Most Coast Guard paygrades receive automatic pay raises every one to two years, with lower paygrades reaching maximum pay more quickly than higher paygrades. In addition to monthly basic pay, all seamen are eligible for a variety of supplemental payments and allowances including combat pay, flight pay, and food and housing allowances among others. Choose any Coast Guard rank for a full basic pay chart as well as applicable allowances and additional pay. Exploring the world can be another day on the job. Whether it's a long-term assignment or a short trip, the Coast Guard can take you to some amazing places. And with your 30 days of annual paid time off, even more adventures await. The United States Coast Guard, USCG, serves as the coastal defense and maritime law enforcement branch of the military. The USCG reports that it has over 40,000 members on active duty, and another 7,000 reservists.

Basic pay is a service member's primary compensation. But your paycheck is also likely to contain several tax-free allowances as well as special pays based on your duty station, qualifications or military specialties. All of these things are part of normal military pay, salary or compensation. Most allowances are non-taxable, so they can contribute to a significant portion of your paycheck. For example, the Basic Allowance for Housing (BAH) is excluded from gross income for tax purposes. When Does Military Pay Change? Military pay automatically increases at the start of each calendar year, in January. Service members see the change reflected in the first pay period of the year.

How to Understand Your Military Leave and Earning Statement (LES) The Leave and Earning Statement (LES) shows your entitlements, deductions, allotments and details about leave, tax withholding and the Thrift Savings Plan (TSP). You can log on to myPay to view your most recent LES. You should verify and keep your LES every pay period. The top of your LES will show identifying information, plus what pay period this statement covers.

Just below that is a row of boxes displaying a summary of your entitlements, deductions and allotments. It's important to note that the entitlements and deductions sections may reflect retroactive activity. Related: How to Read a Military LES Any overflow in these areas will be listed in the Remarks section. Next to those, you'll see another box that summarizes the entitlements, deductions and allotments, and then shows the result: the actual amount in your paycheck. Under your pay amount, you'll see DIEMS, which means the date you signed up for military service, and RETPLAN, your retirement plan. On the bottom of your pay stub, smaller boxes display details of your leave days balance; and your federal tax information, including FICA, marital status and any exemptions. Finally, you'll see Thrift Savings Plan (TSP) contributions.
