first working sessions

From August 27 to September 12, 1968, the first working sessions of a World Constitutional Convention and Peoples World Parliament will be held at Interlaken, Switzerland, and Wolfach, Germany. In 1963 a Preparatory Congress was held in Denver, Colorado, at which time a Call to the World Constitutional Convention was issued, defining basic terms for the Convention and inviting people and governments of all countries to send delegates. This followed 4 years of work to develop the plan since it was launched in 1958. A second Preparatory Conference was held at Milano, Italy, in 1965; and in 1966 the World Committee meeting in Geneva fixed the final terms for beginning the Convention and Parliament.

Now the first working sessions are to convene - - not another preparatory conference, not a model, not a preview, but the real thing! The First Working Sessions to draft a constitution for a Federal World Government with the concurrent organization of a Peoples World Parliament.

Interlaken On Tuesday, August 27, delegates to the World Constitutional Convention will convene in the Theater Hall of the Kursaal. The opening session will be at 8 p. m., preceded by registration and steering committee meeting during the day. The principal hotel for delegates is the Schweitzerhoff, which is adjacent to the Kursaal. Delegates to the Peoples World Parliament will be the preferred observers at the W. C. C. Mailing address in Interlaken is: Weltkonstituante, P. O. Box 154, 3800 Interlaken, Suisse.

Wolfach On Monday, September 2, after 6 days at Interlaken, the World Constitutional Convention will move a few miles to Wolfach, Germany. There the Peoples World Parliament will convene for its first sessions. At Wolfach the World Constitutional Convention and Peoples World Parliament will continue concurrently until September 12, with a combined meeting the afternoon of September 11 to issue an appeal to the people and governments of the Earth.

The events at Wolfach will begin with a reception and welcome by the Mayor and City of Wolfach the evening of Sept. 2. During the 11 days in Wolfach, various entertainments are planned by the Community which is giving 100% cooperation to the W.C.C. - P.W.P. Registration of delegates will be in the City Hall, and hotel assignments made. Address in Wolfach: c/o Mayor Martin. City Hall. Wolfach/Baden, W. Germany.

Late News From Eastern Europe: June 28. Wm. H. Cary, Jr., just returned from E. Europe where he was writing his new book and making contacts for WCC-PWP, reports that delegates to WCC-PWP are likely from Romania, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria. Delegates from Bulgaria may include a philosophy prof., a concert singer, and a member of the writer's union. The Bulgarian delegate may be a musicologist active in women's peace work. The Czechoslovakian delegation is headed by a philosophy professor.

West Germany

Widespread publicity is being given in Germany to the sessions of the World Constitutional Convention and Peoples World Parliament which will be held in Wolfach, after opening sessions of the W.C.C. in Interlaken. The April-May-June issue of "Der Weltfoderalist," periodical of the German World Federalist, is almost entirely devoted to information about the W.C.C. - P.W.P., and has been sent to all members of the Bundestag (the German Parliament) as well as to a wide list of organizations and individuals in many countries.

President of the German World Federalists (Weltfoderalisten e. V.) is Oscar Jedzini, a businessman who has been an active leader in the world government movement for 20 years. He is also a Vice President of the World Constitution and Parliament Assn. Vice Pres. of the German Federalists is Emil Peter, a resident of Wolfach and in charge of local arrangements. Mr. Peter, a journalist, is editor of "Offenburger Tageblatt," was founder of the Initiative Group for the Organization of a Provisional World Government in 1958, later merged with Weltfoderalisten e. V.

Mr. Peter is arranging full press coverage for the W.C.C.-P.W.P. sessions in Wolfach, with reporters from major European international newspapers pledged to attend a press conference during the sessions. In June, Mr. Peter met with members of the German Bundestag at Bonn to arrange for a delegation of M.P.s to participate in the Convention at Wolfach, and in July, he will attend the Vienna Conference of the Youth and Student Division of the World Association of World Federalists to invite their participation in the W.C.C. - P.W.P.

