

Consider Career Technical Training Options

College is not for every student. Don't hold your child back! Invest in your child and invest in your community by researching your local Career Technical Education options. Every year the manufacturing workforce is decreasing due to the retirement of the baby boomers. We need the next generation to consider skilled trades and vocational programs to keep up with the talents needed. We ask you to share this information with your workforce to help stay on pace with the demands of the talent pool required in the next five to ten years.
