FROM THE ARTIST

In today's world, we are inundated with so much information that it has become a hindrance in how we function with ourselves and with others on a daily basis. My work considers the mental aptitude for one's own intrapersonal development to push viewers in a more positive motion regarding self-worth. By creating thoughts provoking titles and leaving love notes on the back of my paintings are ways of how I challenge the mindset of those who resonate deeply with my work. Although my work on the surface is colorful nature expressed in a fun and colorful way, my background in design allows crucial symbolic definitions in the underlying compositions.

ARTIST'S BIOGRAPHY

VANNA BLACK, a self-taught artist, and skilled graphic designer who obtained her BFA from Georgia State University in hybrid design. Her art displays colorful, motion-filled landscapes and floral imagery that is inspired by African motifs and Japanese Landscape Art. She uses her art as a visual metaphor and message to get people to connect back to nature to enhance their mental wealth. Vanna's mission is to use composition, color, scale and balance to open the viewer's mind for internal reflections about one's own thoughts on the world and other perspectives. She visualizes a world where everyone is nurturing each other while learning about how to be self-maintaining like Nature.

Being an Atlanta native, raised in Ormewood Park neighborhood of Atlanta GA, She connects with her inner child a lot. And Truly believes her childhood community is expressed throughout her art. Vanna is an active member of CreativeMornings, a global media company, of the Atlanta chapter and has completed her fellowship with PaintLove's non-profit organization working with under served children using Art as Therapy.

Vanna's client list consists of Oakland Cemetery, Decatur Arts Alliance, Simon Malls, ATL DTN, Living Walls ATL, Sustainable Forestry Initiative, Atlanta Downtown Improvement Development, Oakland Cemetery, City of Atlanta, Namara Agency, and even Hermès. She has created a few local residential mural and art collectors also. And continues to open herself up for further collaborations and commissions.