Active in preparing all details for the events in Wolfach is Mayor Arthur Martin, who is a member of the Direktorium of Weltfoderalisten e. V. For the duration of the W.C.C. P.W.P. from Sept. 2 to 12, Mayor Martin has cancelled all other meetings in Wolfach, a popular resort and meeting center in the Black Forest of Southwestern Germany, in order to concentrate the attention of the community on the W.C.C. - P.W.P. Mayor Martin has also enlisted the interest and cooperation of the mayors of neighboring towns, and together with Mr. Jedzini and Mr. Peter is inviting leading personalities of Germany and other countries, including E. European countries, to participate.

Elsewhere in Germany, the German Branch of the International Fellowship of Reconciliation has endorsed the aims of the W.C.O.-P.W.P. and appointed Dr. Fritz Katz, author of "World Problem of Hunger," as delegate to the Peoples World Parliament.

A total of 23 candidates in India are registered at the Denver office for election as Peoples Delegates to the W.C.C. - P.W.P., but restrictions on the use of foreign exchange might prevent the attendance of many unless outside finances are obtained to help pay travel and hotel costs. Meanwhile, the India Association is requesting travel permits for 25 delegates, and proposed to supplement the declared candidates with a number of specially invited distinguished persons, members of India Parliament, and representatives from various world-oriented organizations. A list of 20 India candidates was printed in Across Frontiers.

England

Since early in 1968 the British Committee for the World Constitutional Convention and Peoples World Parliament has been holding meetings, sending out press releases and explaining the plan for Ww.C.C.- P.W.P. to meetings of other organizations. Principal organizer of activity in England is Mrs. Mia Lord, artist, Chairman of the British Committee for Ww.C.C.-P.W.P. and V. Chrmn. of the London Branch of the British Association for World Government.

One meeting was held in the British Parliament House, and a press conference with reporters from London newspapers was held on May 15 at Friends International Center. Reports and articles about the W.C.C. - P.W.P. are appearing in Peace News, the newsletter of the British Association for World Government, the New Student, the Esperanto Journal, the New Statesman, and various newspapers.

The British Association for World Government has named Mrs. Janet Hartog, long-time Executive Member of the World Parliament Association, as their representative at the W.C.C.-P.W.P. Mrs. Mia Lord together with Dr. Gopal Puri have been speaking weekly about world government and the W.C.C. - P.W.P. at Speakers Corner in Hyde Park. A total of six candidates for election to the W.C.C. - P.W.P. are declared in England. All members of Parliament are being informed about the plan. Vietnam

Despite the great difficulties of war, a campaign for the W.C.C.-P.W.P. was launched in Vietnam in 1968 by Le Linh, economist and journalist, with the help of a number of students. The Call to the World Constitutional Convention is being circulated in the Vietnamese language. A lengthy report about the World Constitutional Convention and about the World Constitutional Convention and about the World Constitution and Parliament Association was carried in the Vietnam Press Evening Bulletin for May 31, in the Tu Do Newspaper on June 19, and in other Saigon newspapers. Le Linh is author of "Economic Problems in Viet Nam."

GENERAL GUIDELINES

To serve as the framework and guide for the work of the World Constitutional Convention an 18-page Comprehensive Outline for the Debate and Drafting of a World Constitution has been prepared and distributed to all candidates and delegates to the W. C. C. - P. W. P. The outline has been described by a qualified reviewer as "a magnificent summary and compilation of various proposals for a world constitution and from where I am sitting the most important concrete piece of work of the efforts of these years. It is the kind of thing that ought to be circulated widely for discussion."

As stated in the introduction, "The purpose of this outline is to provide a reasonable and systematic procedure for the consideration of all problems and details concerning the functions, powers, structure, organs and operation of a World Government . . . The purpose of the outline will be served in the best sense not merely as a catalogue of existing proposals, but as a stimulant to the imagination to forsee the unique problems which must be solved by a world government designed for the present and future of humanity rather than the past."

