During said meeting, the Administrator and the officers of PEP shall present:

a report of the accomplishments for the preceding year

a report on operations and programming anticipated for the coming year a statement of PEP's financial condition and annual change of financial position any other organizational matters as requested by the President.

Notice of Meetings

The Secretary shall provide notice of all meetings, regular or special, to each Board member specifying the date, time, location, and relevant hyperlink (if any) and delivered not less than two nor more than thirty days before the meeting.

Article VI. Officers and Staff

Officers

The officers shall be the President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer, and Development Officer. The Board of Directors may elect additional officers or combine positions as they deem beneficial.

The members of the Board may at their discretion designate the immediate past president as the President Emeritus, who shall continue to be a member of the Board of Directors for purposes of determining quorum counts and in general to participate as a voting member to the extent he or she prefers to do so, until and unless he or she becomes unwilling or unable to do so.

Powers of the Officers

The President shall be the chief executive officer of Promoting Enduring Peace and shall be responsible for the direction of its affairs, to be carried out by staff and volunteers as approved by the Board. The Development Officer shall be concerned with organizational development, membership, and fundraising. The other officers shall have the powers and perform the duties that customarily pertain to their respective offices, and as may from time to time be prescribed by the Board of Directors.

Election of Officers

Officers shall be elected by the Board members immediately following the annual meeting. A vacancy of any officer's position may be filled by the Board of Directors at any duly called meeting by a majority vote.

As soon as is convenient in the President's judgment after the annual meeting of members, the Board of Directors shall elect the officers of Promoting Enduring Peace and shall conduct such other business as may seem necessary or as may be directed by a majority of the members of the Board. In each case, the President shall set the terms, conditions, and title of office in consultation with those who will serve as officers.

Article VII. Staff and Committees

Administration and Staff

Upon approval of the Board of Directors, the President may hire or retain one or more persons qualified to serve as staff members and who shall not be voting Board members. The most senior staff member shall be addressed as the Administrator or another title proposed by the President and agreeable to that staff member.

The Administrator shall undertake to accomplish the duties assigned by the President and the Board and shall carry out or supervise day-to-day operations and shall represent the interests of the staff and volunteers.

Committees

With the concurrence of the Board, the President may appoint from time to time such standing or temporary committees as deemed advisable, and each such committee shall exercise powers and perform duties as may be conferred upon it.

Advisory Council

There shall be a standing committee called the Advisory Council whose members shall be invited and appointed by the President.

Its membership shall be invited from among the distinguished members of the movements for sustainable peace, social justice, and environmental harmony.

Also, past Gandhi Peace Award laureates and other individuals who in significant ways are deemed to be qualified to advise Promoting Enduring Peace concerning its activities and programs and are willing to do so shall be considered for membership.

Also, past members of the Board of Directors and past staff persons shall be invited to become members of said Advisory Council by reason of their service.

Advisory Council members shall be entitled to participate in any meeting of Promoting Enduring Peace in a non-voting advisory capacity.

The powers of the Advisory Council shall be to advise the Board of Directors as requested by the President, who shall chair its meetings.

Article VIII. Specifications, Limitations, and Ethics

Fiscal Year

The fiscal year of Promoting Enduring Peace shall begin on January 1 and end on December 31.

Uses of Funds and Spending Limits

The funds of Promoting Enduring Peace are to be used only for expenditures and investments specifically approved in advance by the Board of Directors, and all such expenditures and investments shall be intended to directly or indirectly advance the purposes stated in Section 1 of Article I of these Bylaws.

No officer or staff person may initiate a program requiring the expenditure of funds of Promoting Enduring Peace without the prior authorization of the Board.

No more than ten percent (10%) of the principal amount of the investment funds of Promoting Enduring Peace shall be withdrawn from said funds during any fiscal year unless otherwise authorized by a unanimous vote minus one of all Board members present in person or by electronic means. Donations and other non-investment income received during the fiscal year that such withdrawal is made shall be exempt from said limitation.

No funds shall be paid at any time to any Board member for services as such, but direct expenses may be reimbursed, and fees may be paid for services not related to being a member of the Board.

Between Board meetings, three officers or two officers plus the Administrator may endorse declarations, cosponsorships, and petitions in the name of Promoting Enduring Peace as long as doing so does not compromise PEP's perceived or actual independent status or standing.

Any such endorsement shall be reported immediately to the full Board during a Board meeting or prior to that via electronic means. If two or more members object, by electronic means or otherwise, the matter shall be tabled until the following Board meeting.

Code of Ethics

The Board of Directors shall adopt and maintain PEP's Code of Ethics and Responsibility, to which all members of the Board, staff persons, and other duly authorized agents of Promoting Enduring Peace shall subscribe in writing, signed copies of which shall be made available upon request.

Liability Insurance

Promoting Enduring Peace shall insure each Board member, officer, and paid staff person against personal liability related to participation in its activities and programs, except for liability incurred due to illegal acts or violations of the aforesaid Code of Ethics.

Reports

Promoting Enduring Peace shall prepare, present, and make available to anyone by request the annual financial report as described herein, in addition to such reports as may be required to maintain its status as a tax exempt organization and grantee and to comply with the relevant provisions in these Bylaws and with any agreements made between Promoting Enduring Peace and any funding source or governmental authority.

Transparency

All documents of a financial nature available to the Board of Directors shall be available to any person upon written request to the President naming specific documents, unless granting such request is deemed by the President likely to violate policies or laws protecting an individual's rights of privacy.

Article IX. Amendments

Amendments

Any member of the Board may propose during any regular meeting of the Board any amendment to these Bylaws, which shall be considered at the meeting of the Board held subsequent to the presentation of said proposed amendment.

Enactment of Amendments

An amendment shall be considered enacted and in force upon a unanimous affirmative vote minus one of all Board members present in person or by electronic means minus one.

Article X Dissolution

Promoting Enduring Peace may be dissolved only as provided herein and in accordance with and as provided in the Certificate of Incorporation and consistent with the provisions of the Nonstock Corporations Act of the State of Connecticut.
