

Eat an Ice Cream for Palestine

Saturday, October 9, 2021

Ben and Jerry store

159 Temple Street, New Haven

At 1 p.m.

You might have heard that Ben and Jerry's has announced they will not renew a contract that allows their ice cream to be sold on the West Bank because it is at odds with their values. It's a good first step. Hopefully they'll fully respond to the Palestinian call and stop producing and selling in all Israel.

Do your part for human rights. Buy an ice cream on Oct 9 at the B&J store, get photographed holding a cone and afterwards walk one block to the New Haven Green where we'll gather informally to talk about Palestine and how we can revive the protest spirit of this past May.

They even have vegan flavors. See benjerry.com/newhaven
