

Pure Spaces uses electrolyzed water, or e-water, technology to disinfect environments.

HOCl is a nontoxic disinfecting agent that originates in nature and is 100x stronger than bleach.

Pure Spaces patented technology produces HOCl without salt, making it safe for broad application in commercial and residential environments.

We achieve this through the use of our electrostatic sprayers.

The combination of Pure Spaces' product and electrostatic spraying makes this the safest and most effective way to disinfect.

Electrostatic sprayer technology works by sending a positive electric charge through the disinfecting solution, causing it to be attracted to negatively charged surfaces like two poles of a magnet. This technology removes the liability of human error from the disinfecting process.

Surfaces that may have been missed by manual cleaning or even hidden from plain sight are misted by the e-sprayer automatically. The process ensures that any contaminated areas are disinfected and all pathogens destroyed. This technology is invaluable in preventing the spread of germs, illness and disease.