Copies of the outline, titled "General Guidelines," are available for $1.00 each from the Denver Office: World Constitution and Parliament Association 8800 We 14th Ave., Denver, Colo. 80215.

BASIC FEDERATION PLAN

One proposal for beginning the World Federation after a suitable world constitution has been drafted is to start with those countries which will agree:

1. To begin the World Federation with as many countries (but minimum of 5) as will ratify the World Constitution within one year after it is submitted for ratification.

2. To organize immediately a World Economic Development Corporation to serve exclusively those countries (and groups of people) included within the World Federation, but which can receive funds from individuals everywhere who want to aid peaceful world development.

3. To disarm and put funds equivalent to those previously used for armaments into the World Economic Development Corporation.

4. To establish a World University Sys(Described in separate essay)

tem. (Described in separate essay)

5. To include a Peoples World Parliament as part of the World Legislature, including delegates elected by people from countries whose national governments have not yet accepted the world constitution.

World University

During the past 50 years many proposals have been made for world education, and some experiments have been launched. Two recent books describe these proposals in detail, with much valuable analysis. These books are: "The Idea of a World University" by Michael Zweig, published by Southern Illinois Univ. Press ($7.00) Carbondale, Ill. and "World Education-Revolutionary Concept" by Morris R. Mitchell, Director of Friends World Institute, published by Pageant Press ($4.00) 101 Fifth Ave., New York 10003.

Some of the past and present proposals have related the need for world education to world government. In these few lines, we want to propose a "World university system" as an integral part of the program to achieve a world government, to build a world society based on human values, and to work on world problems within the framework of world institutions designed to deal with these problems. Some of the main features and advantages of such a World University System would be:

1. The World University System could be the first continuing institution, or one of the first, to be established by a Peoples World Parliament, or by the persons working on drafting a world constitution.

2. The World University System could serve as a World Research Agency to work on all problems connected with the design and implementation of a world government, and to work on all problems which need to be dealt with by the world government or by world institutions functioning under the world government.

3. The first unit of the World University System (which could be some existing agency ready to be incorporated into the system) could serve the research needs of subsequent sessions of the World Constitutional Convention and Peoples World Parliament, and for a World Economic Development program which may be correlated with the beginning of the World Government.

4. The World University System over a period of years would train people to work on world problems from the viewpoint of world-wide human welfare, and from these people would come the persons competant to compose the institutions of the world government.

5. The students at the World University could serve as a pool of volunteers and some paid workers to develop the world-wide movement for the realization of the objectives of the W. C. C. - P. W. P.

6. The professors of the World University System could comprise a group of qualified and dedicated persons to help carry forward all aspects of the program.

7. The World University System could publish a world magazine, and a world newspaper, together with many pamphlets and books, both to deal with all kinds of world and human problems, and to carry out the specific program of the W. C. C. - P. W. P.

8. The World University System could become a rallying ground for protesting students everywhere who seek a way to build a peaceful human value oriented society.

9. The World University System could help develop the standards and the educational process to equip people with the capacity for value judgments based on ethics and human welfare. The inculcation of the capacity for value judgments of this nature is required for the perpetual re-examination, adjustment and creation of social institutions to serve humanity peacefully and equitably.

10. The World University System could serve as the intellectual crucible in which to develop the overall strategy and from which to launch various specific projects for social reform in line with global perspectives and consideration for human values.

11. As an educational institution, the World University System could obtain contributions and grants on a tax free basis, could appeal to people for substantial contributions on the basis of life-time estates, etc., thus solving much of the financial problems of working for the goals of the W. C. C. - P. W. P.

