She was classy, refined, kept tastefully decorated homes, set a beautiful table, stylish and a wonderful cook. She took the NY Times book review and loved music. She served on the boards of The Oregon Food Bank, Eastern Western Corporation and The David Family Fund of The Oregon Community Foundation.

Mary Ann practiced friendship as if it were an art form. "To have a friend you must be a friend" was her mantra, and the result was the widest social network of people that care about her that we have ever seen. She made friends everywhere she went and was renowned for her giant, generous heart.

Mary Ann passed away July 16, 2014, at her home in Lake Oswego, surrounded by the loving family that was the joy of her rich, full life. She approached her final days with grace, dignity and courage, literally laughing in the face of mortality, singing and smiling until the very end. It was a truly remarkable thing to see.

She is survived by her children and grandchildren, Molly Bowers (husband, Tracy, children, Ryan and Darby), Danny McGinley (wife, Michelle, children, Jackson and Lily) and Sarah Trelstad (husband, Aanen, children, Ronan and Mallory); sisters, Sally David and Susie Oswald; large extended family; innumerable friends; and Katie, the dog.

Donations may be made in her honor to: www.pancan.org.

A memorial service will be held at 2 p.m. Friday, Aug. 8, 2014, at the Grand Ballroom in the Portland Art Museum.

She was born to Walter Otto Nabower and Norah Munnerley Nabower in Prosser, Nebraska on August 28, 1923. In 1934, in the midst of the Great Depression, the Nabower corn crop was entirely destroyed in a tornado. Her family and 11-year-old Joyce sold what was left and moved to Oregon where they settled in the Rockwood area and Joyce attended Wilkes Elementary School. She graduated from Gresham Union High School in 1941.

Following high school, she worked at the Army Induction Station, Janzen Mills and then for the Oregon Bankers Association. Upon his safe return, Joyce and Roy married in 1945.

Joyce followed some of her passions as a member of Multnomah Anglers and Hunters Club. She sang with the Sweet Adelines, hunted mushrooms with the Oregon Mycological Society, searched for ancestors with the Genealogical Forum of Oregon, belonged to the VFW Ladies Auxiliary and sang with The Singing Springs Choral Club in The Dalles. She was also a home tester for Betty Crocker kitchens for 10 years.

In Loving Memory

Robert Eugene Dennis

Sept. 22, 1945-

March 14, 2019

We lost a great man when Bob passed away after an 11-year fight against cancer. He loved people and enjoyed sitting with them at the table and talking for hours.

Bob grew up in Montana on Whitefish Lake, enjoying the great outdoors from fishing with his grandma to ice skating in the winter.

Bob was serving in the Marine Corps in Japan when the Vietnam War began. He didn't even know where Vietnam was as they headed to the DMZ.

He loved his family. Our kids believed they could do whatever they set their minds to, as long as it glorified God. He supported and encouraged them every step of the way. That often meant long hours driving to basketball games, quizzing them before a big test, or treating them to ice cream for a job well done.

Our son, Stephen, said, "Even in jest, he never said anything bad about our mom. He took pride in her and championed her pursuits. He will forever remain the gold standard of love, respect, fidelity and admiration."

Bob was faithful to our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. He continued to share his testimony with doctors and caregivers right up to the end. I'm sure there is much rejoicing in Heaven.

He was a magician with words. His thoughts would be tickled, and the next thing we knew, he would have a poem written. They brought much joy to many people and were a window into the depth of his heart. He dreamed about putting them into a book someday.

Our daughter, Katie, summed it up when she said, "He was the supporter of my dreams, encourager when I lost perspective, the cause of countless, loving eye rolls because of his dad jokes, and most importantly, our picture of Christ."

Kenneth Melville Duff

May 29, 1947-
April 1, 2019

Kenneth Melville Duff, 71, went home to be with his Lord and Savior Jesus Christ on April 1, 2019. He was born on May 29, 1947 in Silverton, Oregon.

He worked for Chambers Motor Company and Gene Howell Logging. After the birth of their daughter Roberta, the family moved to their current Damascus home where Ken started a successful family business called Rainbow Welding and Fabrication retiring in 2017. He loved his family, telling jokes, hunting, fishing, traveling, camping, and getting firewood. Ken had many talents including car repair, diesel truck repair, welding, wood bowl turning and even cooking. He was a fun, happy man who believed in Jesus as his Savior. He taught Sunday School, lead Bible studies and was a charter member of Abundant Life Christian Church. When the family later joined Good Shepherd Community Church, he helped with their car clinics, sportsman banquets and for 12 years he was a children's leader in a program called Breakout. Many children will remember his Christmas gingerbread houses constructed from graham crackers or the Thanksgiving turkeys made from apples with lots of candy. He was also an active member of the Molalla River Rangers where he was known as "Jack A. Lope". He competed in the club's shooting matches and was always ready to help set up before and take down after the matches. He lived his life to its fullest as every day was a new adventure. He thanked The Lord daily for the family and friends God had given him. Ken was a faithful servant and a kind, considerate man who was dearly loved by many and will be missed by us all.

