To whom it may concern

Ever so rarely is one lucky enough to encounter someone like Alison Nolan. Her ability to hold space, create collaboration, promote thinking outside established norms and orchestrate projects through to completion is truly transformative.

Royal Rehab is a healthcare organisation specialising in traumatic brain injury, spinal cord injury and neurological conditions. We operate two public hospital wards, two private hospitals and disability accommodation. We also run the world's only resort which is exclusively for people with spinal cord injury. Established in 1899, we draw from a rich experience as Australia's longest continuously operating disability support provider.

As a benevolent not-for-profit organisation, we were in the privileged position of being able to reinvest surplus into advanced robotic exoskeletons, bringing this game-changing innovation and technology to Australian shores.

This is where Alison Nolan entered our well-established organisation, one which is steeped in history, where phenomenal outcomes are achieved within a tightly managed environment. It was within this context that Alison facilitated fresh ideas, guided us to reimagine possibilities and propelled us into an unexpected tech environment. Alison was instrumental in forging partnerships with tech giants as well as creating synergies, broadening our reach and encouraging us to think bigger and bolder than we ever dared to do.

Alison has been transformative and if you are seeking growth, a strengthened position and concrete outcomes, then Alison Nolan is the best in class. Please do not hesitate to contact me personally should you wish to discuss further.

Yours sincerely,
