

Sailor Portuguese Water Dogs

Once born, I observe the puppies carefully to determine what kind of environment they will do the best in. Every puppy is different and so is every home. All of these observations, as well as information from each prospective new family and temperament test results, will be considered in order to place the puppies in their forever homes.

Please complete all questions—there are no wrong answers. Your honest answers to these questions will help me make the best placements for the puppies.
