

Bea Alexander

A longtime resident of Gresham, Sarah Beatrice "Bea" Alexander died Tuesday in a local hospital following a long illness. She was 65.

A native of Oklahoma, Alexander lived in Gresham from 1940 to 1963 and was a member of Jehovah's Witnesses in Gresham. In 1963 she moved to Tigard.

She is survived by her husband, Charles; sons Dearell Alexander of Gresham, J.D. and Jerry Tacker, both of Tigard, William Tacker of Wenatchee, Wash., Arley Tacker of Dateland, Ariz., and Kenneth Tacker of Phoenix, Ariz.; brothers Bob Smith of Newport, Wash., Sherman Smith of French Camp, Calif., and Arthur Smith of Bakersfield, Calif.; a sister, Irene Harris of Wenatchee; 25 grandchildren and many great-grandchildren.

Funeral will be Friday at 10 a.m. at Carroll Funeral Home. Private interment will be at Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

CLARENCE ALLESINA

Served three tours in the Army

the Army for a tour that included coastal defense in Oregon and Washington, followed by assignment to the Philippines.

Following his deactivation, he returned to work at Hessel Implement Co., marrying Jean E. Botkin of Gresham in 1936.

Allesina wandered the world in three tours in the military but always homed in on Ambleside. He and his wife rented a home at Ambleside in 1939 for $10 a month.

As an Army reservist, he was recalled to service in the spring of 1941 as a charter member of the 123rd Observation Squadron, graduated from Officer Candidate School in 1942, and served in the Army Air Corps throughout World War II.

In 1943, Jean Allesina tracked her husband down in the desert near Blythe, Calif., phoning to tell him that the owners of the Ambleside home they were renting would sell the home and 2-1/2 half acres for $4,500.

"Why did you bother to call?"

Clarence told her. The house was theirs. They rented it out during the 14 years that Allesina worked his way through military ranks, but it was always home.

"This Oregon!" he said in 2002, adding that he'd never found another place he liked better.

He was a founding member of the Gresham Elks Lodge and also belonged to the Eagles, Masons and numerous charitable organizations in Gresham. He liked fishing, boating, flying, travel and animals of all sorts.

He was preceded in death by his wife of 60 years and is survived by two children, daughter Lynn Coombs of Sandy and son Bruce Allesina of Gresham, as well as three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Casey Eye Clinic, Meadowood Speech Camp, Oregon Humane Society, Guide Dogs for the Blind or Gresham Historical Society.

Gresham Funeral Chapel is handling arrangements.

Services Held On Monday for Dr. H. V. Adix

Death Came Saturday To Prominent Doctor At Gresham Residence

Final rites for a prominent Gresham physician and surgeon, Dr. Henry Victor Adix, 73, who died early Saturday evening of a heart attack at his home here, were held Monday at 1 p. m. at the J. P. Finley and Son Morninglight chapel in Portland.

Rev. L. F. Evenson, curate of Trinity Episcopal church in Portland, conducted the services. Private commitment was held at the Portland Crematorium.

History Given

Dr. Adix was born on March 31, 1873, in New Orleans, Louisiana. Part of his early years were spent in San Francisco, California, where his mother was an early woman physician. He was eight years old when the family moved to Portland.

A graduate of the old Portland high school in 1891, Henry Adix studied osteopathy for three years, after which he entered the University of Oregon Medical School.

He was married on February 17, 1904, to Miss Carrie Ladd, member of a pioneer Portland family. Graduating from the medical school in 1907, he interned at St. Vincent's hospital in Portland. Following four years of practice in that city, Dr. Adix and his wife moved to Estacada, where he was a physician for the Portland Electric Power Company during its extensive power development program in that area.

Early in the year of 1919 the Adixes moved to Gresham, where they settled in the present residence on West Powell boulevard. Dr. Adix opened an office in the building at the corner of Main and First in which he practiced for the 28 years prior to his death.

Death Takes Dr. H. V. Adix

Funeral service for Dr. Henry Victor Adix, 73, who died Saturday night at his residence in Gresham following a short illness, will be held Monday at 1 P. M. at J. P. Finley & Son's Morninglight chapel with private commitment scheduled for the Portland Crematorium. Dr. Adix was born March 31, 1873, in New Orleans, La.

