Please don't forget to turn clocks back one hour on November 1st at 2am!

Today's gospel reading takes us back to the very first teachings of Jesus Christ in Galilee, and, in particular, to the Sermon on the Mount in St. Luke's Abridged version of it. The short reading deals with loving one's enemies. Do unto others as you would that people should do unto you. If you love only those who love you, if you do good only to those who do good to you, if you lend only to those who lend to you, you act no differently from sinners themselves, and nothing more. It is your enemies you must love, you must do good to them, and lend to them, for only in this way will you show yourselves to be children of God, who himself extends his goodness to those who are evil.