Consultative Council

Organization of the Consultative Council to the World Constitutional Convention, which was begun from the Denver office in November, 1967, is now being completed by Max Habicht, international lawyer of Geneva, Switzerland. Dr. Habicht, who has served many years as legal consultant to the World Association of World Federalists and to the World Parliament Association, was elected Organizing Chairman of the Consultative Council by the Executive Cabinet of the World Committee in February.

The purpose of the Consultative Council, as defined in the Call to the World Constitutional Convention issued in 1963, will be to "compose an advisory body at the Convention" with authority to "originate proposals for submission to the two houses (of the Convention) and give opinions on matters submitted to it." The two houses of the Convention provided in the Call are a house of peoples delegates and a house of government delegates. The task of the Consultative Council is therefore described by Dr. Habicht to be "mainly of a scientific nature," as compared with the task of delegates to the W. C. C., itself, which "will be mainly of a political nature: to elaborate the text of a World Constitution."

In Norway the plan to hold the first working sessions of a World Constitutional Convention at Interlaken became the starting point for a new and expanded attention to the problems of establishing a democratic world scotter. Early in 1988 a Norwegian Working forough for a World Constitution was formed with lawyer Anke Anker-Ording as Chairman and principal organizer. Mr. Anker-Ording, author of books on industrial democracy as basis of world democracy, has served as a Govornment official in the Ministries of Foreign Affairs, Supply and Reconstruction, and Finance, and as Secretary General of the Union of International Organizations.

Other members of the working group include: Terje Desington, who is Chairman of the Oslo Branch of Ben Verden, the Norwegian world federalist organization; and Lars Ander Larsen, head of the Norwegian Peace Office, which is coordinating activities of peace organizations of all of the larger Norwegian cities.

In preparing the basis for a strong movement which can obtain widespread support thrucut Norwey, the Norwegian Morking Group has obtained the endorsement (printed below) of Trygve Lie, who was Secretary General of the United Nations from 1946 to 1953. In February the plans for the W.C.C. - F.W.P. were discussed by a group of Members of Farliament, representing all six of the Norwegian political parties, who agreed upon the following statement:

ent:

"We have found the efforts which are being made towards this goal of such interest that they deserve attention also in Norwegian quarters. We accordingly suggest that for instance one or more Norwegian observers be sent stance one or more normegian observers be sent to the international conference which is proposed from August 27th to September 12th this year in Interlaken, Switzerland, so that we can be informed about the work which is done there!

On April 4 a meeting was held in the conference rocm of the Foreign Office of Norway, with the aid of Jens Evensen, chief of the Legal Section, to discuss the Wa.C. - P.W.P. Subsequently the Foreign Office, approving the importance of the meetings at Interlaken and Wolfach, decided to send Mr. Anker-Ording to the Wa.C. - P.W.P. as an observer for the Government. Several organizations in Norway are now considering the appointment of delegates or observers.

Statement by Trygve Lie

Statement by Trygve Lie

March 26, 1968

"I have been informed about the initiative taken in a series of countries to have a conference in Interlaken, Switzerland from 27th of August until 12th of September this year to investigate possible measures to hasten the development of a more efficiently organized world society.

"It is a world organization with power to secure peace, freedom and welfare to all which the people everywhere are longing for. The league of Nations and The United Nations were both established to be steps on the road to reach that goal. In my capacity as Secretary General of U.W. through its first years I have had plenty of experience of the difficulties one has to face when it comes to the use of Article 109 in the charter to change a confederation of national states into an organization by and for the peoples themselves. The proposal to make the resolutions in the U.W. binding upon the member states have thus constantly not been passed. But we must not give up. The efforts towards a reform of the U.W. and the efforts siming more directly at a world order under world law do not stand opposed to each other. To the opposite we must try both ways. Direct democratic elections, without limitations because of country, race, view of life or political opinion can be one of the means to reach the goal.

"In Norway the ideas which here apply should

"In Norway the ideas which here apply should have good traditions and I give my full support to the preparations which are being made now to have the work with these questions organized in Norway."