He is survived by his widow, Carrie Ladd Adix; a son, Dr. Henry Victor Adix Jr., Portland; a daughter, Mrs. Phillip S. Fogg, Portland, and three grandchildren.

Dr. H. V. Adix, Gresham, Dies

Dr. Henry Victor Adix, for many years a practicing physician and surgeon in Gresham, died Saturday at his home at Gresham, following a short illness. Services were held today in Finley's Morninglight chapel with the Rev. L. F. Evenson, curate of Trinity Episcopal church, officiating.

He was born in New Orleans, La., in 1873, and was graduated from University of Oregon Medical school in 1907.

He was active in community affairs in Gresham and was a member of the Oregon State and Multnomah County Medical societies and of the Masonic lodge and Al Kader Shrine.

Surviving are his wife, Carrie Ladd Adix; son, Dr. H. V. Adix Jr., specialist with Portland offices and former commander in the navy; daughter, Mrs. Philip S. Fogg, Portland, and three grandchildren.

Dr. H.V. Adix died in 1947 at the age of 73. Dr. Adix moved to Gresham in 1919 and opened an office at the corner of Main and First streets, where he practiced for 28 years.

El Dorado Estates, one of city's first subdivisions, opened in 1957 in west Gresham. With houses valued at more that $25,000 each it was one of the city's most expensive neighborhoods. The first home, at Eighth Drive and Day Street, sold for $38,000. It featured Roman brick, a tile roof, a glassed-in lanai, an Arizona stone fireplace, cherry and mahogany veneers, a family room with Swedish fireplace and three bedroom and four baths.

Outlook Publisher Lee Irwin was doing some wishful thinking in 1967 when he reported a rumor that local barbers were giving more and more young men short haircuts and the era of long hair, originated by the Beatles, was coming to an end.

Troutdale property owners were hit with a whopping sewer bill in 1977. The city ran short of sewer capacity and landowners, rather than face a building moratorium, offered to prepay their sewer bills in order to finance a $400,000 interim treatment plant.

OUTLOOK

A Doctor Takes His Leave

For forty years Dr. Henry Victor Adix of Gresham, who died the other day, was a country doctor, as the phrase has it, and most of this long period of willing, cheerful service was in Gresham and roundabout. It is impressive to think of the thousands and thousands of people to whom he had ministered as a general practitioner. You get to know a lot of people, and to help a lot of people, when you have a country practice. This sort of doctoring has its special traditions, and to live up to them takes a good deal of casual unselfishness. And that way, of course, it is a real career. Dr. Adix lived up to the traditions.

He was, so his friends tell us, warmly disposed toward horses and dogs, and all sorts of animals, including our own kind, and had in his time owned and bred harness horses and Airedales. It followed that he was a great patron of sports—golf, basketball, baseball, football—and for fifteen years or so he always had a seat reserved at the boxing matches. Then, too, he was a musician of sorts and with all this he loved flowers. You might suppose that he never lacked for a topic that would please a patient, when he needed to interest one—and especially since he himself found life to be such a glad and interesting adventure. And as for medicine, he studied his profession almost to the day of his passing. Naturally, his folks and his friends will mourn him—but nevertheless they'll be glad that he was here such a long while.

Fond of Animals

A lover of animals and country life, Dr. Adix was a devoted fancier of Airedale dogs while at Estacada and, later at Gresham, owned several trotting horses which he entered in sulky races at the Multnomah County Fair and throughout the western circuit. He was also a sports enthusiast, and an ardent devotee of golf.

An energetic practitioner, Dr. Adix continued to minister to his many patients despite back injuries suffered in December, 1945 in a fall on icy pavement while making a call at a private home. Though failing in health since last October, he continued his office practice until Tuesday of last week.

At his home during the remainder of the week, he continued to advise patients by phone and write out prescriptions until Saturday. He died Saturday evening at approximately 6 o'clock.

Dr. Adix was a member of the Oregon State and Multnomah County Medical Societies, Masonic Lodge, Al Kader Shrine, the Grange and Odd Fellows.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Carrie Ladd Adix, of Gresham; one son, Dr. H. V. Adix, Jr., of Portland and Oswego; one daughter, Mrs. Philip S. Fox, of Pasadena, California, and three grandsons.

Carrie L. Adix

Memorial service for Carrie Ladd Adix, who died Monday in Pasadena, Calif., will be 2 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 26, at Portland Memorial Mausoleum.

