THE FARM

At the very top of Vermont—where the air is crisp, the views are breathtaking, Lake Willoughby stretches out below—Altitude Drops cultivates small-batch, full-spectrum cannabis products with integrity and intention.

From our regenerative farm in the Northeast Kingdom, we grow more than cannabis. We grow soil, biodiversity, and a resilient ecosystem powered by our Icelandic sheep, whose manure and wool enrich the living soil beneath our sun-grown plants.

This is high-altitude cannabis—clean, conscious, and crafted by nature.

"Cannabis is medicine, agriculture, and art—and at Altitude Drops, we treat it with the respect all three deserve."

— Marissa Dunn

THE FARM

Nestled at the foot of Vermont's Green Mountains, where crystal-clear spring water dances through the land, our family farm is a sanctuary of regeneration. My name is Chris Lillie, and here, we don't just grow cannabis—we nurture life.

ROOTED IN REGENERATION

REGENERATIVE FARMING IS OUR COMPASS. INSTEAD OF DEPLETING THE EARTH, WE WORK WITH IT. OUR DUCKS AND CHICKENS ARE VITAL PARTNERS IN THIS CYCLE. THEY ROAM FREELY, TURNING PESTS INTO FOOD, FERTILIZING PASTURES, AND AERATING SOIL WITH THEIR CHEERFUL SCRATCHING. THEIR WASTE BECOMES NOURISHMENT FOR OUR PLANTS, THIS CLOSED-LOOP SYSTEM ENSURES EVERY SEED, SPROUT, AND CREATURE THRIVES IN HARMONY.

A MOUNTAIN'S GIFT

THE MOUNTAIN'S SPRING IS THE HEARTBEAT OF OUR FARM. ITS PURE WATER SUSTAINS LUSH PASTURES AND VIBRANT GARDENS, WHILE THE STEEP SLOPES PROTECT US FROM HARSH WINDS, CREATING A MICROCLIMATE WHERE BIODIVERSITY FLOURISHES. HERE, RESILIENCE ISN'T A BUZZWORD—IT'S THE RHYTHM OF THE SEASONS.
