Dear Dr. Kumar,

“Sustainable Peace for Growth” I extend my heartfelt best wishes to all of you for the successful organization of this international conference on such a significant theme. In the present global context, this subject is highly relevant, as it not only determines the direction of development but also paves the way for a sustainable and balanced future for humanity.

The revered Guru’s teachings always inspire us that “peace is not merely the result of external circumstances, but it emerges from the inner discipline of an individual, the purity of values, and the balance of life principles.” When an individual cultivates peace self-restraint, and goodwill within, only then can they contribute towards establishing lasting peace and prosperity in society and the world. It is on the foundation of this inner peace that the true path of sustainable development is laid.

This conference will serve as a strong platform for dialogue, exchange of experiences, and innovative perspectives. The outcomes derived from it will not only enrich the academic domain but will also contribute significantly toward bringing positive change at both societal and global levels.

I pray to the Almighty that this event is completely successful and that all participants gain new energy, direction, and inspiration through it.