Mrs. Adix was born March 9, 1881, in Macon City, Mo. She moved to Portland at the age of 2.

She taught school in Portland and lived in the Portland area for 62 years before moving to California after the death of her husband, Dr. Henry V. Adix, who practiced in Gresham.

Survivors include a son, Dr. H. Victor Adix, Lake Oswego; a daughter, Jean Fogg, Pasadena, Calif.; a sister, Ruth E. Ladd, Portland; two grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The family suggests remembrances be contributions to the Oregon Historical Society.

"FOOTPRINTS IN THE SAND"

One night I had a dream. I was walking along the beach with the Lord, and across the sky flashed scenes from my life. In each scene, I noticed two sets of footprints in the sand. One was mine, and one was the Lord's. When the last scene of my life appeared before me, I looked back at the footprints in the sand, and to my surprise, I noticed that many times along the path of my life, there was only one set of footprints. And I noticed that it was at the very lowest and saddest times in my life. I asked the Lord about it. "Lord, you said that once I decided to follow you, you would walk with me all the way." But I notice that during the most toublesome times in my life, there is only one set of footprints. I do not understand why you left my side when I needed you most. The Lord said, "My precious child, I never left you during your time of trial. Where you see only one set of footprints, I was carrying you."

Robert Henry Anderegg

Aug. 6, 1930-June 26, 2005

Troutdale resident Robert Henry Anderegg, 74, died Sunday, June 26, in Portland. Visitation will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday, June 29, at Bateman Carroll Funeral Home, 520 W. Powell Blvd. Private interment will be at Willamette National Cemetery, Portland.

He was born Aug. 6, 1930, in Portland to Walter and Bernyce Anderegg. He was raised and educated in Oregon, where he attended Lynch Grade School and graduated from Gresham High School.

ROBERT ANDEREGG

After high school, he enlisted in the Air Force. He was honorably discharged in 1953. On Jan. 6, 1951, Anderegg married Donna Mae Nelson in Idaho.

The grandson of dairy pioneer Henry Anderegg, who came from Switzerland in 1902 and founded Meadowland Dairy, Robert Anderegg owned and operated Anderegg Brothers Mountain View Dairy in Bend for 14 years and later Meadowland Dairy in Portland. The Anderegg dairy farms started on the west side of Portland, but in 1918 the family moved to the Gresham area near Powell Butte, according to the Gresham Historical Society history, "Stories of Our Past."

Robert Anderegg's father, Walter, who died in 1996, told the historical society that the first registered herd owned by the dairy were Holsteins and later Ayrshires. The dairy was famous for its school tours for children and a hitch of six Percheron horses that made regular appearances in parades in the area.

In 1978 Walter Anderegg and his sons formed Walter H. Anderegg and Sons and moved to the Foremost Plant at Northeast 84th and Halsey until 1987. In retirement, Robert Anderegg moved to back to the Portland/Gresham area and lived in Troutdale, where he continued to enjoy animals, raising quarter horses. He enjoyed the birth of a foal from a favorite mare just a few days before his death, his daughter said.

He was a life member of the Gresham Elks Lodge, Sons and Daughters of the Oregon Pioneers and the Multnomah County Posse. He was also a member of Gresham United Methodist Church. He enjoyed golfing and time spent with his grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

In 2000, Anderegg was preceded in death by his wife. Survivors include his sons, Rick Anderegg of Bickleton, Wash., Tim Anderegg of Tillamook and Jeff Anderegg of Troutdale; daughter, Cheryl Whisler of Gresham; brothers, Walter "Bud" Anderegg of Mulino and Tom Anderegg of Portland; seven grandchildren; and one great-grandchild.

Clarence Allesina, unofficial mayor of Ambleside and Gresham's pioneer citizen of the year in 2004, died Thursday, March 16, at the age of 92.

A memorial service will be held at 4 p.m. Saturday, March 25, at the Gresham Funeral Chapel, 257 S.E. Roberts Ave.

Originally, the general manager of Hessel Chrysler Plymouth, he returned to work for the Hessel companies after retiring from a career in the military and continued to report to do bookkeeping and other duties for a small leasing company until he was 90.

"He was quite a spirit," said Don Hessel, who described Allesina as "incredibly close to our family. He was more like a brother to my father and an uncle to my brother, Jim, and I."

