

DAVE LAURENCE

Fun Acoustic Music!

Dave Laurence writes and performs "Fun Acoustic Music" - a combination of rock, pop, jazz, country, folk, and the dry humor borne of his New England roots.

"Witty, sharp, and tuned into the moment" – Lawton Constitution

Dave began performing and writing songs in 1977 as a bassist for several bands in his home state of Maine. He transitioned into a solo acoustic artist in 1987, performing throughout New England and beginning to craft the songs and stories that have become his hallmark.

He relocated to Oklahoma City in 1995, and performed throughout Oklahoma and the Midwest before taking a hiatus in 2003. He returned to the stage in 2012 and has not looked back.

"If I was putting a band together, Dave Laurence would be the first person I'd call."
- Jimmy Jack Whitaker, award-winning Gospel artist, songwriter, and producer

Since his return, Dave has released four albums and performed from Mexico to Maine. In 2022, he left his Government job to pursue music full time. He says of his craft, "I love to create songs and stories that take people outside themselves for a while, and hopefully bring them back a little better than they were."

After surviving a near-fatal accident in 2025, Dave has decided to spend the rest of his career focused on helping to preserve the art of storytelling through song. He enjoys mentoring and supporting younger like-minded songwriters and musicians.

"Intriguing stories, well-crafted melodies, memorable songs... World class songwriting."
- Jesse Cahn, musician, member Oklahoma Blues Hall of Fame