Ken was preceded in death by his parents, Melville and Marybelle Duff; sister, Susan Duff Secrest and his grandson, Elliott Kenneth Staigle. He is survived by his wife of 50 years, Wilma Duff; daughter, Roberta Staigle (Adam); grandchildren, Samuel, Liberty-Grace, Liliana and Noah Staigle (all of Parma, Idaho); his twin sister, Katherine Duff of Gresham; and many precious nieces, nephews and extended family.

PAMPLIN MEDIA In Loving Memory 4/15/2020

V. JoAnn Dries

April 30, 1940 - April 3, 2020

V. JoAnn Dries was born in Glendale, CA on April 30, 1940 to Lillian and Donald Morton. JoAnn's mother married Kenneth "Poppie" Malstrom, after becoming widowed early in JoAnn's life. Ken adored JoAnn, her brother Ronald, and sister, Dawn; their children and grandchildren.

JoAnn loved family more than anything; she had four daughters:

Jeannette [Turin], Tammy [Pullen], Julie [Durand], and Shelby [Piersol] and a son, Dennis. JoAnn's husband, Dennis [Sr.] had two daughters from a previous marriage and when one moved north from California with her son, JoAnn graciously opened her home to them during their transition.

When JoAnn's first granddaughter arrived in the early 1980s, she couldn't have been more full of love. She would be blessed with ten grandchildren which would eventually lead to ten great-grandchildren (thus far). JoAnn loved seeing pictures, talking on the phone, perusing Facebook, and learning of most recent individual accomplishments when she was unable to visit with each member of her large family in person.

JoAnn settled in Sandy, Oregon with her family in 1973. They purchased property and built a beautiful home past Firwood Road, where Dennis, who survives JoAnn, still resides. JoAnn was a sociable person who enjoyed community involvement, which included owning her own business in the center of town. As an avid and accomplished quilter, JoAnn gave rise to Paradise Quilts, which remained in business from 1998 to 2019.

Early-on, JoAnn coordinated a near-annual quilting retreat to Cannon Beach, Oregon where she gathered like-minded quilting friends and family to share patterns, projects and good times in a beautiful location. JoAnn loved to entertain, share her talents and make each person feel welcomed and important.

Cannon Beach held a special place in JoAnn's heart as her favorite of all the Oregon beaches. Family vacations were often taken at the beach and excursions in the family camper to Cape Lookout were a highlight for all. While JoAnn's ashes will be scattered privately in one of her most beloved locations, her wishes were for all who enjoyed her company to think of her when visiting the Oregon Coast. If you would like to make a donation in memorium, please do so to the Sandy Historical Society 503.668.3378.

Gordon Alexander Dowsett, MD

April 4, 1942 - July 13, 2020

Gordon Alexander Dowsett passed away in his home in Damascus, Oregon, on the morning of July 13, 2020; a home with a sweeping view of Mt Hood that he and Kim, his wife of 40 years, built together and loved. The son of Bob and Lee Dowsett, he grew up in Gresham, Oregon, with siblings Mike and Mardee. Gordon attended Gresham High School, the University of Oregon, and the University of Oregon Medical School (OHSU), where he excelled in his studies. After an internship at the UCLA School of Medicine and his residency at OHSU he served two years in the U.S. Air Force.

Gordon began his practice as an otolaryngologist in east Portland in 1976 and was beloved by both patients and co-workers, alike. He then retired in 2000 to fulfill his dream of being a mediocre yet persistent full-time golfer. He was a member of the Columbia Edgewater Country Club for many years as well as a frequent golfer at the Resort at the Mountain golf course, and was known to retrieve clubs from trees and lakes much to the enjoyment of his golf partners.

A strong athlete in high school, Gordon closely followed his favorite teams. He was a lifelong Yankees fan and was thrilled to experience games at both the old and new Yankee stadiums. As a faithful U of O Duck football fan, he and Kim were season ticket holders for over 20 years and proudly followed the team to two national championships and multiple bowl games.

Friends and family will remember his quick wit, loyalty, and compassion. Those who knew him well will recall his love of: the Welches mountain cabin, Hawaii and snorkeling, fast luxury cars, perfectionist vacuuming, hummingbirds, World War II history, reading nonfiction, dachshunds, storytelling, seeing movies in the theater, grilling, ketchup, bbq chicken pizza, Thai food, Led Zeppelin, Pink Floyd, and Queen.

Gordon is survived by his wife, Kim Dowsett; children, Teresa Blackwell (Judd), Craig Dowsett (Jin Hee), Amy Widstrom (Jeremy Sullivan), and Kevin Dowsett (Hailey); nine grandchildren, Acacia, Calhoun, Carrigan, Cormac, Conan, Campbell, Hogun, Avila, and Sidra; and one great-grandchild, Penny.