"He'd show up about 10 a.m. every day in the tiny office in the garage that we called World Headquarters. Lots of people would stop by for a visit. It was a place for Clarence to go. He was still driving when he was 90," Hessel said.

A memorial service will be at 4 p.m. Saturday, March 25, 2006, in Gresham Funeral Chapel for Clarence E. Allesina, who died March 16 at age 92.

Clarence Edward Clute was born May 4, 1913, in Portland and raised in Portland and Gresham. He was adopted as an infant, and his name was changed to Allesina. He graduated from Benson Polytechnic High School and served in the Army in the Philippines and then in the Army Air Corps. He was recalled during World War II and served in the Army Air Corps. He was recalled again during the Korean War and served in the Air Force until 1964. He worked for Hessel Implement in Gresham for more than 50 years, including as general manager, and continued as a consultant until 2003. He was named Pioneer Citizen of the Year by the Gresham Historical Society in 2004. In 1936, he married Jean Botkin; she died in 1998.

Survivors include his daughter, Lynn Coombs; son, Bruce; three grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Remembrances to the Casey Hessel Clinic.

Allesima equally enjoyed his home on Johnson Creek in Ambleside, where he fed ducks and squirrels, the latter beefing up to a menacing size.

"When they were out of food, they'd let you know," said Hessel, laughing.

Allesima was born on May 4, 1913, to the Clute family in what was then Cleone, now Fairview. His mother died in childbirth and his father, a farmer unable to care for an infant, approved his adoption to the Allesina family of Portland.

He grew up in Portland and Gresham and went to work at Gresham's Hessel Implement Co. as a teenager. In 1928, known to be a "handy kid," he got work helping fix a water system at Ambleside, an enclave of summer homes on Johnson Creek just off Hogan Road.

"I never dreamed I'd ever own the place. It is beautiful, really beautiful," he said in a 2002 interview with The Outlook.

He graduated from Portland's Benson Tech in 1931 and joined

AT THE ESTACADA COMMUNITY CENTER

Do not stand at my grave and weep,

I am not there. I do not sleep.

I am a thousand winds that blow.

I am a diamond glint on snow.

I am the sunlight on ripened grain.

I am the gentle autumn rain.

Do not stand at my grave and weep.

I am not there. I do not sleep.

When you awake in the morning hush

I am the swift uplifting rush

Of quiet birds in circling flight.

I am the soft starlight at night.

Do not stand at my grave and cry.

I am not there. I did not die.

Oct. 31, 1910-Aug. 10, 2009

Gresham resident Mildred Rosalie Arvidson, 98, died Monday, Aug. 10, at Powell Valley Assisted Living & Memory Care, surrounded by family and caregivers.

MILDRED ARVIDSON

In recognition of their long lives and activities in the community, Mildred and her sister, Lucile, were the grand marshals for Gresham's Centennial Celebration Parade in 2005. Mildred enjoyed the ride in the parade at the age of 94, but said at the time about the news stories, "Why did they have to put my age in?"

A funeral service will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 16, at Bateman Carroll Funeral Home, 520 W. Powell Blvd. A celebration of her life will be held at Sayler's Old Country Kitchen, 10519 S.E. Stark St., Portland, following the service. Interment will be at Forest Lawn Cemetery in Gresham.

Mildred was born Oct. 31, 1910, in Castle Rock, Wash., to Henry and Lena (Hoyer) Kummel, the third of four children. Her father was an officer on Columbia River sternwheelers, but came to Gresham about the turn of the century to farm 10 acres on Johnson Creek. She and her sister recalled in an Outlook interview that Powell Boulevard was a gravel road and neighbors were 20 and 30 acres apart.

She attended Lynch Grade School and Gresham High School, graduating in 1927 at age 16. Immediately after graduation she went to work in First State Bank in Gresham and then watched as the city's two banks toppled during the Depression.

On Sept. 1, 1932, she married Carl J. Arvidson.

Mildred worked for Bank of California in Portland for many years. During World War II, she and her family relocated to San Francisco for several years, but they later returned to the Portland area.

Mildred, known as Millie to her friends and family, loved life, spending time with her family and friends, music and dancing, traveling to Hawaii and Palm Springs, Calif., among other places, and having fun. Mildred and Carl belonged to Riverside Golf & Country Club for many years.

She was preceded in death by her husband; son, Donald Arvidson; brother, Quinton Kummel; sister, Irene Hendricksen; and granddaughter, Angela Arvidson.

Survivors include her sister, Lucile DeWitte of Gresham; grandsons, Randall Arvidson of Portland and Anthony Arvidson of Scottsdale, Ariz.; three great-grandchildren; and one great-great-grandchild.

Remembrances can be made to the Oregon Health Care Foundation's Scholarship Fund for Caregivers, 11740 S.W. 68th Parkway, Suite 250, Portland, 97223.

Boring resident, Sandy's biggest fan, Miles Aubin dies at 95

By Garth Guibord and Darrell Jackson
staff writers

Boring resident Miles Aubin, local historian and one of the biggest supporters of sports at Sandy High School, died Tuesday, Nov. 24, at the age of 95.

"He was an outstanding historian and had a great memory and a great sense of humor," said fellow local historian Phil Jonsrud.

MILES AUBIN

Aubin was born Mildan Lloyd to Marvin and Lorena (Olson) Aubin in Portland on Aug. 6, 1914. He was raised in the Boring and Sandy areas, playing in some of the earliest basketball, baseball and football teams, and graduated from Sandy High School in 1933.

During his senior year in high school, he met Eleanor Vossen, a girl from Portland, on a weekend get-together with some friends. In a Jan. 23, 2008, article in the Sandy Post, Aubin said their first date was a random chance encounter.

"She wasn't my high school sweetheart or anything like that," Aubin said at the time. "I just asked her out because I thought she was nice and cute. I can still picture her as I asked her out, and I never thought she would go out with me. Boy, was I surprised."

The pair dated 11 years before marrying in 1944. They were happily married for 63 years until Eleanor's death in 2007 at

Memorial service

A memorial service will be held at 11 a.m. Friday, Dec. 4, at St. Michael Catholic Church, 18090 S.E. Langensand Road, Sandy. Sandy Funeral Home is handling the arrangements. In lieu of flowers, contributions can be made to the Sandy High School athletic department.

the age of 86.

"That was the saddest day in my life; we were together for a long time, and she was the love of my life," Aubin recalled in 2008. "I can still see her, feel her and know she is with me every day. She was simply the best thing that happened to me in my life."

After graduation

After high school, Aubin worked in logging and then for the Civilian Conservation Corps before joining the Army to serve in World War II. He later attended Oregon Normal School (now Western Oregon University) and Oregon State University, where he graduated with a degree in English in 1947. He later went back and received a master's degree in biology.

Aubin was hired as a teacher and coach in Oakland, Ore., where he taught biology, English and science while coaching football and baseball and trying to finish his degree. He established a winning program during his two years at Oakland, but spent the next 22 years of his career teaching biology at Benson High School in Portland — his final full-time job.

In 1963 he put together the first Sandy High School alumni dinner. Today, more than 300 people attend the event.

"We just felt that it would be a great idea to get graduates together to celebrate their past," Aubin said for the 2008 article. "It started with one class, and then suddenly more and more people wanted to be part, so we had to find larger places to hold the dinner."

Aubin and his family returned to Sandy in 1970, and following his retirement in 1976, he shifted his focus back to his hometown.

His retirement allowed him the time to begin researching Sandy history, which he wrote about in articles for The Sandy Post and The Gresham Outlook. Aubin also wrote articles for the Buckboard Tales, the Sandy Historical Society newsletter, and was known as an incomparable source of historical information for the community.

Aubin made his return to athletics during retirement, officiating at games around Oregon as a referee for the Oregon Schools Activities Association, which he found almost as gratifying as teaching.

While refereeing, Aubin got to know coaches, fans, students and people throughout the area. He credited getting back into the excitement and community of athletics was the catalyst that has kept him going to as many games as possible.

He also enjoyed listening to music and at one time had a huge collection of LP records. He also loved to garden and always had a large and fruitful vegetable garden.

His family

Aubin was also preceded in death by brother Kenneth Aubin, and is survived by his son, Stephen, of Sandy. Stephen recalled going to sporting events with his father, from local high schools to Trail Blazers basketball games, and said his father preferred local sports, questioning who would want to watch "overpaid" athletes.

"He was my best friend," Stephen said.

Phil Jonsrud contributed to this report.
